

TIDE TURNS IN MUSCLE SHOALS 'GRAB' FIGHT

Southern Manufacturers
Suddenly Shift Their Position.

Times Washington Bureau.
1222 New York Avenue.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The tide is turning in the Muscle Shoals fight. Southern manufacturers and business men have joined in the effort to prevent the seizing of the Government project by private interests, according to telegrams received by Senator Norris, Nebraska.

Several weeks ago Norris warned that two large eastern manufacturers would attempt to grab the $150,000,000 power project as soon as the Federal Government opened bids. That warning seems to have marked the turning point in the southern viewpoint.

Dan E. McGugin, attorney for the Tennessee Manufacturers' Association, has wired Norris that his association is sending copies of the warning to every Chamber of Commerce in the South, with a personal letter from John Edgerton, National Manufacturers' Association president, commending your efforts against the grab proposed.

Praises Courage
McGugin continues: "No man in public life has shown more courage and ability in conducting a fight than you on this question. Regardless of how Muscle Shoals is operated, I respectfully suggest that the resolution now pending before your Senate Agriculture Committee be amended so as to provide that power from Muscle Shoals not needed solely for national defense or fertilizer be distributed to the public at lowest reasonable cost."

Edgerton has also wired Norris urging a similar amendment and pointing out that "west Tennessee, Mississippi and other southern regions are without water power and there is no other possible source."

W. H. Proctor, Georgia State Chamber of Commerce president, has wired endorsement of the Tennessee viewpoint.

And the Mississippi State Legislature has wired suddenly demanding that Congress insure that some of the power generated at Muscle Shoals be distributed in Mississippi.

Farmer Acts
The first real break in the opposition to Norris came early in the week when Samuel H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, wired from Chicago urging that the word "lease" be stricken from the pending resolution and that the proposed Muscle Shoals disposal committee be directed merely "to conduct negotiations and recommend legislation to secure operation of the nitrate and power properties."

The concurrent resolution now before the Senate Agriculture Committee be appointed to receive bids for a lease on Muscle Shoals.

The Senate Committee expects to vote on it this week.

Finally a lady told me that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was the best feminine remedy of any and advised me to try it. So I did, and before I had taken all of one bottle I was greatly relieved, and as yet I have had no return of the trouble. It seemed to help me in every way."—Mrs. Carlson, 315 Twenty-Third St.

TRANSFER IS OPPOSED

Judge Has Citizens Savings and Loan Case Under Adversement.

Judge H. O. Chamberlin of Circuit Court today had under advisement a case in which Miss Mabel Carson is opposing transfer of assets of the Indiana Citizens Savings and Loan Association to the State Mutual Savings and Loan Association. Charles J. Orblison, president of the former association, was the chief witness at a hearing Monday. He asked for a court order authorizing the transfer of the assets, amounting Jan. 20 to $23,455.

Jackie Joseph, Miss Carson's attorney, contended the association misrepresented the sale of certificates of membership, that illegal practices were used and that money paid in by subscribers was misused. Orblison said he had paid money out of his own pocket to subscribers who were dissatisfied.

Other Things That Count
Professional skill alone does not fill a funeral director's requirements. His personality and ideals and his ability to instill these qualities into his associates is also important.

JESSUP-ANTRIM AID HOUSEWIFE

Ice Cream Found to Have Nutritive Qualities.

The average hostess, in preparing a company dinner, gives most thought to having the dessert right; often the dessert is a subject of considerable worry to her, and if the responsibility of that is taken from her dinner preparation, she feels a great sense of relief.

Jessup & Antrim Ice Cream Company, 713 N. Illinois St., invites Indianapolis hostesses to let them take over the responsibility of desserts and refreshments. Housewives who have desserts taken care of in this easy and satisfactory way, have much less difficulty in keeping a maid, for rare indeed is the queen of the kitchen who is both willing and competent to satisfactorily evolve the "climax" of a meal.

In these days of attention to food values, it is a highly important fact, too, that ice cream has excellent nutritive qualities. Even an invalid who often is unable to eat solid food is quite able to consume ice cream and it is usually very palatable to a delicate appetite. So, from the standpoint of health and of convenience ice cream—good ice cream, unvaryingly delicious—such as Jessup & Antrim are known to manufacture, makes an ideal refreshment for all occasions.

This company, while producing large regular lists of confections, will also make up orders in special designs or flavors to suit the hostess who "wants something different."

FUNERAL HOME GIVES COMFORT

Walter Blasengym Provides Sympathetic Attention.

"I never realized that it could be such a comfort in time of sorrow to have all arrangements, all worry and responsibility regarding them shouldered," remarked an Indianapolis woman, who recently passed through the great trial of losing a loved member of her household. She referred to the considerate service of the Walter Blasengym Funeral Home at 2228 Shelby St.

For twenty years this funeral home, practically in the same location, has given the sympathetic, careful attention to every detail that brings solace to grief-stricken hearts. Nothing that can be done to add to the comfort of those who have services, either from the home, or from the funeral parlors, has been overlooked.

There is even a room for out-of-town guests, who without extra charge may come here. Blasengym, with many years of experience back of him, has kindly and helpful suggestions in the way of proper arrangements that are at the service of those who may need the offices of his establishment. It also is well known that the funeral home does not take advantage of sorrowing persons in making unreasonable or unnecessary suggestions or arrangements that involve financial outlay.

CHIROPRACTIC PRAISE GIVEN

"Climbs Toward Perfection," Says Doctor.

"Chiropactic has been continually climbing toward perfection in the twenty-eight years it has been known," remarked Dr. E. M. Ryan, known as "The Fountain Square Chiropactor," located at 1006½ Virginia Ave.

"Chiropactic indeed has passed through a stormy youth," he continued, "but under the stress and strain has improved from year to year until it is today one of the sturdiest of the healing arts. Of all the new developments a system which is called the Spears painless system of adjusting, and which enables a patient to take adjustments without pain or discomfort of any kind, gets far better results than could be had through the old systems.

"Elderly persons whose bones are frail and brittle now can take chiropractic adjustments without the slightest uncomfortable after-effect. This is equally true of the little folks. Even babies, with their delicate bone structure can be treated by this method, with great benefit and no harm. The system is gentle and soothing and I am now actually adjusting the tiniest babies without causing them the least pain or soreness."

LIGHT METHODS STOP MISHAPS

Merchants Company Shows Great Results.

"The illumination service department of the Merchants Heat and Light Company wishes to correct a general impression that up-to-date lighting methods are only for the very latest buildings, in which the latest results of lighting research have been employed at the time of the building's construction," comments H. H. Thurber of the company.

"The need of illumination service is evidenced by the fact that almost daily calls are received for advice and suggestions on this subject. The value of proper illumination is being more and more appreciated, not only by the owners of new buildings in the process of construction, but by operators of old buildings as well," he added.

It is well known that adequate illumination reduces accident hazard. More people are seriously or fatally injured in industrial operations in the United States annually than the casualties of the American soldiers in France during the World War amounted to. Insurance statistics, it is said, proclaim that over 15 per cent of industrial accidents are attributable to poor lighting, and the insurance companies further state that in 1924 there were some 300,000 accidents attributable to faulty lighting, and 4,000 of these were fatal.
