

GERMAN VICTORY ARCH UNDERGOES NEEDED REPAIRS

Brandenburg Gate Scene of Rejoicing and Sorrow by People.

BERLIN, June 4.—The Brandenburg gate, one of Berlin's historic landmarks, is undergoing repairs. American tourists, following their packers, have immediately upon their arrival here sought a view of the impressive arch—only to find it hidden by a mass of scaffolding. The Prussian goddess of victory, sitting atop the gate and for nearly a century driving her four-horse chariot towards the East, has been removed to a studio for repairs.

Hidden by Scaffold

Located at the end of the historic Unter den Linden, the Brandenburg Gate has been associated with all important phases of modern German history. Napoleon rode through it after his victories over the Prussian armies, 120 years ago.

Sixty years later the Prussian army marched through the pillars of the gate, returning triumphant from the Franco-Prussian War. Later, the field-gray regiments passed through its shadow, reviewed by the Kaiser, to return four years later, defeated and disheartened, and to be received by President Ebert with his famous "defeated but not vanquished" utterance.

Has Bullet Marks

Afterward the tide of revolution passed over the gate, leaving it marked with bullet marks. Then it witnessed the funeral procession of the late President Ebert and the triumphant entry of President Paul von Hindenburg.

Traffic now flows through its wide archways unceasingly. But the middle arch is never used. The asphalt covering is gray and dull.

UNABLE TO EAT ANY SOLID FOOD FOR 4 MONTHS

Stomach, Nerves and System in Bad Condition; Local Lady Given Blessed Relief.

"I know about the merits of this Konjola medicine, for it has given me the only relief I could find for the stomach and nerve troubles I had, and now my whole system is improved in every way so that I gained four pounds in three weeks!"

MRS. EDNA McQUILLEN

said Mrs. Edna McQuillen, well-known Indianapolis lady, living at 43 South Oriental Street, this city, during a recent conversation with The Konjola Man, who is at Hook's drug store, Pennsylvania and Market Streets, where he daily meets crowds of local people and explains this surprising new medical compound.

"Yes, I had suffered with stomach trouble for fifteen years," continued Mrs. McQuillen. "I got so bad that nothing would stay on my stomach, not even water. If I drank milk it would hurt my system worse than anything, and no matter what I ate, it would only cause cramps that nearly doubled me over. For four months I was unable to eat any solid foods of any kind. Dieting didn't help me, because I continually belched gas, became bloated after eating the lightest foods. My nerves became unstrung, so that I couldn't sleep at night, but would just roll and toss from side of the bed to the other. This finally got my health into a bad condition, and I had no energy or strength. All the while I kept trying remedies of all kinds and had medical attention, but I didn't get any better. My liver was torpid, sluggish, and I had sick headaches, and spots before my eyes and frequent dizzy spells. I lost a lot of weight and didn't know what to do for myself."

"I read about Konjola and how it was helping people everywhere in Indianapolis, so I got this medicine, and it certainly gave me blessed relief. I felt better in a few days and I kept right on taking Konjola until I got over all my trouble, and now I feel fine again. I can eat solid foods once more, and my stomach is so improved that when I eat a large meal I don't suffer one bit. I can retain what I eat, and I never have cramps, or belching spells, and the gas and bloating is relieved. I don't become nervous like I used to, and can sleep good. My liver is good working again, so the dizzy spells and headaches have gone, and the spots don't appear before my eyes. As I stated in the first place, I have gained four pounds, and along with this, I am feeling better all over my whole system."

"Konjola certainly helped me in a wonderful way, and I gladly endorse this medicine to the public." The Konjola Man is at Hook's drug store, Pennsylvania and Market Streets, Indianapolis, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given. Konjola is also for sale by every Hook drug store in Indianapolis and by all druggists in the nearby towns. —Advertisement.

HARRISON 'HERO' IN SHOALS SCRAP

Favors Immediate Action by Congress.

Times Washington Bureau, 1322 New York Avenue, WASHINGTON, June 4.—Regard less of growing opposition down south to the national power combine, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi is in favor of immediate action by Congress on the combine's recommended bid for Muscle Shoals.

Harrison declared himself when Senator Curtis of Kansas, Republican floor leader, intimated on the floor that disposal of Muscle Shoals might not be brought to a vote at this session. "We should act before we are thrown into relief by the tyro-polished surface on its sides. Since President Hindenburg came through it a year ago, no wheeled traffic has been allowed under it."

