

U. S. STRUGGLES FOR NEUTRALITY IN CHURCH CRISIS

Catholic and Commercial Interests Exert Pressure for Intervention.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 13.—The administration struggled today to keep from being drawn into a major controversy with Mexico as Catholic and commercial interests increased their pressure against the State department's hands-off policy.

Developments included:
1. J. J. Flaherty, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, called on Secretary Kellogg and is believed to have protested against the Mexican Catholic conflict, this Government's nonintervention. Flaherty and Kellogg announced they had agreed to give no interviews and resumed their conference.

2. Reports of a contemplated Catholic drive to raise $5,000,000 for relief of their co-religionists in Mexico.

3. Reports of renewed activities of Mexican counter-revolutionists on the Texas border, necessitating increased watchfulness by Department of Justice agents.

4. Secretary Kellogg denied this Government is withdrawing American Ambassador Sheffield from Mexico City as a sign of displeasure toward the Calles government, adding that Sheffield was returning solely on a vacation.

5. The State Department supported Sheffield's urgent representations to the Mexican government in the case of J. H. Grande, Los Angeles business man, held incommunicado by Mexican police.

6. Business and religious interests continued their demands that the United States lift the embargo of private arms shipments to Mexico, alleging its continuance is in effect American intervention in behalf of Calles.

7. Secretary Kellogg prepared a report on the situation including his recent note to Mexico on American rights under the land and oil laws, which he will submit personally to President Coolidge at White Pine Camp over the week-end.

8. Discussing the reports that the Knights of Columbus are contemplating raising a fund of $5,000,000 for the relief of Catholics in Mexico, Mexican Ambassador Telles said here: "The Mexican government is ready for any emergency."

Neutrality Favored
Despite continued demands for "stronger" policy toward Mexico, officials here are convinced that most of the country supports the Coolidge-Kellogg neutrality attitude in Mexican religious struggles.

It was emphasized, however, that wherever definite American treaty rights are jeopardized through endangering American lives or property, this Government intends to protect its citizens across the border.

The situation was complicated by reports that Ambassador Sheffield desires a "stronger" policy, and that he will resign unless he can convert President Coolidge to his view while in this country.

MEXICO MAY PROTEST

Expect Criticism of Knights of Columbus Plan.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13.—Although there has not yet been any official declaration on the part of either the church or state regarding the reported proposal of the Knights of Columbus to raise money in the United States to aid Catholics here, observers believe that the plan would be strongly criticized.

It is expected that the higher clergy here, while grateful for any outside influences which might terminate the present situation, would regard such a step by the Knights of Columbus as a retrograde movement injuring the cause of the church in the United States and intensifying the determination of the Mexican government not to yield to mediation, particularly from the outside, observers say.

The officials, members of the American Bankers' Association, will ask the association at its Los Angeles convention, Oct. 4, to re-indorse the McFadden banking bill as amended by the Hull amendments to "safeguard the future existence of independent banking."

PROHIBITION IS BLAMED

Chicago Police Chief in Statement on Gang Warfare.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Chicago's wholesale deaths in gang warfare and the crime wave engulfing Chicago are due to prohibition, according to Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins. In a statement Chicago's chief pointed out that, aided by big profits, bootleggers are able to shake the foundation of laws by bribery, by taking advantage of every legal technicality, and through the apathy of honest citizens, in regard to dry laws.

Parental "caution" interceded. So Leah took twelve, not thirteen friends to the theater this afternoon.

Her mother early this morning vetoed her desire to go swimming.

"That's going a little bit too far," said Mrs. Richard Whaley. "Of course, I'm not superstitious, but enough's enough."

"Thirteen is my lucky number," said Leah. She is a talented dancer and a pupil at School 18.

EFFECT OF LONG COAL STRIKE IN BRITAIN IS FELT

The prolonged British miners' strike was felt in Indianapolis and Indiana today for the first time in two ways.

Depletion of the nation's coal supply by heavy exporting to England has widened the market for Indiana-mined coal and definitely lifted the State's mining industry out of its post-war slump.

Coal prices made an advance of from 25 cents to $1 a ton, bringing the average price to a level 50 cents a ton higher than the average price at this time last year.

President E. D. Logston of the Knox Consolidated Coal Company declared that if the exportation continues, and cold weather arrives early, it is possible that production in Indiana and Illinois bituminous mines will reach the peak of war-time production, 100 per cent higher than pre-war production.

In the last two months production has jumped to within 35 per cent of this peak war-time production.

"We are not exporting this coal," Logston said of production in the Indiana coal fields generally, "but we are sending it further east where the supplies of eastern-mined coal have been depleted by the exporting."

His firm is the largest operating company in the State.

The price of Indiana and Illinois mined coal held steady, but West Virginia, Kentucky and Pennsylvania coal retail prices were affected
