

GERRYMANDER OF PRECINCTS SAID TO BE ON

Democratic Leader Charges Changes Are Not Announced

County commissioners, stimulated by the George V. Coffin Republican party faction, are gerrymandering voting precincts and delaying announcement of half of the precinct boundaries to halt opposition of hostile Republicans and the formation of a Democratic organization.

That was the charge today of Hendricks Kenworthy, Democratic Ninth ward chairman, who carried his ward most heavily Democratic in the last municipal election.

Kenworthy said he had asked the commissioners to give him an outline of the new precincts, but had been put off. He said he fears the commissioners will delay announcement for political purposes.

Meanwhile, a back-to-the-precinct movement is under way in Democratic circles. The chiefs of the movement have been staff headquarters will go to the front-line trenches, on the theory the precinct is the real service center. Russell J. Ryan, county chairman; Joseph P. Rolles, secretary; Charles Welliver, who directed circulation of the petition to nominate Evans Woolen for the senatorial short term; Humphrey Harrington, registration board member, and Kenworthy are all candidates for committeeman in their voting precincts.

PROTEST MADE TO VONNEGUT

consider bids for school 78 construction, was started at 10:30. All board members were there.

Emseley Johnson, spokesman for the 200 protesters, said he was speaking as a patron of the school and with no selfish view in mind. "The primary consideration is the fact that more children can be accommodated by locating the school at Thirty-Fourth St., than at the other site," Johnson said. "The Thirty-Fourth St. location affords adequate facilities for a building large enough. There is no need for an athletic field especially in the such congested district. This would be all right if the building were erected in an outlying section."

Three-Fourths of Patrons

"We came here to let you know what we wanted, which is a building on that site. I am appealing in behalf of three-fourths of the Shortridge patrons."

Vonnegut then said that he guessed "that's all there was to be said."

"We'd like to hear from you," Johnson said.

"I have nothing to say," said Vonnegut.

Kern said: "Give them a chance to say what they want to, so they can't say they haven't been heard."

William Bosson, attorney, said that the residents in deciding to petition the board to give further consideration to their move to relocate the school, had believed the board would welcome comment.

"I am making no apologies for my presence here, gentlemen," Bosson said. "I come here on my constitutional rights as a citizen. You are the representatives of the people of this city. You have a right to consider and criticize anything they might offer, and we have a right to present things for your consideration."

"We have a right to know your reasons for your action," Applause and cheers greeted his last statement.

Bosson said he did not think the question of building the school was one of location or costs, but of best advantage to the citizens.

He then quoted from the analysis by The Times of the situation and a Times article on the prevailing conditions at Twenty-Ninth Street school where Shortridge freshmen are housed in conditions creating a fire hazard.

Congested Conditions

Bosson pointed out that with the school at Forty-Sixth St., along with the elementary school on an opposite corner, conditions will be congested.

"Do you want to take the responsibility as school board members of telling parents that on Jan. 1, 1929, their children will have to be distributed to other schools in Indianapolis in order to obtain an education which they have a perfect right to?" Bosson asked.

Bosson referred to the possibility that Shortridge will be without a home after Jan. 1, 1929, if the new building is not completed by then. The present building has been sold and must be vacated by that time.

Johnson then asked the board again to give the patrons some idea of their future plans.

"I'll give them my views in the papers in a few days," Vonnegut said.

"Then we might as well go to the courts," Johnson said.

"Go ahead if you want to," Vonnegut said.

Minority member Johnson then made the motion to rescind all ac-

KIEFER IS CANDIDATE

Candidacy for Justice of Center Township Is Announced

Announcement was made today that Louis L. Kiefer, 431 N. Sherman Dr., will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for justice of peace in Center Township in the May primary. Kiefer was elected a justice in 1914 and 1918.

He is a member of the Masonic Lodge, Odd Fellows K. of P. and Modern Woodmen. For a number of years he served as Republican tenth ward chairman.

tion and take no further moves until at least March 24, when the site is to go on sale.

The motion was defeated by the majority.

