

OTHER STATES SEND HOOSIERS TO U. S. HOUSE

Washington Congressional Delegation All Former Indiana Men.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—In addition to supplying thirteen Representatives and two Senators of her own, Indiana has supplied nearly a whole congressional delegation to the State of Washington.

The Congressional Directory reveals that Representatives John F. Miller, Lindley H. Hadley and John William Summers of Washington all are from Indiana. The State has only five Congressmen, Indiana supplying the majority.

Miller was born in St. Joseph County, Indiana, and graduated from the law department of Valparaiso University. He is a former mayor of Seattle.

Hadley was born in Sylviana, Parke County, went to Bloomington Academy and was admitted to the bar in Indiana in 1889, moving to Washington in 1890.

Summers was born at Valloene, Orange County, and graduated from the Southern Indiana Normal College. He taught school in Indiana, later going to Washington, where he practiced medicine and raised fruit for twenty-five years before being elected to Congress.

Indiana has done pretty well in supplying Congressmen to other States, too. Representative W. N. Valle of Colorado was born in Indiana, but moved to Colorado with his folks when 5 years old.

Burton L. French of Idaho, one of the brilliant members of the lower house, was born in Delphi, Ind., but his parents took him to Idaho as a boy.

Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma was born in Putnam County, Indiana, and graduated from De Pauw University before going West.

E. M. Crumacker of Oregon, also a lower house leader, was born at Valparaiso, and his father was Congressman from the 10th Indiana district. Crumacker attended Culver Military Academy, and went to Portland, where he practiced law, after graduation in law from the University of Michigan.

AGREEMENT ON BANKRUPT FIRM FEES ALLEGED

Judge Takes Stutz Fire
Engine Company Matter
Under Advisement.

Allegations that L. V. Wright, secretary of the Indianapolis Credit Men's Association, and John W. Becker, Indianapolis attorney, entered into an agreement to collect attorneys' fees not only from petitioning creditors of the defunct Stutz Fire Engine Company, but also from Edward G. Sourbier, who bought all claims of the company, were brought out at a hearing in Federal Court today.

The hearing was held in connection with the report of the special master in chancery in the case, the late Harry Sheridan, Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell took the matter under advisement.

Attorneys for Sourbier, showed that he had bought claims of the company for 50 cents on the dollar met after an agreement with the creditors. Becker alleged that Sourbier said he would pay him $4,000 in addition for attorney's fees. Becker said Sourbier later refused to do so and that he, after a conference with Wright, sent bills to creditors.

Becker testified he thought he had a "right to the amount" Sourbier promised him and that he would receive $900 collected from creditors if the amount was paid. The amount was collected after letters were sent to the petitioning creditors by Wright and Becker.

Under Bankrupt Law
Sheridan held that Becker would be able to claim only $750 under the bankrupt law.

The company was adjudged bankrupt in 1925. Becker testified that he did not want to dismiss the bankruptcy proceedings because he then would not be able to collect "certain fees."

Becker testified today that he was offered a bribe to "double-cross" his clients. Becker arranged for the sale of the claims of the fire engine company to Sourbier.

More than 8,000 shipwrecks have occurred on Great Britain's coast during the last forty years.

Rites for Woman Pastor Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Fannie Birdsall Bula, 61, one of the pioneer women ministers of the Missionary Bands, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday at the First Church of the Missionary Bands, Noble and Ohio Sts. Mrs. Bula died Tuesday morning at the organization home, Salem Park.

She was born near Abington, Ill., and was widely known in religious circles as a singing evangelist. She wrote several hymns and was the author of two religious books. She is survived by a son, Le Roy Bula, of Salem Park, and a brother, George Birdsall, Chicago.

Several prohibition agents have been dropped from the Federal department, it was learned today. Deputy Administrator A. E. Harris refused to name the men, with the exception of Julius A. Bryan, Terre Haute.

He said that "four or five others also had been dropped from the pay roll."

It is understood that the force is being cut, in compliance with orders from Washington headquarters, to draw 600 men from the Nation's forces. About sixty are to be dismissed in this district. It is understood, Bryan was officially dismissed two days ago.

