Desires Constitutionality of Act to Be Decided by Court.

The State board of election commissioners was looking for a litigant today. The board desires an immediate test in the State Supreme Court of the validity of the registration act passed by the 1925 Legislature, the basis of registration of voters for the November election.

The act may be unconstitutional, according to a letter Commissioner W. W. Spencer, 204 Castle Hall, has written to Frank E. Martindale, Marshall County Democratic chairman.

The law provides that the poll lists of those who voted in the 1924 election shall serve as the registration list for the fall elections, only first voters and persons who have changed precincts since the last general election being required to register.

This law was passed as a supplemental measure to the existing elec-

Hatfield Company Force Has Picnic

Employees of the Frank Hatfield Company, authorized Ford dealer, and their families, who left all thoughts of spark plugs and balloon tires behind and frolicked on their annual picnic at Walnut Gardens, Sunday, July 18. Forty employees have been present at the picnics for the last six years, a check showed.

tion law, the intention being to simplify the registration process.

The title of the law was not amended, however, to cover the supplemental provisions, and for this reason the law may have been invalidated according to Spencer. The State constitution requires that reference be made in the title to all subject-matter of the law.

The question of validity was raised by Martindale, and Spencer's opinion was given in reply. The question brought about the hunt for a litigant to take the matter to the Supreme Court.

If found invalid, the law may be validated by a special session of the Legislature.

When the validity question first arose, it was suggested that both political parties agree not to attack the law, but Spencer pointed out that this agreement would not be reliable, because any voter could throw the election into confusion by filing a suit against the law at any time.

JAIL SCANDALS TALKED

Chicago Civic Leaders Meet With Judge McGoorty.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Civic leaders met with Judge John P. McGoorty today to discuss conditions at the Cook County jail. Alleged bootlegging within its walls, intoxicated prisoners and guards, brawls and fights between prisoners, and an attempted dynamite escape have kept the jail in the limelight for several weeks past.

Judge McGoorty said he would make public recommendations tomorrow which he expects the sheriff to follow.
