Plan 'Ad Ball'; Arrange Kappa Stunt

The Indianapolis Junior League will have a dress rehearsal Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in preparation of its annual benefit cabaret dance, Monday evening at the Indianapolis Athletic Club. Mrs. William Higgins and Mrs. Sheldon Sayles are taking parts in the affair which is known as the "Advertising Ball." Nineteen girls will be costumed as living advertisements. Mrs. Higgins will represent the Betsy Ross candy shops, and Mrs. Sayles will represent a Holland girl in the J. C. Sipe diamond concern.

The Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae Association will entertain next Saturday with a stunt day at the home of Miss Katherine Iden Kautz, 4659 N. Pennsylvania St. Miss Justine Pritchard is one of the four program chairmen representing various sorority chapters. Miss Pritchard's committee is arranging a stunt to be given by members of Purdue, and out-of-State chapters. Other chairmen are Mrs. John Caylor, Mrs. Leroy H. Millikan, and Miss Edith Gore.

That night and I hurried away early the next morning, as I had twenty-five blocks to walk to the shop. Strange as it may seem, this walk was the best thing that could happen to me in my mixed-up condition of mind.

"When I got to the shop Madame Seria gave me a letter from Toronto."

"It merely said: 'Since the Senator has been thinking about her voice, and I have come to the conclusion that I can make of it something that will bring me fame if not fortune.'"

"Consequently, I will give Miss Mamie Riley two lessons a week until she is ready to make her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House, knowing that after she has made her debut in grand opera she will be generous as well as just to the man that has made her."

"TORTENTIO!"

"I showed this letter to Madame Seria and was somewhat muddled by the smile upon her face. I did not know, however, until much later what it might mean."

"HUNGARIAN CHICKEN PAPRIKUS"

In three tablespoons pure hot lard, fry one large onion to a light brown. Lift out onion and add one chicken cut in small pieces. Fry chicken light brown. Mix one teaspoon paprika, and one and one-half teaspoons salt, thoroughly with one pint of boiling water. Pour this over chicken and cook slowly one hour. Then add another pint of boiling water and cook another hour. Add the onions and one-fourth cup of good thick sour cream mixed with one-half table spoon of flour. Pour over the chicken, stir thoroughly and cook for ten minutes. Stir to avoid lumps, then add one-fourth pint more of sour cream and cook five minutes longer.

Martha Lee Says—YOU CAN'T EASTER-SHOP FOR A MATE

Easter shopping today? You probably are. Comparing coats, comparing values, comparing worth in many shops. That's the good way to select and I'm sorry the young people don't shop for husbands and wives the way they shop for clothes.

Husbands and wives have to last so much longer than clothes. Husbands and wives have to stand so much more wear and tear in life, have to hold up in bad weather as well as good. Yet so many young folks are attracted by the first cute trill, and they never examine the material their choice is made of. They never stop to think that in a few short years they will have outgrown this cheap selection, will be ashamed of it, bored by the thought of it. It pays to get the best, the kind that improves with age and association. So that when John turns out to be a great, rich man, the Mary he picked out in his days of penury will have advanced with him will be necessary to him, and sweet memories of their growth together, instead of the "neglected wife," who has to step out of the picture because she could not stand the test of time. Choose well. We can buy mates like we can Easter clothes.

Mismatched
Dear Miss Lee: I am 18 years old and have been married four months. We were starting to housekeeping, and I got a husband that wouldn't get out and get the furniture and place to live, to do what a man should do, would you advise me to leave him? I don't really love him and I don't think that I will learn to love him. Don't you think it would be better to leave him before we go to housekeeping, then have to break up our home? He is another country boy and tried to get me out by his folks to live under his mother. Isn't it better to starve as far away from the husband's folks as possible? Believe me, here is one going to.

UNHAPPY
I gather from your letter that you have a chip on your shoulder that is easily knocked off by this young husband of yours. Since you do not love him, cannot stand his people and his methods of living, then the kindest thing for you to do is to set him free. He certainly can't be happy with you when you are not happy with him. Why did you marry him in the first place, if you

CHURCH SCENE OF PRETTY WEDDING

Miss Genevieve Miller Becomes Bride of John M. Moore—Given in Marriage by Uncle—Reception Follows.

A beautiful spring wedding took place this afternoon at 3:30 at the Second Presbyterian Church, when Miss Genevieve Miller, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Miller, 3130 N. Delaware St., became the bride of John M. Moore, son of Arthur C. Moore.

The Rev. Jean S. Milner read the services before an altar arranged with palms, ferns and baskets of roses and spring flowers. Miss Ocie Higgins sang "At Dawning," "Sun in the Western Sky" and "Thou Prayer," preceding the ceremony. Charles Hansen, organist, played a program of music and the wedding march from "Lohengrin" for the entry of the bride party. During the ceremony he played "Oh, Promise Me."

Given in Marriage

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Miller, wore a gown of white satin, fashioned with a basque waist, and a bouffant skirt, studded with pearls and applied with orange blossoms. She wore a tulle veil arranged at the head in a tight cap, trimmed with orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses, valley lilies and orchids.

The bride's sister, Miss Juanita Miller, wore a gown of pale blue georgette, fashioned with a tight bodice and full skirt. The bridesmaids, Misses Sarah Margaret Moore, Anna Mae Albershard, Sarah Phelps Rodecker, Clara Bell and Betty Alford Stone, wore frocks in the pastel shades. Miss Moore wore powder blue georgette, Miss Albershard, yellow georgette, Miss Bell, pale green georgette, Miss Rodecker, orchid, and Miss Stone flesh colored georgette.

Mrs. Dick Miller was gowned in blue and gray georgette, and Mrs. Mary Trimble, Chicago, the mother of the bride, also wore a gown of blue and gray georgette.

Reception Held

A reception for 200 at the Indianapolis Athletic Club followed the ceremony. Following a wedding trip, by motor, in the East, Mr. and Mrs. Moore will be at home after May 1, at 3550 N. Pennsylvania St. Mrs. Moore attended Butler University, where she is a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority. Mr. Moore was graduated last June from Indiana University. He is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Among guests from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Ellingham, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. John Heller, Decatur, Ind.; Mrs. Mary Trimble, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary James R. Slack, of Brooklyn, Ind.
