

MR. FIXIT

Hoosier Travelling Man
Says Policeman Violated Traffic Law.

Let Mr. Fixit present your case to city officials. He is the Times representative at the City Hall. Write him at the Times.

Awakening from a lull in correspondence which Mr. Fixit hopes resulted from better business, the Hoosier Travelling Man returned to Mr. Fixit's column today with an elaborate diagram showing a traffic law violation by a police officer in front of the city market.

The map shows the officer, accompanied by his wife, driving into a safety zone to purchase a bit of nourishment from one of the sidewalk vendors and it is asserted that the officer replied, in a "sassy" manner, to a rebuke for violating the law.

Mr. Fixit believes that the conversion of the north lawn of the courthouse into a parking place and removal of sidewalk stands will relieve the traffic conditions considerably. Of course, there is no excuse for a police officer's refusal to obey traffic regulations. Sometimes we common folk don't know what the rules are all about, but we obey them just the same.

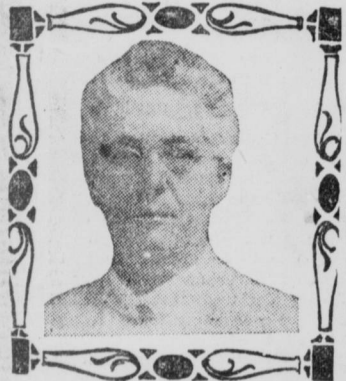

DEAR MR. FIXIT: Just a few lines about Southern Ave. from Shelby St. east to Boyd Ave. It is in a bad condition. Can there be anything done to make it so that it can be used as a street instead of a mud hole? In the middle of it, near Shelby St., there is a big hole nearly two feet deep. Have heard it is going to be paved this summer. Is this so?
X. Y. Z.

There is no record that it will be paved. The city engineer's department will investigate for repairs.

SAYS IT IS HARD TO REALIZE SHE IS SAME PERSON

Indianapolis Lady Had Great Change in Health After Taking Konjola.

"For several years I was in a terrible condition with neuritis and kidney and bladder troubles—I had pains across my shoulders and arms that would get worse as the day went on, so that by evening I would feel like I couldn't stand the agony any longer. But finally I found Konjola, and let me tell you that it has made such a change in me that it is hard to realize I am the same person. This wonderful medicine has also benefited my whole system so thoroughly that I am like an entirely new woman now," said Mrs. S. A. Norton, well-known Indianapolis lady, living at 447 East Tenth Street, this city, while talking a few days ago with the Konjola Man, who daily meets crowds of people at Hook's drug store, corner Pennsylvania and Market Streets, Indianapolis.

"My health was surely terrible before I got Konjola," continued Mrs. Norton. "My limbs were also affected with neuritis pains, so bad at times that I could hardly stand on my feet. I had become still worse off, because my ankles would get swollen, due to kidney troubles, and oh, it is hard to put in words just how miserable my suffering had been. At nights I couldn't rest, for I would have terrible back pains on account of my kidneys, and such awful burning sensations, caused from bladder troubles. My general health had about failed me and my nerves gave way, so that I almost became dependent, for I couldn't find anything that would reach my trouble."

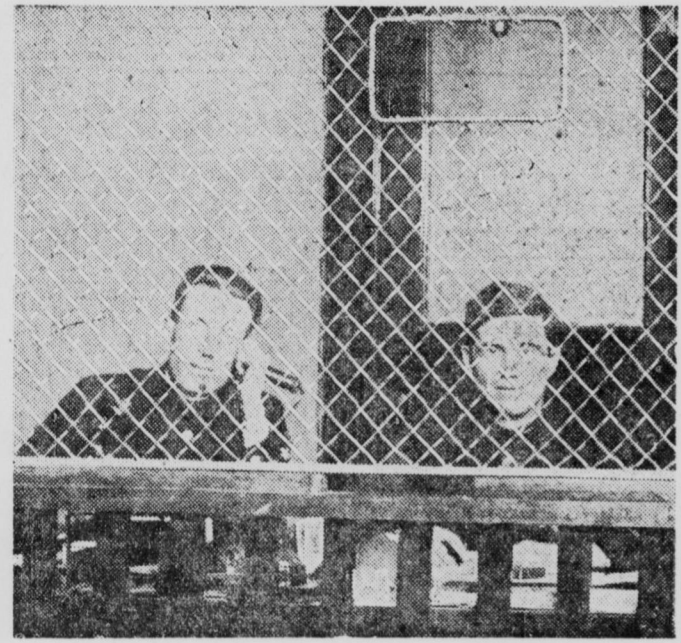

"Well, my husband had begun to take Konjola first, and it made such a great change in his health so quickly that I started on this compound, and as I said, it is hard for me to realize that I am the same person now. Instead of getting up and feeling all worn out in the mornings, I am now able to go about my housework with no thought of the neuritis pains. They have entirely disappeared, and I can hardly believe myself when it comes evening and I still feel active and fine. My arms, shoulders and limbs are free of all pains now. The swelling has disappeared from my ankles and my kidneys are in good order. The burning sensations, which I used to suffer, are also relieved. I rest soundly every night, and that is why I feel so fine every morning. I don't have the pains in my back any more, and my nerves are steadier and my general health is just like it was years ago."

