

STATE PLANS FOR TRIAL OF TRIO IN HALL-MILLS CASE

'Pig Woman' Identifies Brother and Cousin Under Oath.

By United Press
SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 12.—With an eye-witness description of the Hall-Mills murder, given under oath, the state today was building up a case which it expects will result in a trial of the accused slayers of the clergyman and his choir-singer sweetheart.

The three persons held on charges of murder—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall; Willie Stevens, her brother, and Henry Carpenter, her cousin—were accused in court Friday of having been present when the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were murdered under a tree on the Phillips farm near New Brunswick on the night of Sept. 14, 1922.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," who was passing the scene on the night of the murder from her nearby pig farm, pointed to Stevens and Carpenter and swore that she saw them there. Then she swore she saw Mrs. Hall, after the murder, bending over the clergyman's body, wringing her hands and weeping.

Stevens and Carpenter were held without bail in the county jail here today, pending resumption of the preliminary hearing before Judge Cleary, which was adjourned last yesterday until Monday. Mrs. Hall was at her home, where she has been staying since her release on $15,000 bail.

Robert H. McCarter, attorney for the Hall family, said he would not bring habeas corpus proceedings for the release of Stevens and Carpenter until after the preliminary hearing. Then, as in the case of Mrs. Hall, he expects to apply to Chief Justice Gummere of the New Jersey Supreme Court for an order admitting them to bail.

Special Prosecutor Simpson also announced Friday that the missing records, including the testimony of original witnesses, had been recovered.

QUIZ BEGUN IN WRECK; SIX DIE

By United Press
RIVERHEAD, L. I., Aug. 14.—Official inquiry was begun today into the wreck of the Shelter Island Express of the Long Island Railroad, in which six persons were killed and fifteen injured at Calverton, L. I., Friday night. A defective switch is believed to have been the cause. More than four hundred New York commuters were aboard.

Two engines and two forward cars jumped the track. A Pullman car and a combination smoking and baggage car plunged into a pickle factory alongside the tracks.

Mrs. George A. Schord of Biltmore, N. C., whose two children were killed, was pinned under the Pullman for five hours before rescuers with acetylene torches freed her. She died in a hospital today.

One of the victims was Joseph C. Wicknick, employee of the pickle factory. The crash caused a pickle barrel to fall on him.

Mastodon Battle

Ages Ago Revealed

By United Press
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 14.—A death battle of two mastodons more than two hundred and fifty centuries ago was pictured in retrospect today by officials of Ohio State archaeological and historical museum who visited the scene of the valuable scientific find near Newark.

The skeletons of the two monsters, now extinct, were found by James W. Bailey when he began digging a hole in a recently drained swamp land to bury two hogs.

The skeletons are those of pre-historical monsters, H. R. Goodwin, registrar of the museum, said unequivocally.

"There is the tusk of one projecting into some vertebrae which probably belongs to another mastodon imbedded in the soil. Evidently the mastodons met on this marshy soil and fought. One gored the other with his tusks. They both fell in the mire and died."
