

COX INSTALLED AS NEW HEAD OF BOARD OF TRADE

Governors Announce Appointment of Committee Chairmen.

The board of governors of the Indianapolis Board of Trade today announced the twenty-eight committee to serve for the ensuing year.

The committees were approved at a meeting of the board Monday night when Linton A. Cox was installed as president. William H. Howard is secretary.

Committee chairmen:

Brodrusth Elsey, finance; L. L. Fellows, arrangements; Otto P. Deuse, membership; Joseph C. Gardner, house; Edward B. Raub, law; Edgar H. Evans, communications;

Mark H. Miller, by-laws; Joseph A. Kehler, arbitration; William J. Mooney, appeals; Fred Hoke, city interests; L. E. Woodard, manufacturers; James H. Taylor, public health and charities; A. M. Glosbrenner, relief; Charles A. Bookweller, industrial education; E. Clifford Barrett, grain.

Edgar D. Evans, grain arbitration; Dale Phillips, grain discount;

Edward M. Bush, seeds; Charles A. Shotwell, grain inspection appeals;

"The Royal Road to Romance," by Richard Halliburton, published by Bobbs-Merrill. To my way of thinking the most human and romantic story of travel ever published.

"The Diana of a Young Lady of Fashion," by Cleone Knope, published by D. Appleton & Co. Probably one of the gayest burlesques of the season. Delightful fun.

"Pig Iron," by Charles G. Norris, published by E. P. Dutton & Co. Another one that we are talking about.

"The Nest," by Anne Douglas Sedgwick, published by Houghton Mifflin Company. Collection of short stories that are real.

"Wild Geese," by Martha Ostenson, published by Dodd, Mead. Has been one of the best sellers for months.

And be sure and take along a copy of Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass." Here is joy of thoughts on life and nature which will live in the face of much argument.

Also take along a copy of that little thinking machine, called "Be Quiet, I'm Talking," by Max Ehrmann, published by the Indiana Publishing Company. This will make you think.

I do not hesitate to include these books on the list for both those who actually go on a vacation or those of us who stay home.

You Play Golf

Received the following of interest to golfers:

"There are thousands of golfers to whom the bunker is home. There are thousands who spend more time in one bunker or another than they ever think of spending by their fire-sides. The fairway is strange country where they feel horribly ill at ease and out of place. They will frequently get into the first bunkers in sight and hardly miss one around the course. It is like Old Home Week when they reach the sand."

"In playing from the sand there

George Hutsell, motor bus examiner for the public service commission, Wednesday will hear evidence in the petition of Joseph B. Day and others to require the People's Motor Coach Company to extend its line to Day's Casino, south of the city.

KONJOLA BROUGHT AN IMPROVEMENT ALL THRU SYSTEM

Local Man Tells How the New Medicine Restored

Him to Health

Another case of a complete disordered system in which this celebrated medical compound, Konjola, brought surprising results was described a few days ago by Mr. Charles Bain, well-known Indianapolis citizen, living at 2001 West New York Street, this city, while talking with The Konjola Man, who is at Hook's drug store, Pennsylvania and Market Streets, Indianapolis, where crowds are calling daily to hear him explain this new medicine.

"My stomach was disordered; liver was sluggish and torpid, and my kidneys were affected, and yet, as bad as my trouble had become,

this Konjola medicine has given me wonderful relief, so that I can feel an improvement all over my system," said Mr. Bain.

"My stomach caused me the worst suffering. If I ate only a few bites

I would have a full feeling, and would bloat and belch up sour liquid.

My heart would burn like fire, and when I tried to sleep at nights I would roll and toss for hours, feel tired and all fagged out in the morning when I got up. I was nervous at all times, and my kidneys got so weak I had sharp pains in my back and my limbs hurt from my knees down to the end of my toes. The liver trouble brought on dizzy headaches, bilious spells, and I lost weight and strength. I tried almost everything I heard of, but I seemed to get worse instead of better.

"Well, right at that time my wife

began taking Konjola and she said it was helping her so much, and she persuaded me to take this medicine.

