TYPO UNION TO OPEN QUARTERS HERE ON JAN. 10

Formal "House Warming"
Will Be at Printers'
New Home.Labor union officials and leaders of political and business circles of United States and Canada have been invited to attend a "house warming" and formal opening of Typographical Terrace, new headquarters of the International Typographical Union here, Sunday, Jan.
10. It was announced today by J.
W. Hayes, secretary treasurer of the union.

The union's headquarters property, comprising five acres of ground and a large stone mansion, was purchased from the late Samuel T.

Murdoch, millionaire traction capitalist. James M. Lynch, president of the union, and other officials will welcome visitors at the reception.

Motion Picture

A motion picture entitled "His Brother's Keeper," will be shown at intervals during the reception, which will continue throughout the afternoon and evening. This picture was produced by the Typographical Union and illustrates the welfare activities of the organization. A number of scenes are laid at the Union Printers' Home, Colorado Springs, Colo."The International Typographical Union spends twenty times as much on beneficial activities as it does on trade regulation," said Hayes. "We are endeavoring to stress the significance of this new trend of trade unionism and to that end plan to reveal the operations of a great international union, to all who care to attend our headquarters opening."

Founded in 1852

The International Typographical Union was founded at a convention in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1852. Local unions of printers were formed in Eastern cities as early as 1875.
Horace Greeley was the first president of New York Typographical Union No. 6 and Thurlow Weed was an officer of the same organization.
Both continued to take an active interest in the union's affairs throughout their lives.
The International Union now comprises subordinate unions in the United States, Canada, the Hawaiian Islands and Porto Rico.

sored by Veterans.More than a score of Charleston pected that in addition to the local Charlestonites there will be entrants from other cities. The Indianapolis Chapter No. 1, Disabled American Veterans, which is sponsoring the party and contest, has sent invitations to the dancers in other Hoosier municipalities.Harry W. Rath, commander of the Indianapolis Chapter No. 1, announces that the dance and entertainment will be "chuck full" of features and stunts. Homer Johnson's orchestra will play. A special stum-per to usher in the new year is being arranged. The board of works has granted the chapter permission to resurface Tomlinson Hall, and that work is in progress. At midnight a buffet luncheon is to be served.