Harry Meyer, a protester, told Vonnegut the board was the peoples' servants.

Not Servants

"We are not your servants," Vonnegut asserted.

Meyer later said that he had "worked like a cur" to put the majority faction in office and was opposed to them reversing their campaign stand that they would "serve the people and work for community good."

Some one in the audience said "amen."

The session closed with Emseley Johnson remarking that the board would lose $42,000 paid for plans for the building.

Kern said that if the building was erected on Forty-Sixth St. it could be erected for $1,000,000 instead of $1,200,000.

The board then received bids on the heating and ventilating and plumbing for school 78. The bids were referred to the buildings and grounds committee and superintendent for analysis.

Protest Meeting

The meeting in the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church Friday night was one of protest.

"Thirty-Fourth and Meridian or Fight," was the slogan adopted at the meeting.

Plans to raise a $5,000 fund to fight erection of the new Shortridge on Forty-Sixth St. were formulated.

The resolution which was adopted declared it is unwise and contrary to the interests of the majority of school patrons to abandon the Thirty-Fourth St. site for the one on Forty-Sixth St. that the board, if it believed more ground was needed, should acquire that adjacent to the Thirty-Fourth St. site on the north, and that the school board be urged to rescind all action that has been taken looking toward abandoning the Thirty-Fourth St. tract and acquiring the Forty-Sixth St. majority.

Majority faction board members were scored vigorously at the entire protest meeting. None of the school commissioners attended the school board meeting to select an attorney to carry on the fight is composed of Forrest Knight, realtor; G. A. Millett, chairman of education committee of Chamber of Commerce, and Albert Pierson.

This committee was appointed by Henry L. Dittmer, elected permanent chairman of the meeting. Herbert King was secretary.

A committee from the Indianapolis Real Estate board composed of Walter T. White, chairman; Knight and David Coulter, was present and promised the cooperation of the board and pledged from $100 to $300 to aid in the legal fight.

Burdal M. Forbes, lumber dealer, who recently erected a new home on Washington Blvd., across from the Forty-Sixth St. tract, announced that $1,000 for the same purpose had been pledged by residents in that district. Forbes, Frank Krause, and H. E. Zimmer, compose the committee that has charge of raising the legal fund in this district.

$5,000 War Fund

It was said that if a fight became necessary $5,000 will be the legal fund goal.

Speakers at the meeting were: J. Clyde Hoffman, member of the Shortridge Parent-Teacher Association advisory committee; Emseley W. Johnson, also a committee member; White; William Bosson, attorney; Edward Harris, a defeated candidate for the school board at the last election; Edward Shelton; Thomas A. Bost, 225 E. Ireland Ave.; Richard L. Ewbank, attorney; Knight; Lee and Mrs. J. W. Thompson, president of the Shortridge Parent-Teacher Association.

Hoffman opened the meeting by giving a summary of events in the last few weeks in connection with the purchase of the ground on Forty-Fourth St. and moves to sell the Forty-Fourth St. site at public auction March 24.

Site Choice Reshed

He told how the committee to advise the board on the selection of sites was appointed and how it did not get an opportunity to function, because the majority members of the board rushed the selection of the site.

He declared that the written statement of this committee presented to the board at special meeting a week ago Thursday after the ground already had been purchased, was practically ignored by the board's majority faction, composed of Vonnegut, Charles W. Kern and Mrs. Lillian Sedwick.

"This meeting was called hastily after demands on the part of interested parties that something be done," Hoffman said. "It was called hastily in order to keep up with the ground already had been purchased, to police today. Entry was gained through a rear door. The safe, containing about $125, had been moved into a back room."

Orphan Girl Here for Meeting

Advisory Committee, he and other members collected data on the site believing the "board was public spirited."

He pointed out that in a mile circle of the Thirty-Fourth St. site, there are 1,000 Shortridge pupils, and that only 640 live within the same distance of the proposed Forty-Sixth St. location.

He said 44 per cent of the children can walk to the Thirty-Fourth St. tract but only 26 per cent could walk to the other site.

