BUSINESS WOMEN PLAN CONVENTION

Representatives From Indianapolis to Attend Meeting at Des Moines, Ia., July 13 to 17.

Representatives from the business women's section of the Woman's Department Club are planning to attend the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs' eighth annual convention, to be held in Des Moines, Iowa, July 13 to 17.

According to Mrs. Olive Joy Wright of Cleveland, Ohio, national president, the formation of a code of business principles to help remove existing prejudices against the women in business, is to be one of the major objects of the convention. About 5,000 delegates are expected to attend, representing 47,000 women in forty-seven states, engaged in more than thirty vocations ranging from medicine to the arts, and including law and banking.

Members of the organization, it is said, sometimes have found a tradition among business men that women in business are unreliable, do not understand fair play and do not pay their bills promptly. By establishing a code of business principles, it is hoped to abolish this tradition and to educate business men to regard their female co-workers as honest and dependable.

Another important subject that will be discussed is a program of education. The federation will seek the cooperation of school systems and leading business firms in every community to raise the educational standards for women and girls in business. The goal of the organization is a high school education for every business girl.

Into the heart of Mr. Robinson and Doctor Flint.

"You know, Judy," exclaimed Mamie Riley, "I thought it was only poor girls like ourselves that have trouble getting along. But it looks as though every individual must have some trouble in this world, be he rich or poor. You say that Miss Meredith has to have fifty thousand dollars by 10 o'clock tonight and that she won't be of age and have the handling of her own money until next week."

"That's right, and if she tells her stepfather what she wants it for, he will not only refuse her but she also stands a good chance of having him appointed her guardian and managing trustee for the rest of his life."

"What is she going to do, Judy?" "She is not going to do anything, but I am." I opened a drawer in my dressing table and took out the bottle with its menacing red label. Mamie sprang forward.

"No, I'm not going to do with that, Judy? Surely you are not going to poison anyone?" "No, I'm not going to tell Joan's stepfather that he poisoned Miss Cleaver just as truly as though he poured a part of the stuff in this bottle down her throat. I am going to do, if necessary, put the fear of God
