

REMOVAL OF TWO INDIANA MEN SOUGHT

Are Defendants in Case of U. S. Against National Malfeasance.

Removal proceedings against Todd R. Zachary, Terre Haute, president of the Standard Wheel Company and Edwin F. Leigh, Marion, president of the Marion Malleable Iron Works, will be instituted by the Government next Monday at a hearing before United States Commissioner Howard S. Young. The men are defendants in the case of the United States against the National Malleable and Steel Castings Company, with offices in Cleveland, Indianapolis, Toledo, Chicago and East St. Louis. The Government wants the men removed to Cleveland for the trial of the case. The trial date was not announced.

Other Defendants

The Indiana men were indicted with forty-six other defendants and the Cleveland company on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust law by being unlawfully engaged in combination in restraint of trade.

Another Indiana man, Harry C. Wanner, Hammond, president of the Wanner Malleable Castings Company, also was indicted, but the United States district attorney's office said he had given bond for appearance at the trial.

It is understood that the case has not come to trial because all defendants, in various parts of the country, have resisted removal.

Ruling by Judge

Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell Saturday ruled that the hearing was to be held before Commissioner Young.

According to the indictment returned in Cleveland two years ago, the company is the largest malleable iron castings manufacturing firm in the country. It is shown that the average manufacturing capacity of the company is 500,000 tons of malleable castings annually. The firm does 75 per cent of the business of this kind in the country, the indictment showed.

The local plant is at 546 N. Holmes Ave.

Thought Brother Was H. H. Tall

THE striking resemblance of Percival F. Tall and his brother H. Houston Tall, missing assistant city park superintendent, was emphasized again today at police headquarters when the former inquired of Jesse McCarty at the information desk the way to Detective Inspector Jerry Kinney's office.

McCarty blinked, jumped from his seat, ran into an adjoining room, and told Sgt. Charles Russell:

"Houston Tall just came in looking for Jerry Kinney. I know all him—I know him personally."

Russell discovered the mistaken identity. Tall was seeking Kinney for forms for missing person cards to be sent all over the country.

CLUB TO HEAR OF PHILIPPINES

Judge Haussermann Will Address Kiwanians.

Counteracting native propaganda for Philippine independence, Judge John F. Haussermann, chairman of the United States mission of the American Chamber of Commerce of the Philippine Islands, will tell the Kiwanis Club at the Claypool Wednesday noon why the Filipino is not ready to govern himself.

Judge Haussermann, a member of the board that prepared a charter for the city of Manila, has lived in the Philippines twenty-seven years. He was named assistant attorney general of the islands, later resigning to engage in private law practice. He is heavily interested in the Benguet mine, the largest gold property in the Philippines.

The mine was purchased by Judge Haussermann and his law partners after all its equipment and structures had been swept away by storms. Today it is the most prosperous gold property in the islands, employing 1,000 Igorot Indians.

TENNESSEE HAS BLUE LAW TEST

Newspapers, Taxis, Busses
Are Cited by Court.

By United Press
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 8.—How the old blue law of 1803 can make the Sundays of 1926 will be determined in a justice's court here Tuesday.

A movement originally inaugurated to prevent the sale of gasoline on the Sabbath grew so rapidly that over the week two newspaper publishers, operators of taxi and bus lines, shoe shiners, news stands proprietors, and others were cited to appear in court for operating on Sunday.

The special committee to look into new sites for the school has several in view, it is understood.

WOMAN WOULD HANG MURDERER

By United Press
JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Feb. 8.—Mrs. Moore Heriford wants to spring the trap when her father's murderer is hanged next Saturday.

The condemned man, Alva Grinnell, is to pay the death penalty Saturday unless Governor Len Small intervenes. He was convicted of slaying Mrs. Heriford's father, William Steele, a merchant at Nortonville.

"I am more than anxious to see Grinnell get the rope," Mrs. Heriford said. "If I could do the work myself I would get all the more revenge."

Mrs. Heriford has obtained permission to witness the execution.

C. OF C. SCHOOL COMMITTEE TO MAKE REPORT

Keiser, Assistant Business
Director, Submits Resignation.

Reports on the investigation by a sub-committee of the Chamber of Commerce education committee in connection with the Clarence C. Shipp heating and ventilating devices proposed by the school board for the new Shortridge High School and School 78, will be made at a meeting at 3 p.m. Tuesday. The investigation was started last week when it was learned that revised plans for heating and ventilating the grade school called for the D-I system, manufactured by Shipp.

Shipp will be invited to attend the meeting, Leonard V. Harrison, secretary of the civic affairs committee, said. It is understood that Shipp has asked various civic and Chamber officials that he be given a "square" deal.