Considering Russian Choir

From far away across the seas, in striking costumes of many colors, the Russian Symphony Choir gave to those of Indianapolis who were fortunate enough to be present a most unique and impressive choral concert at Cadle Tabernacle last night.

Striking though the costumes were, they were not half as impressive as the exquisite offerings of their wearers in a program encompassing the complete range of choral effort. From the deepest and most majestic strains of sacred songs they progressed through the operatic folk songs and lighter melodies with a grace and precision of technique that was a pleasure such as lovers of choral music seldom have a chance to enjoy in this city.

Under the direction of Basile Kibalechich, the director, the choir took on the unity of some great symphony orchestra, with the exception that there was the living human voice, the greatest instrument of music of them all, when it is as perfectly trained as these voices are. One song, a sacred one, "Lord, Have Mercy," brought out the unity and shading powers of the choir in the highest degree. It is a song of a rising and falling chant in nature. To hear that magnificent group of voices shaking the building at one moment chanting a single line in perfect time and then gradually fading away as if you were slowly leaving them and then coming back with all the grandeur of their powers of expression was a sensation that it is difficult to describe. It was the most beautiful choral thing I ever heard.

The Russian Symphony Choir was brought here by the Indianapolis Altrusa Club as a part of their project for furthering their educational program. (By J. H.)

Almost Bursting With Gas!

Thousands of people who suffer from that terrible feeling of oppression after eating, extreme nervousness, pains about the heart, headache, dizziness or shortness of breath do not know that such distress is often caused by pent-up gas in the stomach and bowels.

In many cases the heart is actually pushed out of place by the stomach. Is it any wonder that the circulation is impeded, causing the hands and feet to grow numb? Is it strange that the heart palpitates or "acts funny" at times?

Genuine, lasting relief from all annoying symptoms of gas can easily be obtained by taking Balmann's Gas Tablets at meal time. These simple, harmless tablets get at the very cause of the trouble and help to remove it completely. Be sure to ask for Balmann's Gas Tablets—yellow packages—price $1 everywhere. On sale at Book Drug Co. and other good drug stores. Mail orders accepted. J. Balmann, Chemist, San Francisco—Advertisement.

ICY PAVEMENTS ENDANGER CARS

Motorists Warned About Quick Stops.

Stopping an automobile has never been considered one of the arts of motoring until this winter, when layers of successive snows have made streets and roads of ice, rendering a quick stop at any speed an impossibility, according to Todd Stoops, secretary-manager of the Hoosier Motor Club.

"Numerous accidents in Indianapolis and in the county attest the fact that many motorists place too much confidence in brakes and skid chains when streets are solidly coated with ice," says Stoops.

"The motorist who comes within fifty feet of an automatic signal at the rate of twenty miles an hour on ice, cannot stop if the signal changes, neither will he be able to stop for a preferential street unless speed is slackened the proper distance from the stopping point, and no one knows this better than the motorist traveling along a preferential street watching drivers from side streets slide into near and real accidents."

"Varying street surface conditions necessitates different distances from the stopping point for the application of brakes and the method of applying brakes—also depends upon the surface of the street or road."

Egg Saved This Hen's Life

MRS. E. F. PETERSON, 136 N. Belmont Ave., is positive that common barnyard hens sometimes understand the English language. Four months ago, Mrs. Peterson bought a fine Dominique hen from a farmer who assured her that the chicken was a champion layer. But despite a sunny hen-house and much care, not one egg has that hen laid in all these four months.

Saturday Mrs. Peterson invited company, over the back fence, for a chicken dinner, declaring that as the hen wouldn't lay, she should furnish the Sunday dinner. The neighbors accepted the invitation and when Mrs. Peterson went out to kill the Dominique Sunday morning, she was nonplussed. There, in the next was a white egg and the speckled hen eyed her owner coldly, but assuredly.

"Don't tell me that that chicken didn't deliberately plan to save her life!" Mrs. Peterson declares. The hen still is alive.
