

SCORE SILENCE UPON PRECINCT BOUNDARY LINES

Irvington G. O. P. Club
Speaker Says It's 'Bad
Politics.'

Suppression of information on precinct boundaries by county commissioners was scored by speakers at the Irvington Republican Club, Monday night, in the presence of Cassius L. Hogle, commissioners' president.

"It's bad politics; you'll never get anywhere and you'll make enemies," James L. Kingsbury, mentioned as a candidate for auditor, told Hogle.

Candidates Confused
Kingsbury said candidates, especially those for precinct committee-men, are confused because they do not know in what precinct they live. "Reports are being circulated the suppression is to give insiders the data to frameup and let certain leaders pick the next county and state chairmen," Edward J. Hecker, in charge of registration at the Secretary of State's office said.

"In what precinct do I live?" was the message received from Representative Ralph E. Updike, who wishes to file for re-nomination. Hecker said. He could not reply because the information has been withheld, he said.

Body's Business
"I can hold up this information as I want to until March 31 and it's nobody's business," Hogle replied. Hogle said the boundaries were being prepared in a fair and impartial manner after long weeks of toil and contended the precincts of the candidates may be filled in later. Hogle admitted Warren Township boundaries had been established, following a cross-questioning by Kingsbury, but said they would not be announced with Center Township, published today, because they were not "officially established."

However, he said the other township precinct boundaries would be announced soon.

NEW TRUCKS DELIVERED
Three new three and one-half ton trucks were delivered to the county commissioners today from Marion, Ind. Luther Tex, county road superintendent, said the trucks were specially built for hauling gravel. Each cost approximately $3,200, he said. They will be put in use as soon as the weather permits.

RELIEVED HIS RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. I feared my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured my rupture. The rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find complete relief without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 217 M. Marcellus Avenue, Manassas, Va. I better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are "upured" you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and dread of an operation.—Advertisement.

VICTORY WON BY M'CORMICK CASE DEFENSE

Suit Believed to Be Practically Thrown Out of Local Court.

Edith Rockefeller McCormick won a temporary victory in Federal Court today when Judge Robert C. Battelle indicated that he will sustain motions by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the Equitable Trust Company of New York and herself to dismiss the case pending against them involving $7,500,000, of the company's stock.

It is believed the case practically is thrown out of the local court.

McCormick Sues

Harold F. McCormick, Mrs. McCormick's former husband, filed suit here asking the amount be placed in an original trust fund established by John D. Rockefeller, and held for his grandchild, Anita Oser, 2-year-old daughter of Mathilda McCormick Oser, wife of Max Oser, Swiss riding master.

Edith McCormick, to get the fund income during her life, sought to have this amount designated as income instead of part of the original fund.

The Equitable Trust Company set aside the $7,500,000 as income to Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

Judge Battelle announced that his ruling will not be entered today, but will be held in order that attorneys for the plaintiff may file intervening petitions. Attorneys indicated that such petitions might be filed in behalf of Muriel, Fowler and Mathilda McCormick, grandchildren of Rockefeller, making them parties to the plaintiff. It is expected these petitions will be overruled.

Harold McCormick is expected to take the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago.

INDIAN ORIGIN TO BE SOUGHT BY EXPEDITION

Smithsonian Institute to Seek Traces of First
'American.'

WASHINGTON, March 9.—An expedition that may uncover traces of America's first inhabitants will be undertaken by the Smithsonian Institution next summer.

Headed by Dr. J. Walter Fawkes, chief of the Bureau of Ethnology, the expedition will send a mission into lower Alaska to search for evidence of a migration to America from Asia centuries ago.

From Asia

"There is no doubt in my mind," said Fawkes, "that the first emigrants crossed to America from Asia, via Bering Strait. We must find the remains of cooking utensils, broken spears, broken tomahawks, etc., that they left behind."

While searching for evidence of the first settlers, Fawkes will have several other groups of scientists at work seeking additional information on the American Indian and American food products. At the present time he has an expert investigator in Santa Barbara, Cal., running down "disappearing languages." From a number of old men residing in and around Santa Barbara, Fawkes said his investigators hoped to learn of languages that were used hundreds of years ago.

Fawkes is particularly anxious to find out how old the American Indian is and when he came to this country. "We must find," he said, "whether he came here by way of Australia or by way of Bering Strait. However, he came here, we have the one problem to deal with. Did he come singly or in hordes, clans or in some other way? That leads us into the question of migration."

Maybe Chinaman

"There is one thing which I think is very evident, that however he came here he lived for a certain length of time under an environment which made him an American Indian and differentiated him from other races. A good many people contend that the American Indian was a Chinaman."

Culture of the Indians, Fawkes said, is rapidly passing. "We are on the eve of the destruction of all that was interesting, scientifically, outside of physiology, in the American Indian. Now we are turning into the investigation of the past history and the character of the aborigines when America was discovered."

Fawkes believes the Cliff Dwellers and the Mound Builders, were the direct ancestors of the Indians.

termination of their nonpermanent memberships in September at which time Poland would be elected a non-permanent member.

The League assembly commission appointed to pass upon Germany's qualifications for membership in the League today referred the matter to a sub-commission which will not make a decision until Briand returns to Geneva.

China announced willingness to postpone her candidacy for a permanent council seat until September and Foreign Minister Osten Unden of Sweden, is understood to have notified all council members that similar postponement of the claims of Spain, Poland and Brazil, would be the only solution acceptable to his country. He said he would vote against any enlargement of the council beyond the admission of Germany.

Regrets U. S. Absence
"With the entrance of Germany into the League of Nations assured, its members regret more than ever the absence of some other nations, especially the United States," said former Premier Augusto Dacosta of Portugal, upon his assumption of the presidency of the assembly Monday.

Congratulating the members of the league on the "dawn of a new era within the organization" as a result of the Locarno spirit, the speaker made no reference to the fact that a short distance away the German delegates awaited action on their admission to the League and the Council. Nor did he refer to the fact that the French political crisis may hold up solution for an indefinite time of the most serious dispute the League has yet faced—an internal fight over enlargement of the Council seats.

Locarno Tribute

After paying a special tribute to the Locarno statesmen, "whose work made possible Germany's application for League membership," Dacosta said that the significance of the present assembly session was that it opened a new opportunity for peace through international collaboration.

"The turning point we are now taking for the League is so decisive that we have a right to expect henceforth the realization of this body's highest hopes and dreams," concluded the President.