By the time I had taken the second bottle I felt better than I did in years. Now my nervousness is all gone, stomach is in wonderful condition, and I've gained a lot of weight. Konjola took effect on my whole system in just a few days. I can eat like a hungry child now,

so naturally my weight and strength is coming back. My food is digesting properly, and I don't suffer from gas and bloating like I used to. My kidneys are in good condition, and the pains in my back and limbs are relieved. I don't have the dizzy headaches and bilious spells any more because my liver is in fine

working order.

"Konjola did me a wonderful lot of good, and so I am glad to endorse

this medicine."

The Konjola Man is at Hook's

drug store, Pennsylvania and Market Streets, Indianapolis, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Konjola is for sale by all Hook

drug stores and by druggists in each town throughout this section. Advertisement.

WEEKLY BOOK REVIEW

Helping Vacationist to Get Hold of Camp Reading

Praise for Norris

By Walter D. Hickman
They say they are taking vacations. When, where and how, they are vacationing.

One of my letters from a reader states that he is going to the Indiana lakes and wants me to list some summer reading.

Another one declares that his vacations are on week ends taking little motor journeys in busses to places of interest. He, too, has time to read and wants a reading list.

And so I will try to do what I should have done earlier in the season. In all truth, sometimes you know I feel like I am on a vacation even when I am working.

And so here is my summer vacation reading list:

"The Private Life of Helen of Troy," by John Erskine, published by Bobbs-Merrill. Here is a best seller and should be. You can find completely fashionable if you take this one along. They are all talking about this one. It is a joy.

"An American Tragedy," by Theodore Dreiser, published by Livright. Heavy reading in two volumes but so worth while it should be in every strong thinking person's library.

"The Hounds of Spring," by Sylvia Thompson, published by Little, Brown. One of the real stories coming out of the war. Powerful character drawing in weakness and strength.

"Mantrap," by Sinclair Lewis, published by Harcourt, Brace & Co. One of the leaders.

"The Royal Road to Romance," by Richard Halliburton, published by Bobbs-Merrill. To my way of thinking the most human and romantic story of travel ever published.

"The Diana of a Young Lady of Fashion," by Cleone Knope, published by D. Appleton & Co. Probably one of the gayest burlesques of the season. Delightful fun.

"Pig Iron," by Charles G. Norris, published by E. P. Dutton & Co. Another one that we are talking about.

"The Nest," by Anne Douglas Sedgwick, published by Houghton Mifflin Company. Collection of short stories that are real.

"Wild Geese," by Martha Ostenson, published by Dodd, Mead. Has been one of the best sellers for months.

And be sure and take along a copy of Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass."

Here is joy of thoughts on life and nature which will live in the face of much argument.

Also take along a copy of that little thinking machine, called "Be Quiet, I'm Talking," by Max Ehrmann, published by the Indiana Publishing Company. This will make you think.

I do not hesitate to include these books on the list for both those who actually go on a vacation or those of us who stay home.

You Play Golf

Received the following of interest to golfers:

"There are thousands of golfers to whom the bunker is home. There are thousands who spend more time in one bunker or another than they ever think of spending by their fire-sides. The fairway is strange country where they feel horribly ill at ease and out of place. They will frequently get into the first bunkers in sight and hardly miss one around the course. It is like Old Home Week when they reach the sand."

"In playing from the sand there

PLAN COUNTY REUNION

Rush-Fayette Association to Have Annual Gathering

Members of the Rush-Fayette Association, persons who formerly lived in those two counties, will hold their twenty-eighth annual reunion Sunday, July 18, at Garfield Park. A basket dinner at noon and speeches by Fred Van Nuyts, formerly of Rush County, and Franklin McCray, ex-resident of Fayette County, will be features.

Don't be afraid of the shot. Slash through with abandon and enthusiasm, defying fate and gravity. The main idea is to reach the open again and not to be too fancy." From "The Duffer's Handbook of Golf," by Grantland Rice and Clare Briggs. ($3.50.)

through that spot under the ball. You lift as the sand is reached. You will have a much better chance to emerge if you lighten your grip to give the wrists their chance and don't hurry the blow. There is only a slight turn of the body on this shot, and don't stop the club head in the sand. Let it gouge its way on through.

