Thought Asthma Would Smother Her

Another Indianapolis Woman Reports Trouble Gone. Sleeps All Night Now.

How to get rid of asthma and severe bronchial coughs is convincingly told in a letter written by Mrs. E. J. Bain, 1902 W. Vermont St., Indianapolis, Ind. She says:

"I had bronchial asthma so severely that I could not do anything. I was so weak and nervous, it just seemed I would drop at every step. I had no appetite, could not sleep at night, and had to sit in a chair so I could breathe. When I would lie down it seemed as if I would smother to death. Since taking Nacor, every symptom of asthma has left me, and I did not have a bad cold or cough all winter. I can walk quite well, have a good appetite, weigh 150 pounds, sleep well at night and am stronger than I have been for several years. I owe it all to Nacor and am willing to tell others.

Hundreds of other Indianapolis sufferers from asthma, bronchitis and severe chronic coughs have reported their recovery, after years of affliction. Their letters and a booklet full of valuable information about these stubborn diseases will be furnished free by Nacor Medicine Co., 413 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. No matter how serious your case seems, call or write for this free booklet today. It may give you whole life a new meaning.—Advertisement.

JOAN VISITS LELA

Before Joan could speak the words that were trembling on her lips, I fairly pulled her out of the place and said, "Thank you, we will come again."

"Why did you do that, Judy?" she asked impatiently, pulling herself away from me. "That man probably would have helped us if we had told him that we wanted to find poor Barry's wife."

"Oh, Joan, Joan, what a trusting baby you are. That man's one object in life at the present moment is to keep you from Lela until after he gets to her, and he probably would drive her to suicide if we don't see her first."

We fairly ran to where the taxi was waiting. Joan looked so muddled in her mind as she followed me that I almost wanted to laugh.

I mixed her up more than ever when she heard me order the taxi driver to go immediately to the Central Station. When we arrived there we found that we were in luck. A very gallant desk sergeant gave us the address we wanted immediately without my having to disclose our names.

To the officer I explained that we wanted to find out where Mrs. Barry Cornwall was, that we were

CHILDREN ONLY ONES SOME GROWN-UPS MOCK

Wisdom, "out of the mouths of babes," sometimes startles the truth into us with greater clearness than if we had thought it all out by ourselves.

And this letter from a little hurt child has given Martha something to think about. "Are we children the only things they (grown-ups) can mock?" asks this child with an insight into the situation that is rare. For that's just about the truth. The combination of superiority and bully complexes in the minds of some grown-ups makes them inadequate to deal with children fairly. And, personally, I know parents who believe that half a doubt is better than no doubt at all where their children are concerned, who discredit anything and everything their children do because "they are just children and must not be encouraged to be over-vain and enthusiastic." They follow the line of least resistance in rearing their children. They find it easier to lie to and defraud a child than to take the time to explain to and educate it. And they give as their excuse: "Oh he's just a child, and it really doesn't matter to him anyway. He'll get over it." Yes, but he'll wear a scar of resentment all his life.

Just a Child

Dear Miss Lee: Is it really a disgrace to be a child? Is it made fun of? Do you think grown-ups ever realize the embarrassment they cause children when they say, "why, your just a kid, you don't know." Miss Lee, do you quite ever realize they had to grow up? Is it because they don't want to be like you? Because we children are the only things they can mock?

CAN'T TRUST A GROWN-UP. Indeed it's not a disgrace to be a kid, and if you could hear the "grown-ups" sighing for their lost youth, you'd believe it was a very enviable state! Or to hear 'em get together and tell with glee of their wicked youth you'd be sure they realized they had grown-up—but they don't in practice—just theory. There's a psychology about breeding fear into a sensitive child by running all its wisdom into the ground. He begins to distrust himself and his powers. And that's the unwiseest and unkindest way to rear a child. But you've hit the nail on the head about children being the only persons some grown-ups can mock. It gives them such a delightful sense of knowing everything to discredit what a child says. But I hope you won't let this prey on your mind or worry you in the least. They can't be very wise or they wouldn't show their own ignorance by having no one to compare intelligences with but children. Children have to learn. And the less resentment they have toward those who try to teach them the more they're going to learn and the better and brighter they're going to be. So just don't bother about it.

To Whiten Skin with Lemon

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Advertisement.
