Dan Cupid Knocks Out H. C. of L.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Dec. 15.—Dan Cupid today held a decision over High Cost of Living.

Years ago Capt. James R. Manners, then an Army field clerk, married a Filipino beauty at Manila, where he was stationed. The bride, who claimed proud Spanish ancestry, demanded luxury. Manners was able to provide it in the Philippines, because living was cheap. Then they came back to the States with their nine children. No servants could be employed. Even the grocery bill had to be whittled.

On the eve of a divorce the couple appeared in court here and made up.

Works Board Brought Live Bunny

Elmer Williams and rabbit.

And it came to pass that members of the board of works decreed a holiday for Elmer Williams, secretary, who has perspired freely over recent flood prevention rolls and other work.

"Get thee to the woods and there forget thy papers and pay rolls," ordered Charles E. Coffin, William H. Freeman and Dr. M. J. Spencer.

"But hold no political conferences," added Dr. M. J. Spencer, Democratic board member, in his sternest voice.

Elmer pondered. He would faint hunt the rabbit, but how to prove

TELEPHONE CONVERSATION BETWEEN MRS. GRAVES HAMILTON AND LESLIE PRESCOTT

"Is this Mrs. Prescott?"

"Yes, yes, darling mother. If you only could know how happy I am to hear your voice. I am just trembling with joy and if I were not sitting down I don't think my knees would hold me. My lips ache to kiss you. You won't think, mother dear, that I love you the less for coming to Ruth just when I knew you were coming home, will you? You see, she was in great trouble with Walter having been shot in the leg and she's expecting her first child very soon and she always has come to me when I was in trouble and wanted her."

Mrs. Sarah Dunning, Indianapolis, Ind., Says She Was Ready to Give Up Until She Tried Todd's Tonic.

"I recommend Todd's Tonic because of the remarkable results I have been getting from it. At my age, I thought, after using a number of Tonics that nothing would do me any good any more, but I had a splendid surprise in Todd's Tonic. It did me more good than I could imagine. It peped up my whole system and made me feel many years younger. It relieved my pains and aches, and took away my tired feeling. The results I got were a surprise to me and my neighbors. I have no more of those restless nights. I sleep well. Todd's Tonic has given me a wonderful appetite and I can eat now and enjoy my meals. Many thanks to Todd's Tonic."—MRS. SARAH DUNNING, 448 N. CONFLICT IS GOOD ELEMENT IN LIFE

Conflict. That's the molten lava of life that molds itself into our progress, love, entertainment. It is existence itself. We quite often carry it to extremes, but after all it gets us there.

It accomplishes what it sets out to do with the majority of folks. It is the instinct that surmounts obstacles whether or no. It is the element of life that stirs us, turns us, makes us fight physically and mentally. It's a good stimulant if not taken in too large doses. But like all good things, conflict is too often overdone. And then it turns to nagging. It becomes the desire to introduce your ideas on every body, whether they want them or not. And when it becomes such an obsession, when it overcomes all consideration and unselfishness, then conflict is a curse and not a blessing, and happy homes and hearts become unhappy.

Conflict is like an out-rushing tide. It is exhilarating if it does not carry you too far to sea.

Mild Conflict

Dear Miss Lee: I am a fellow 20 years of age engaged to a fine young woman. 18 years old. We love each other very, very much. Somehow or other we seem to quarrel quite a bit. We don't really ever get mad and we don't quarrel over two minutes at a time till we are both in good spirits. Please tell me how you would do if you were in my place.

Your separate and individual wills may form part of the fascination you have for each other, providing the conflict isn't carried too far. Apparently conversation will never lag in your household. But there's a possibility that it may become too sharp. But that's up to you and the girl. Do you enjoy these mental encounters? Do you like to match wits? Then I see no harm in so long as you consider each other's deeper feelings. If you don't like it, then stop it.

Theater Flirt

Dear Miss Lee: An usher at a show up town has been flirting with me for some time. The other day he made his advances by writing me a note and asking me to go to the show with him. I answered, and signed my name. We have been good friends ever since. He goes to Butler and from what I have heard, seems a very nice boy. He gives me tickets. Do you think I do wrong by receiving them? He has written me two other notes which I answered, but neither seemed to give him the impression that I was running after him. I hope not.

SUBMIT TOWN GALS.

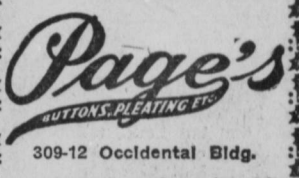

Well I don't know why it wouldn't. You go to the show often and sit where he can talk to you, not paying attention to the show. If you were that boy and a girl came to see you often where you worked and sat and talked to you for an hour or so, would you think she was crazy about the movies? You don't manage it well. Make him come to see you, if you are going to be friends. Don't give him the impression that you