Johnson showed that with the annexation of lots along Forty-Sixth St., the board would have only 11-10 acres more than if they annexed additional property along Meridian St. adjacent to the Thirty-Fourth St. site.

Three hundred and eighty-five feet along Meridian St. can be bought for $42,000, he said.

He said transportation facilities at Forty-Sixth St. cannot be compared with those at Forty-Fourth St.

No Money to Waste

"The school board hasn't any money to throw away," Johnson said. "The board has spent $42,000 for the preparation of plans to erect the school at Thirty-Fourth St. In a few weeks the board will come to the conclusion the plans are inadequate. They will be cast aside."

"We want the children away from the building at Pennsylvania and Michigan Sts. We want children in a new building by 1927. We've got to fight. We won't get our rights unless we fight."

It was pointed out the majority school faction said they wanted a new site with grounds for an athletic field, but that this idea had been abandoned.

"If a building is erected at Forty-Sixth St. it will have to have a capacity of 5,000 children," Johnson said.

He said patrons will save $100 a day in transportation costs if children attend school on Thirty-Fourth St.

"The purpose of this meeting is to show the school board that, if they desire to do right by the community and its citizens, that the school be erected at Thirty-Fourth St.," he said. "If they do not do this, let them know that the motto will be 'Thirty-Fourth and Meridian Sts., or fight.'"

William Bosson said building of the school at Thirty-Fourth St. would mean a saving to patrons of $30,000 a year.

"That board is going to throw away $42,000 on plans," Bosson said. "That amount will buy additional ground at Thirty-Fourth St."

Done in Secret

Bosson said the proposal of the school board to buy the Forty-Sixth St. property from Frank P. Wooling, real estate man, who held options on the ground, was prepared and signed before it was made public.

"I blame the board most for its undue haste," Bosson declared. "This, and the fact that they did not present their ideas to you intelligent people. They ought to halt and listen to the voice of the people. If they do this the building will be at Thirty-Fourth and Meridian Sts."

Harris said the "juggling on the part of school board is criminal."

"I'm in favor of fighting to the limit, to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, and money will be provided," said Sedwick.

Cheers and applause followed his speech.

O'Hara said that if "we aren't a lot of cowards we'll not let that bunch get away with it, without fighting to the last ditch."

It was pointed out that the lots along Forty-Sixth St., which the board had condemned, will cost them about $30,000.

Thinks of Dead Baby Sister With God

Mother Who Tried to Save Child From Home Comforts Father.

"Mother, we haven't got any house, any more. Our's is all burned up, but sister Margaret has—she's in God's house, isn't she?"

This is the thought that consoles little Barbara Jean Hagan, 4, whose baby sister, the child of Mr. and Mrs. James Hagan, was burned to death when their home in Liberty Gardens, south of the city, was destroyed by fire Friday morning.

The father of the dead baby, holding up bravely and consoling his wife all through the hours following the tragedy, today is prostrated at the home of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Steinball, and the little mother who attempted to save her baby from the flames of their burning home tries to comfort him from the depths of her own broken heart.

Sister's Story

Barbara Jean ate breakfast at the home of the Steinballs this morning, but stopped to question, "Has our Margaret got breakfast, too—up in God's house and isn't she all burned any more?" The child has told again and again how she tried to get her baby sister out of the burning house, "but there was so much smoke," she says, "and sister couldn't walk, so I ran out and called mother."

Mrs. Hagan clings to the little coat that she had been working on at a neighbor's, and which she had tried to save her baby, Margaret, a few minutes before she left her to go to the neighbor's.

Tried on Coat

"I wouldn't take a million dollars for this little coat," she says tearfully. "Just before I ran over to show it to Mrs. Hunsinger, I tried it on my darling baby and she looked just like a little doll in it. Oh, if I could only have back that moment!"

Neighbors are holding a pitiful relic of the tragedy which they will later give the bereaved mother, the little baby garters, badly burned which were on the dead child's body. They were taken from among the debris.

The Hagan family will leave tonight for Holly, Mich., where Mrs. Hagan's parents, brother and sister live. Services and burial will be at Holly.
