

MODERN YOUTH IS WHOLESOME, SAYS JENSEN

Butler Professor Declares Society Revision Is Rapid.

That the youth of today is responding to life just as normally and sincerely as in bygone days, was the assertion of Dr. Howard E. Jensen, professor of sociology at Butler University, before the Local Council of Women at the Lincoln.

Tuesday afternoon. His subject was, "What Ails Our Youth?" "Nothing is the matter with our youth, but there is something fundamentally the matter with our social organization. It is undergoing rapid revision and what seems like disintegration. The whole basis and structure is being changed. In a world then, where family, church, economic and in fact all standards have radically changed, youth is having some difficulty in adjusting itself. It is fundamentally just as wholesome, this youth as the youth of any 'good old days,'" he said.

"When then, our society operates on a basis of mutual confidence and affection and respect, which it must to save itself, especially in the some circle, youth will find itself. "Woman is simply following her work, out into the world." "Economic and industrial conditions changing, woman can no longer follow her old-time occupation within the confines of the home, so she goes into a world where everything is done in a large way in factories, shops or by social agencies. She is just as womanly. She is simply following her work in a most natural way."

Five new directors are: Mesdames Curtis Hodges, Bert S. Gadd, G. W. Seaton, G. W. Glick and Mrs. Frank Symmes. Mrs. Allen T. Fleming is the new parliamentarian and the auditors are Mrs. W. J. Sumner and Mrs. Thomas W. Dennerly.

It is alleged the improvement would not connect at the city limits with any paved county road and that specifications are not as prescribed by law.
