

INSULL SEES EXPANSIONS FOR CHICAGO

His Vision Stretches City Out Over Northern Indiana.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—Breathing optimism and hope, picturing Chicago as the greatest industrial development in history, Samuel Insull, the nation's leading utility baron, sees the midwest metropolis as a city with no end in sight as to possibilities and invention.

The Chicago of which Insull speaks will include a city which sweeps along one hundred miles of the shore of Lake Michigan from Waukegan on the north to Michigan City, Ind., on the south.

He pictured this city to 500 bankers and utility men, who had made him their guest. He reviewed the history of greater Chicago, its electric, gas and transportation development.

Great Things Predicted

He told the story of a billion dollars invested, the romance of super-power, dollars and brains, rising above the mysteries of life.

In all he offered promising gems of financial achievements that glittered in his talk like diamonds in a bag, and yet he predicted greater things for the future.

Transportation came in for particular stress. His main point in the discussion of transportation was "give it an equal chance." He said it would develop and prosper with the community as the other utilities had "if local interferences" were removed and "economic absurdities" overcome.

Visions Site

"If the other branches of local public utility business thrive under the same conditions so far as regulation is concerned, but without local interference, the transportation business can be run in the same way," Insull declared. Development of transportation was the only "dark spot" in his speech.

Insull visions the site of the great basic industries of the midwest in Indiana and Wisconsin.

"The great basic industries," he said, "will probably for all time be to the south of us in Indiana, and to the north of us in Wisconsin. But the market place of this vast territory, as well as its banking center will be Chicago."

HOOSIER ASKS MONEY

Indiana Building Appropriations Provided for in Bills.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Acquisition of sites for erection of public buildings at Bicknell and Sullivan, Ind., was proposed in two bills introduced in the House by Representative Greenwood, Indiana, both measures carrying provision for appropriations of $100,000. Greenwood introduced a bill authorizing expenditure of $130,000 for additions and improvements to the postoffice building at Vincennes. As reconstructed the building would be used as a postoffice and a mine rescue station.

older bandit. The older one, angered by his failure to find money ready for the collector, said:

Found Envelope

"Where is the turn-in money? What do you want me to have to do—blow your brains out?"

A few minutes later the other bandit found the envelope with $35 Moloy had ready for the collector. Moloy said the men ordered him into the cellar staircase and bolted the door. Edward White, 16, helper, arrived five minutes later and released Moloy.

At 3748 E. Michigan St., the bandit ordered, Enoch Craig, 26, of 6355 E. Washington St., the manager, and L. F. Lines, 3699 E. Vermont St., a customer into a back room. Craig did not move fast enough and the gun holder struck him with the butt. The other bandit took $10 from the register, but failed to find $110, ready for the collector. The youths who appeared before Judge Collins this morning were: Artie Bishop, 17, Robert Day, 17, Ray Jones, 18, and William Brinson, 18.

Hold-Up Charged

They were indicted on charges of stealing an auto and using it in robbing Harry J. Carroll, 2601 E. Pearl St., of $5 several months ago. Day was released on his own recognition when he testified he was drunk and did not know what he was doing.

"The boys told me they were going to Louisville, so I joined them," he said. "We went near Maywood to a house where they got some bonded whisky. After that we went to several poolrooms."

Brinson also admitted robbing Harold Green, 309 Prospect St., and Bertha Pointer, 3650 N. Capitol Ave. Judge Collins said he would rule on the cases of the boys Monday.

A total of $131.19 was taken from the safe of the Indianapolis Spring Service, 832 W. Washington St., on Tuesday night. The combination was worked and the safe closed after the money was removed. Officials say they suspect an inside job.

Boys were suspected as the burglars who robbed the P. O. Tucker drug store at 2102 Roosevelt Ave., Tuesday night.

Candy, perfume, pipes, tobacco, electrical appliances, dolls and toys, worth approximately $200 were taken.

Karl Rosenberg, tailor, 620 E. New York St., said two men held him up in his shop late Tuesday and took $10.

GAME WARDEN SHOT

Hunter Wounds State Official, After Producing License.

Henry C. Hathaway of Auburn, a State game warden, today for the first time understood the meaning of the expression, "within gunshot." Jonas Greek, living near Lake George, was apprehended by Hathaway and two other game wardens while hunting without a license. Greek declared he had one and took the warden to his home, where he produced the document to the satisfaction of the law. As the wardens were leaving Greek's home, the latter fired a pistol at Hathaway, the bullet piercing the warden's ear and cheek.