"I have Konjola to thank for the splendid way I am feeling, and I hope everybody who suffers like I did will try this wonderful medicine."

The Konjola Man is at Hook's drug store, corner Pennsylvania and Market Streets, Indianapolis, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Konjola also is for sale at every Hook drug store in Indianapolis and by all druggists in the nearby towns.—Advertisement.

Money Pours in to Men in 'Sticker Department'

"The bankers of the police department," is a title that might be given Trafficmen Kurrasch and Sweeney, who sit in the "sticker room" at police headquarters and receive "deposits" from motorists who have failed to heed certain portions of the city's traffic code.

This month, to date, more than 5,000 motorists have visited the sticker department to pay for traffic violations. More than $1,200 has been collected, as compared with about $2,000 for the first three months of this year.

"Alibi Room"

"I think we had better change the name of this department to the 'alibi room,' as ninety-nine out of every hundred motorists who get stickers have plenty of alibis to offer," Sweeney said as he received $2 from a driver who had parked over-time.

"Sly, you ought to see some of the women come up here and try to vamp us as they tell us a hard-luck story of how they received a tag on their auto," Kurrasch said.

Overtime Parking

Overtime parking brings the majority of the motorists to the sticker room, according to the officers. If they admit their guilt, the drivers are allowed to pay $2, and if they plead not guilty they are slated in court, where they stand a good chance of paying $11. For the second offense the cost is $3 and for third offense $5.

As soon as several thousand of the pink stickers have been given out to traffic violators, yellow tags will be used. The change is in conjunction with the new color adopted by the police department.

BUSINESS MEN TO VISIT CITY

Tulsa City Merchants Will Be Guests at Dinner.

Arrangements are being made for the entertainment of 125 business men of Tulsa City, Okla., Monday. They will be guests of Chamber of Commerce officials at a dinner at the Columbia Club.

The visitors will tour the city. The train in which they are traveling has a baggage car made into a printing shop from which a daily paper is printed. Each Pullman contains a radio and tailor and barber shops.

HOOSIER BRIEFS

Charles M. Forbes, cashier of the Boone county State Bank, was elected president of the Boone County Bankers' Association at a meeting in Thorntown.

Just who owns the Ohio River at Evansville is an unsettled question. A fisherman must have an Indiana license, but a gravel digger must pay Kentucky even if they use the river on the Hoosier side.

The Bloomington dog catcher might be mistaken for a chaser of butterflies since the city council voted to provide dog pound employees with nets.

M. O. Olds, who says he is the brother of famous automobile manufacturer of that name, came out second best in an argument with a large bus near Petroleum. They both crowded to the center of a small bridge and Olds' car was thrown for a loss.

Glen Weaver of Marion stepped from the front door of a store and saw a man driving away in his car. Weaver captured the thief.

Mrs. Eliza Cummins of Waldron, recently celebrated her 100th birthday. Her sister, Mrs. Minerva Thompson died when 103 years old.

Otto Smith, owner of an aviation field north of Linn Grove, is using an airplane to look for two black horses that strayed from his pasture.

PLAN SWINE SHOW

Arrangements for the national swine show at Peoria, Ill., Sept. 13, to 18, have been made by E. J. Barker of Thorntown, secretary-treasurer of the State board of agriculture and head of the national exposition. Judges were selected Thursday at the Claypool.

WAR MOTHERS TO SELL FLOWERS

Offers Coronation on Streets May 8.

American War Mothers of Marion County will sell coronations on the streets Saturday, May 8.

Sponsors of the movement urged the public to buy flowers to be given to mothers of war heroes the following Sunday, which is mother's day. Members of three chapters of the organization will participate in the sale.

Proceeds will go to provide homes for mothers visiting veterans in hospitals, food and clothing for needy ex-service men, Christmas presents and conveniences for patients at Government hospitals and to assist

In erecting monuments and planting memorial trees.

ANNEX AT ART SCHOOL

Opened at Herron Institute—Program Given—Work Displayed.

New three-room annex to the John Herron Art Institute art school was opened Thursday evening with a program including talks, music, a humorous student play, lantern pictures and the first view of an exhibition of seventy-five paintings, drawings, sculptures and photographs, work of the art school.

Miss Edna Mann Shover, principal of the art school presided and introduced Evans Woollen, president of the Indianapolis Art Association, who spoke briefly.
