ENTERTAINMENTS RETROTHALS

Miss Edelle Hickman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hickman, 2633 N. Illinois St., became the bride of Clarence Leach, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Leach of Owensboro, Ky., at Grace Methodist Protestant Church Sunday morning. The Rev. C. H. Simons, pastor, officiated, using the double ring ceremony. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Asel Spellman Stitt, soprano, sang "At Dawning and 'I Love You Truly.'"

The church was decorated with palms, ferns and baskets of pink and white spring flowers. Misses Zola and Edna Hickman, sisters of the bride, were her bridesmaids, and Harry King was best man. The bride was in a blue georgette gown with blue tulle and with trimming of gold thread embroidery. She wore a picture hat of sand and blue and carried a shower bouquet of Mrs. Aaron Ward roses.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Leach will be at home after May 10 at 1229 W. Thirty-Fourth St.

Mrs. Charles A. Pfafflin, 1844 N. Pennsylvania St., after attending the D. A. R. convention and the American League of Pen Women's convention at Washington, D. C., has returned home.

The Kappa Alpha Theta Mothers' Club will entertain with a luncheon Tuesday at the chapter house, 215 S. Butler Ave., in honor of the senior members of the active chapter. Misses Sarah Frances Downs, Aveline Thorp, Julia Brown, Helen Stevens, Glenn Schwenk, Lorene Whitman and Sarah Rodecker. Other honor guests will be Mesdames James Hughes of Greenfield; Walter Krull, Jesse Murray and Miss Sarah Cotton, registrar of Butler University; Miss Evelyn Butler, dean of women of the university.

Misses Jane Lamb, Mary Lesly, Loretta and Marie Weneke, 1512 Ashland Ave., and Mrs. Thomas Griffin, of 651 Livingston Ave., spent the week-end in Seymour, Ind., attending a house party given by Mrs. Warren Laskin, formerly of Indianapolis.

William H. Remy, prosecuting attorney, spoke at the regular luncheon of the Woman's Rotary Club at the Claypool today.

Miss Florence Louise Negley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Negley, 212 Ashland Ave., was married to Clarence E. Clift, at the home of the bride's parents, Saturday. The house was decorated with palms, ferns and potted plants. The Rev. John W. McFall read the ceremony. The bride's sisters, Mrs. Bonnie Johns, was her only attendant, and

Would You Like to Be Attractive?

A beautiful woman is always admired. There are many types of beauty. But no woman can be truly beautiful unless she is healthy. Radiant vitality is always attractive, however plain a woman's features may be.

Many a woman has found her health improved through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This remedy has been taken by women for more than half a century with very satisfactory results.

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?—Advertisement.

SPRING BENEFIT DANCE PLANNED

Sahara Buds to Give Affair Friday.

The Sahara Buds, the girls' uniformed patrol of the ladies' auxiliary to Sahara Grotto, have arranged a spring time dance to be held at Casino Gardens Friday at 8:30 p. m.

The dance is invitational, but Indianapolis Masons and their friends are invited. The dance is to be a benefit to raise funds to defray expenses of the girls' drill team to the Supreme Council session in St. Louis in June. The Sahara Buds will enter a competitive drill contest with twenty-two young teams.

Mrs. Adelbert B. Keaton, chairman of the dance and "mother of the team," will be assisted by Miss Ida Perry, Charlotte Rollinson, Alice Emminger and Cleo Myers.

Reception committee: Miss Ida Elizabeth Keaton, chairman; Miss Marion Welmar, Mrs. Clark Kick and Mrs. Joseph Nelson.

MRS. M'CARDLE RITES AT HOME

Burial to Be in Crown Hill Wednesday.

Mrs. Mary E. McCardle, 65, wife of John W. McCardle, public service commission chairman, will be buried in Crown Hill Cemetery following funeral services at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the home, 804 E. Maple Rd. Blvd.

The Rev. W. H. Kendall, Memorial Presbyterian Church pastor, will conduct services.

Mrs. McCardle died Sunday at a Harrisburg (Pa.) hospital, where she had received treatment from a specialist for eight months. The commissioner had planned to return to his wife on the woman train which bore the corpse to Indianapolis this morning.

Mrs. McCardle was born in Kansas and moved to Attica when a girl. They had lived here twenty years. She was an active worker at Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Besides the husband, a sister, Mrs. Charles Askin of Ft. Wayne, survives.

