

INDIANA TO BE IN EFFORT FOR BETTER HOMES

Communities to Join Nation-
Wide Campaign, April
25 to May 1.

By Times Special

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20.—Indiana has entered this year more largely than ever before into the Better Homes in America campaign. Preparing for the celebration of Better Homes week, April 25 to May 1, inclusive, communities large and small not only throughout Indiana, but the country over, have about completed arrangements for taking active local parts in this national educational effort, which has Secretary of Commerce Hoover as its president and James Ford as its executive director.

It is already evident that 1926 will far surpass any previous year in the number of communities organizing Better Homes campaigns. Last year about two thousand communities were factors in the Better Homes in America movement. This year it is certain, estimating conservatively, that double that number of cities, towns and villages will be represented. This year there are a considerable number of county Better Homes committees, which will operate in the same manner as local committees.

The aim of the campaign is to help American families to a knowledge of the ways in which housing conditions can be improved, and wholesome home life may be made available to all. Educational programs of lectures, contests, discussions, demonstrations of home furnishing, home gardening, labor-saving devices, home budgeting systems, home play and home music will be included in practically all of the local demonstrations. Wherever practicable, a home is actually demonstrated.

The following communities in Indiana already have formed volunteer better homes committees: Alton, Argos, Attica, Bainbridge, Bluffton and Wells County, Booneville, Brazil, Brownstown, Connersville, Corydon, Craigville, Defoli, English, Flatrock, Ft. Branch, Ft. Wayne, Glenwood,

WATCH SUICIDE DENIED

NEW YORK—As surgeons were preparing to operate on her to remove the wrist watch she said she had swallowed in a suicide attempt, Jeanette Bodau, 18 years old, admitted she had been hiding the impiece in her handkerchief all along. She had been arrested while driving with a Japanese male companion.

REFUSES TO ANSWER

Candidate Says He Will Not Reply to Shumaker Questions.

Declaring lack of belief in "paid reformers," Seth Ward, candidate for the Republican nomination for Sheriff, Wednesday night told a meeting of ex-service men at the Columbia Club he will not answer a questionnaire received from E. S. Shumaker, Anti-Saloon League superintendent.

"I stand for the enforcement of all laws," Ward said, "and do not believe in catering to paid reformers who do not ask whether you will make a conscientious effort to enforce the law, but merely ask whether you are wet and dry. Shumaker says he will list candidates as wet who do not answer his ques-

STREET REPAIRS MADE

Milk Company Gets Tired of Waiting on City.

Drivers of the East End Milk Company today were driving over a smooth, graded street as a result of work by company employees on E. Thirteenth St. between Keating Ave. and the Belt Railroad, Wednesday. The block was graded and a coating of cinders applied.

Thirteenth St. is the only outlet for the company's wagons from the creamery on Keating Ave., between Tenth and Eleventh Sts. A. J. Blueher, company rolling stock manager, said. City officials had said they could not repair the street because of insufficient funds.