The royal fugitive in Doorn no doubt still cherishes high hopes of riding through the center arch on his white charger.

'CLEVEREST' DRY AGENT BREAKS UP BIG WHISKY RING

Youth, by Two Years' Daring Detective Work, Causes Arrest of 250.

Copyright, 1926, NEA Service. SEATTLE, June 4.—To a young man of 23 years, who only a few years ago had visions of becoming a great inventor, goes the credit for one of the most daring and clever pieces of detective work in the history of prohibition enforcement.

For Alfred H. Hubbard, almost single-handed, has smashed the great rum running ring of the Pacific Northwest. He emerges from the mazes and intricacies of this gigantic conspiracy with a tale so thrilling that it rivals the wildest imagining of the fictionist. Not even Sherlock Holmes was ever called upon to enact a more ingenious role, and the derring do of D'Artagnan is matched in this story of a mere boy who pitted his wits and his nerve against a band of super-criminals such as are known to only one craft—bootlegging.

Joins Rum Ring

And here is what Hubbard did: More than two years ago he went to Washington with a "mystery motor" that he believed would extract energy from the sun's rays. A short time later he appeared in the northwest. His knowledge of radio caused Roy Olmsted, convicted leader of the rum runners, to employ him to build a radio broadcasting station.

Hubbard won the confidence of Olmsted that he was made his first lieutenant in the daring game of smuggling liquor down the coast from foreign ships anchored near the Canadian coast.

Hubbard won this position by his bravery, because he volunteered for the most dangerous trips of the rum runners.

Delivers Booze

He delivered large quantities of liquor by truck and boat. More than once he was chased by other Federal and State agents, unaware of his identity. Shots from their rifles came mighty close to him several times.

Hubbard's next move was to induce Olmsted to allow him to keep the books of the rum runners. Secretly, he kept a duplicate set for the Government and learned of money passing to corrupt officials. Three times he was arrested and stayed in jail for several days. For nearly two years he carried his life in his hands and then he sprung his coup. No one was more surprised than State and Federal agents who had been working on the same case.

250 Indicted

And now more than 250 people have been indicted as the result of Hubbard's daring work, including police officials, sheriffs, coast-guard officers, a naval aviator, steam-boat captains, business men and speed-boat skippers. It was Hubbard's knowledge of science that really enabled him to work into the inner circles of the rum ring. Radio-broadcasting station KFQQ at Seattle, which he built for Olmsted, was one of the best-known stations in the Northwest. The story is told—though never proved—that through this station Mrs. Elsie Olmsted, wife of the rum king, broadcast code signals to rum boats in the Puget Sound region.

She told bedtime stories as "Aunt Vivien" to an appreciative audience of children, and it was whispered to daredevil men shoving speedboats south from Canada.

Repaid Rum Ships

In Olmsted's palatial home Hubbard lived and worked—for the Federal prohibition department. As an engineer, he was called in at first to put rum boat engines in repair when they ceased functioning.

And now Olmsted, dubbed the king of Rum-ania, has drawn a four-year sentence and a $10,000 fine. He has appealed.

And in a Seattle hotel room, with two six-guns and a bandolier handy, sits Hubbard, guarded by Federal men, for his life would not be worth a nickel were he to run afoul of one of the ring's plug-uglies.

Two years he has carried his life at his finger tips. They haven't got him—not yet. And he is not afraid that they will.

Moral: If you want action, join Uncle Sam's dry forces.

TEETH HIS COMPASS

LONDON.—A deaf man has been in the employ of the Galesburg city water department for thirty years. He can tell the position of leaks in water mains by his teeth. He developed a system of placing a key or iron rod on a water main, and figuring the location of the leak by the vibrations felt through his teeth.

PRAM GARAGE

NEW YORK.—A new tenement in New York City has the first garage for baby carriages known in the world. It is made of galvanized iron, is fireproof, and has a separate compartment with a door and lock for each perambulator.

ALL FROM SHARKS

LONDON.—A company with a capital of nearly a quarter of a million dollars has been formed for the purpose of catching sharks and exploiting them commercially. Sharks yield hide for boots and shoes, oil, meat, fertilizer, animal fodder, edible fins for the Chinese market, glue, insulating substances, dye and polishing materials.

RETURN STOLEN PURSES

CLEVELAND.—Pickpockets have scruples. Several pocketbooks stolen here recently have been dropped into mail boxes. The Postal Claims Department every year returns hundreds of stolen wallets to their rightful owners.