Her Own Way. A Story of a Girl of Today

HEART PALPITATION

"I've been trying to get a hold of you all morning by telephone, Judy."

"Don't tell me, girl, don't kid me. I know you could dance the moment I saw you. I'll bet you danced before you could talk. And beside that, Jim Costello said you were the best dancer in your own home town and he informed me he was going to take you out very soon. I'm trying to get my work in first, you see."

"Sorry, but you haven't done it. I certainly love to dance and I'm going to tonight, but not with you. I promised Jimmy that I would go with him."

"Well, Judy, I'm not going to be cut out of this that way. Ask your friend Miss Riley and we'll make it a foursome."

"That'll be fine. I think it's Mame's night out and I think she'll like to go. She's rather down in the dumps today."

"Then that's finished and put away. Where'd you like to go?"

"I'd like to go to the gayest and smartest place in town."

"That's the Beaux Arts, you know, Judy."

"Oh, I don't want to go there tonight. Let's go to one of the smart hotels where they have dancing."

"All right, I'll get reservations and come after you about half past seven. Now, goodbye. I'm going to give Seller's a bad quarter of an hour. Until tonight, Judy."

Jerry Hathaway took my hand, and holding it looked straight into my eyes. I felt myself blushing, for I knew what Jerry expected me to say. For once I thought I'd do it.

"Goodbye, Jerry. I'll see you tonight."

The man beside me gave a sigh of satisfaction.

"I want always to be Jerry to you."

I drew my hand away quickly and fairly rushed out to the sidewalk. And then, I stopped suddenly. I couldn't understand what made my heart beat so fast.

He is good looking. I thought to myself as I hurried toward the telephone. I wanted to catch Mame before she went downtown and ask her to be sure to get off that night. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

MORE GAME RECEIPTS

State Superintendent Makes Report for Six Months.

Receipts of the State fish and game department for the last six months exceeded collections for the corresponding period last year by nearly $10,000. Superintendent George N. Mannfeld reported today. For the six months ending April 1, 1926, receipts totaled $146,336.93, against $128,953.80 the preceding period.

Disbursements were reduced from $126,875.91 to $91,593.50. Mannfeld reported 148,266 hunting and fishing licenses issued the last six months, compared to 140,003 the same period last year. Wardens made 839 arrests, resulting in 783 convictions.

PARENTS MUST NOT SHUT OUT YOUTH

It is surprising how rapidly folks grow too old to understand youth. Some parents board up their minds like old houses and grow musty with the airlessness of not caring to understand.

They seem to feel, like Topsy, that children "just growed." They think it is enough for them to know the word no, and the word don't, and the word cannot, without ever inquiring into the purposes and plans of youth. Consequently they are the first to groan "Oh this generation!" when their children grow rebellious and take matters into their own hands. It is inevitable. You can't grow a tree in a flowerpot. It will burst its bonds and seek root in deeper soil.

And one of the most pathetic things is the way young boys and girls have to scheme to meet, to scheme to keep father or mother from knowing, when father or mother would be making more headway in meeting the youthful attractions, and with their superior intelligence and subtlety, segregating the "undesirables" and exposing them so that son or daughter will no longer find them attractive. In love affairs, parents cannot fight fire with fire unreasonably. Young folks are from Missouri and they have to be shown.

Parents Nag

Dear Miss Lee: I am a young girl of 17 and have many girl and boy friends. Among the latter is a boy of 18 whom I regard as a very dear friend. He is a hard working boy. I have been out with him only twice in the six months I have known him. My dad's store is about five squares from our home and this boy goes for the books next door. Therefore we get to see each other quite often. I am bookkeeper for my father. He gives me many favors in large packages and has done many very much against him. He is of the same religion and a very nice person. He is a real friend to me, and we confide in each other. I don't see why my parents object to him being my friend. I don't see anything in him that is bad. I am looking out for myself. When I am looking out for myself, they say something disagreeable about him. He has nice parents and is no himself and they don't seem to lose his friendship. How can I keep my parents from finding out about him?

Mother and father aren't going about this thing the right way. If the young man is really undesirable, then they are just forcing you to notice him and think of him and defend him in your own mind and heart. If there is something wrong, then they owe it to you to tell you about this thing the right way.