Don't be afraid of the shot. Slash through with abandon and enthusiasm, defying fate and gravity. The main idea is to reach the open again and not to be too fancy." From "The Duffer's Handbook of Golf," by Grantland Rice and Clare Briggs. ($3.50.)

through that spot under the ball. You lift as the sand is reached. You will have a much better chance to emerge if you lighten your grip to give the wrists their chance and don't hurry the blow. There is only a slight turn of the body on this shot, and don't stop the club head in the sand. Let it gouge its way on through.

Don't be afraid of the shot. Slash through with abandon and enthusiasm, defying fate and gravity. The main idea is to reach the open again and not to be too fancy." From "The Duffer's Handbook of Golf," by Grantland Rice and Clare Briggs. ($3.50.)

through that spot under the ball. You lift as the sand is reached. You will have a much better chance to emerge if you lighten your grip to give the wrists their chance and don't hurry the blow. There is only a slight turn of the body on this shot, and don't stop the club head in the sand. Let it gouge its way on through.

Don't be afraid of the shot. Slash through with abandon and enthusiasm, defying fate and gravity. The main idea is to reach the open again and not to be too fancy." From "The Duffer's Handbook of Golf," by Grantland Rice and Clare Briggs. ($3.50.)

through that spot under the ball. You lift as the sand is reached. You will have a much better chance to emerge if you lighten your grip to give the wrists their chance and don't hurry the blow. There is only a slight turn of the body on this shot, and don't stop the club head in the sand. Let it gouge its way on through.

Don't be afraid of the shot. Slash through with abandon and enthusiasm, defying fate and gravity. The main idea is to reach the open again and not to be too fancy." From "The Duffer's Handbook of Golf," by Grantland Rice and Clare Briggs. ($3.50.)

through that spot under the ball. You lift as the sand is reached. You will have a much better chance to emerge if you lighten your grip to give the wrists their chance and don't hurry the blow. There is only a slight turn of the body on this shot, and don't stop the club head in the sand. Let it gouge its way on through.

Don't be afraid of the shot. Slash through with abandon and enthusiasm, defying fate and gravity. The main idea is to reach the open again and not to be too fancy." From "The Duffer's Handbook of Golf," by Grantland Rice and Clare Briggs. ($3.50.)

through that spot under the ball. You lift as the sand is reached. You will have a much better chance to emerge if you lighten your grip to give the wrists their chance and don't hurry the blow. There is only a slight turn of the body on this shot, and don't stop the club head in the sand. Let it gouge its way on through.

Don't be afraid of the shot. Slash through with abandon and enthusiasm, defying fate and gravity. The main idea is to reach the open again and not to be too fancy." From "The Duffer's Handbook of Golf," by Grantland Rice and Clare Briggs. ($3.50.)

through that spot under the ball. You lift as the sand is reached. You will have a much better chance to emerge if you lighten your grip to give the wrists their chance and don't hurry the blow. There is only a slight turn of the body on this shot, and don't stop the club head in the sand. Let it gouge its way on through.

Don't be afraid of the shot. Slash through with abandon and enthusiasm, defying fate and gravity. The main idea is to reach the open again and not to be too fancy." From "The Duffer's Handbook of Golf," by Grantland Rice and Clare Briggs. ($3.50.)

through that spot under the ball. You lift as the sand is reached. You will have a much better chance to emerge if you lighten your grip to give the wrists their chance and don't hurry the blow. There is only a slight turn of the body on this shot, and don't stop the club head in the sand. Let it gouge its way on through.

Don't be afraid of the shot. Slash through with abandon and enthusiasm, defying fate and gravity. The main idea is to reach the open again and not to be too fancy." From "The Duffer's Handbook of Golf," by Grantland Rice and Clare Briggs. ($3.50.)

through that spot under the ball. You lift as the sand is reached. You will have a much better chance to emerge if you lighten your grip to give the wrists their chance and don't hurry the blow. There is only a slight turn of the body on this shot, and don't stop the club head in the sand. Let it gouge its way on through.

Don't be afraid of the shot. Slash through with abandon and enthusiasm, defying fate and gravity. The main idea is to reach the open again and not to be too fancy." From "The Duffer's Handbook of Golf," by Grantland Rice and Clare Briggs. ($3.50.)

through that spot under the ball. You lift as the sand is reached. You will have a much better chance to