

MISSIONARY TO INDIA SPEAKS HERE SUNDAY

The Rev. Nicholson Will Be Guest at St. Matthew's Church.

The Rev. E. S. Nicholson, who has spent seven years in India, will speak Sunday at St. Matthew Lutheran Church. Rev. Nicholson is home on a furlough and intends to return to India the last of this year.

Rev. Nicholson, though a young man, offered himself as one that was willing to go among the heathen of India and reorganize the mission work that was neglected during the war.

After learning the language and getting the situation in hand he directed the rebuilding of the school-houses and churches. Though there were many difficult problems to solve he was privileged to see many of the heathen turned from darkness to the light of the gospel.

He saw some of the fruits of his labors before he left India.

He, with his wife, brother and sister and a number of colleagues who followed him to the mission field saw the need of a hospital. They informed the members here at home concerning this need, and the result was the gathering of funds which made it possible to erect the hospital.

The Rev. Nicholson, who has faced these many difficulties among the heathen, is qualified to impart first-hand information which is interesting to every Christian.

Program Sunday—Sunday school: 9:30. Rev. Nicholson will address the Sunday School. The Sunday School has been supporting a child in the mission field for three years. 10:40. Worship. 7:30 p. m.: At this hour Rev. Nicholson will address the congregation on "Work Among the Heathen." Devotional Girls will meet Tuesday evening at the church.

West managed the main building several years.

MAKES WAR ILLEGAL

By United Press
WASHINGTON, April 24.—A proposed constitutional amendment to make all war illegal has been offered in the Senate by Frazier, North Dakota insurgent Republican. His plan would forbid all appropriations for war purposes, apparently without a loophole for defense in event of attack from without. The resolution was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

As Recited by Sandy

1. Be in love with at least four people at once. Numbers make for safety in the game of hearts.
2. When you are introduced to a man, ask his name three times—then forget it.
3. Tell him your phone number, but don't encourage him to call.
4. If he does, don't remember him.
5. Give him a date three weeks from Sunday.
6. Break it the night before.
7. When he does take you out, select the most expensive restaurant in town.
8. Entertain him by telling him how many proposals you've had.
9. If he takes you to a party, dance with every one but him.
10. When he proposes, refuse him.