Resignation Submitted

George R. Keiser, assistant business director of schools, today submitted his resignation effective March 1, to Business Director Ure M. Frazer. Keiser has served in his present capacity since 1908. He thanked the school board for their cooperation.

Clyde C. Rixes will take Keiser's place, Frazer announced.

Rixes was campaign manager for Theodore F. Vonnegut, school board president, it is understood.

It was intimated today that the chamber sub-committee probably will not make any recommendation to the board at the meeting Tuesday night.

Further investigation of the D-I system and other types of ventilating devices used in the schools will be made, Harrison said.

The committee, in a letter to members of the school board, said that the committee's interest was in keeping the education facilities in Indianapolis up to their present high standard.

Report Expected

At the school board meeting Tuesday night, it is expected that the buildings and grounds committee will make an official report on its recommendation to find a larger site for Shortridge, farther north than the present one at Thirty-Fourth and Meridian Sts.

All board members are in favor of better facilities for Shortridge, but it is not thought that a site twice as large can be obtained at the price which will be received for the sale of the present five-acre location.

Some doubt has been expressed whether the program can be carried out before Jan. 1, 1929, at which time the old Shortridge site, Michigan and Pennsylvania Sts., will be turned over to the State Life Insurance Company, purchasers of the location.

The special committee to look into new sites for the school has several in view, it is understood.

LINCOLN KIN OF KING TUT?

Says Egyptian Founded
Hanks Family.

By United Press
NEW LONDON, Conn., Feb. 8.—Abraham Lincoln was a descendant of King Tut, one time ruler of the Egyptians, Prof. Henry L. Lawrence, Jr., of the Connecticut College for Women, told his history class today.

Professor Lawrence said that the family of Lincoln's mother, Nancy Hanks, had been traced back to England down to the Roman conquest. He said the Romans used Egyptian troops in the conquest and occupation of Great Britain.

One of the officers was a noble Egyptian bearing the name of Ankh, who was a descendant of King Tut and who decided to settle permanently in Britain, raising the family that later changed the name to Hanks, Professor Lawrence claimed.

Sergeant Woodfill was granted the Congressional Medal of Honor for putting three enemy machine guns out of commission during an American advance at Cunelma on Oct. 12, 1918. Single-handed, he accounted for nineteen men and captured three others and the three machine guns. The sergeant was mustered out of service at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Dec. 23, 1923, after twenty-two years and five months of service. He was born in Jefferson County, near Madison, Ind.

HOPE GIVEN UP FOR WEDNESDAY TAX BILL VOTE

Proposed Quiz of Internal Revenue Bureau Upset
All Smoot's Plans.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Despite eleven hour daily sessions of the Senate which begin today, Senator Smoot, Utah, Republican, has given up hope of passing the Administration tax bill by Wednesday night as scheduled and now does not expect to dispose of it before the end of the week.

The upset in plans was caused by the interjection of the minority report on the internal revenue bureau investigation into the proceedings. Most of Saturday was devoted to reading the minority report by Senator Ernest, Kentucky Republican.

Immediately after Senator Cousins, Michigan Republican, who was chairman of the committee, notified the Senate he would reply to Ernest,

By tomorrow, however, the Senate was expected to be back on the tax bill, again—provided Ernest or Senator Watson, Republican of Indiana, who concurred in Ernest's views, does not reply in rebuttal to Cousins, Norris and King.

Asked if cloture would be attempted if progress on the bill was slow, Smoot said he would wait until Wednesday "to see how things are going, not only in the Senate, but over the country."

"If a filibuster is attempted—and there are signs of it now—the country will soon find out," said Smoot.

"After that we ought not to have any trouble getting a vote on the bill."

U. S. COURTS IN INDIANA SEVERE

Treat Bootleggers Rough—Fewer Cases.

By Times' Special
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—They company claimed a valuation of approximately $45,000,000. Commission appraisal experts cling to a $29,000,000 valuation, but Taylor E. Groninger, the commission's special counsel, and Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom have said that $35,000,000 is the more nearly correct fair value. It is believed the commissioners will favor a rate basis in the neighborhood of the latter valuation.

The jail sentences average longer than in any other of fifteen districts upon which the department reported, except those given in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, which average 289 days. In the middle Pennsylvania district the sentences average only about five days, although fines average $252.

Only 182 convictions were secured in Indiana last year, less than anywhere else, except Delaware, which had 67, and the middle district of Pennsylvania, which had 128. Delaware had the stiffest fines, averaging $617. For the entire United States period, from July 1 to Sept. 30, 1925, had fifty-one cases instituted against alleged offenders, and twelve convictions. Fines totaled $1,000.
