

SENATOR DENIES DRY 'RECEIPTS'

Marshall both undertook lecture tours while in office.

It is well known, however, that Marshall's rule was not to speak for any organization having pending legislation before Congress.

Willis Denies

Senator Willis of Ohio also denied that he had been paid. He took the floor in the Senate today to say, "I am not now and never have been for one moment on the pay roll of the Anti-Saloon League." He admitted that "while I was a private citizen I made a few speeches outside of Ohio in wet and dry fights," but "whatever remuneration I received came from the local community and not from any national organization."

The long talked of Congressional investigation of the league started Thursday, coming without warning or debate.

And Wheeler, who heretofore has succeeded in keeping covered the most sacred and feared lobbyist organization in Washington, has only himself to blame.

In his eagerness to expose assistance which he thought was given to the candidacy of William S. Vare, winner of the highly financed Pennsylvania senatorial campaign, Wheeler wrote a letter to the committee alleging activities by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. He also mentioned names of persons active for Vare as representatives of the league.

Senator Reed sought the facts.

Association Exonerated

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, it was testified did not figure in the Pennsylvania campaign, directly or indirectly, nor was Reed able to obtain anything to show that the men Wheeler named were guilty of his charge. Then Reed suddenly decided to subpoena Wheeler himself.

And when he gets through with Wheeler, he has indicated, other officials of the anti-Saloon League from the home office at Westerville, Ohio, a suburb of Columbus, Ohio, will be questioned.

The Ohio officials, including the treasurer, the general superintendent, the assistant superintendent and the general publications manager, will be subpoenaed to Washington and instructed to bring with them their accounts to show donations, contributions and all similar items. Reed will ascertain who gives to the league and gets from the league. He instructed Wheeler to ascertain by telegraph the financial status of the league and its donations during the past six years.

Supported Pepper

The Anti-Saloon League interested itself in the Pennsylvania primaries. And, although the Keystone branch of the League presumably adopted a neutral policy between Senator Pepper and Governor Pinchot, both dries, Wheeler is alleged to have strongly urged the ditching of Pinchot, most vigorous prohibition enforcement Governor in the East, and give its support to Pepper, whom it was testified before the Senate was dry in Philadelphia and wet in Pittsburgh.

The investigation will also include the State league and units on the firing lines. Reed will seek information from the Pennsylvania dry league.

Reed dominates the Senate slush fund inquiry. It was his genius that forced the testimony that nearly $2,000,000 in the Pennsylvania contest, which has shocked the conscience of the Nation.

MORE OPPOSITION

New Organization to Rout Dry League at Polls.

CHICAGO, June 18.—An independent political organization intended to liberalize American laws, oppose the Anti-Saloon League and

"bring about restoration of the rights of the people and respect for the law," opened headquarters here today and immediately announced its campaign would be carried into seventeen States before the fall elections.

The organization, known as the Libera: Temperance League, and composed largely of young men, including World War veterans, is sponsored by L. M. Green of Rockford, Ill., member of the Illinois Legislature, and John P. Hart of Aurora, a former State representative.

BOY FLEES FROM DETENTION HOME

Youth Wearing Blue Overalls Sought by Police.

Police searched the city today for a 15-year-old boy, who escaped from the Marion County Detention home. Eleven St. and Capitol Ave., where he had been held as a delinquent. Police were told he was wearing blue overalls.

Miss Susanna Pray, matron at the home, said she had allowed a sister of the boy to visit him in the office and afterwards the three of them walked to the front door. Miss Pray opened the front door to allow the sister to leave, and dropped a piece of paper she was holding, she said. When she stooped to pick up the paper, the boy darted out.

HEAVY TRAFFIC TAKES LIFE OF ANOTHER CHILD

Grief-Stricken Parents Hope to Take Girl, 8, 'Back Home' for Burial.

Grief-stricken parents and a 3-year-old brother, Vernon, today gathered about the simple bier of their daughter and sister, Cleo Harden, 8, of 342 Taft St., killed almost instantly when trapped in the traffic in the 4300 block on W. Washington St. at dusk Thursday.

Bewildered by the shock, the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harden, were fighting to regain their composure and prepare for the sad funeral rites. They had hoped the burial might be held in Chaffee, Mo., Cleo's birthplace and the home of her grandparents.

"If we can raise the money we'll take her back home," Mrs. Harden exclaimed bitterly.

Confused by the almost continuous flow of W. Washington St. traffic, Cleo stepped from the path of one machine, only to be struck by another driven east by W. F. Young, 5601 W. Washington St. After being slated on a charge of involuntary manslaughter by Deputy Coroner William A. Doeppers, Young was released. Witnesses held Young blameless. The child died within a few minutes after the arrival of a physician. It is thought the wheels of the machine passed over her body. Young was not exceeding twenty miles an hour, witnesses said.

Only a week ago today Cleo was promoted to the second grade at school No. 14, Taft and Washington Sts.

LOCAL MAN SAYS HIS HEALTH IS FINE ONCE MORE

Stomach-Kidney Troubles Gone; Says He Feels as Well as He Did Years Ago.

This new Konjola medicine, which The Konjola Man is introducing to crowds daily at Hook's drug store, Pennsylvania and Market Streets, this city, has brought such surprising relief to so many Indianapolis people that it has become a sensation among local drug men and the general public. From every part of Indianapolis reports continue to pour in regarding the amazing accomplishments of this celebrated medical compound. Just a few days ago Mr. W. E. Carter, a citizen of Indianapolis for many years, living at 1717 Bellefontaine Street, this city, made the following statement: "I had suffered from stomach and kidney troubles for three years," said Mr. Carter. "Even when I ate the lightest kinds of food it was sure to cause me suffering. Nothing agreed with me, and after meals I would have burning pains from the pit of my stomach to my throat. An awful lump and sore spot would appear in my stomach, and instead of digesting, my food would sour, ferment and cause the gas to crowd up around my heart so that I would think I had heart trouble. I would have such jerky, fluttering spells with my heart and get so short of breath that I had to gasp for air. Such food as beans, onions and ripe fruit would only be poison to my stomach, and throw my whole system into such misery that I wouldn't dare think of eating these things. My kidneys were weak and awful burning sensations had me suffering at various times during the day. I was subject to dizzy headaches, black spots would jump before my eyes, and sharp, terrific pains would catch me in the back so I almost fell over at times. I was always worn out, not only in the morning but all through the day."

"I got this Konjola and followed directions to the letter, taking a dose right after each meal, and let me tell you that it proved to be just what I needed. Now I can even eat cabbage, beans and onions, as well as acid fruits, because my food is digesting right and building me up in every way. All the burning has disappeared from my stomach and throat, and the lump doesn't form or cause gas and bloating, nor any shortness of breath. The constipation I had is now relieved, and bowels are regulated, so the dizzy headaches do not come as they did before. My kidneys are in fine condition. Also, the burning no longer causes me such misery, and the black spots don't appear before my eyes. My back is free of the sharp pains, and the whole truth is that my health is fine in every respect once more."

"I feel just as well as I did many years ago, and I will also state that Konjola is the only medicine that ever did my whole system so much good, and I know I can recommend it to all who suffer."

The Konjola Man is at Hook's drug store, Pennsylvania and Market Streets, Indianapolis, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Konjola is also for sale by every Hook drug store in Indianapolis, and by all druggists in the nearby towns. —Advertisement.
