ers for Watson.

In the event Senator James A. Reed of Missouri and his senatorial sub-committee should decide to come into Indiana to investigate the campaign expenditures and activities of the Republican candidates in the recent primary, as requested by the Democratic State committee, they will have to go beyond the reports filed by the managers and treasurers of the contenders.

Reports filed in behalf of Senator Watson show that the senatorial campaign committee, headed by Arthur Robinson, successful aspirant in the short term race, spent $10,496.62.

It has been held that the provisions of the Senate resolution authorizing the inquiry are sweeping enough to permit Reed and his committee to function in Indiana. What facts Chairman R. Earl Peters and his committee have to lay before Senator Reed is a matter of conjecture.

Nothing on Face

The figures submitted by the candidates in compliance with the State corrupt practices act do not, on their face, show any glaring irregularity. It is what the reports do not show that is causing the interest in Reed's contemplated visit.

Senator Robinson's report is a very innocent-looking document of some seven or eight pages, filed by Ora Davies in Kokomo, Ind., home of Davies, had been Robinson's campaign manager in the primary, and shortly thereafter was appointed receiver for a defunct national bank at Noblesville and was later selected to serve as secretary of the Indiana Manufacturers Association.

According to the report Senator Robinson spent $6,355.77 in his own behalf. His law partner, Frank A. Symmes, appears on the record as having donated $2,625, while Garth B. Nelson is shown to have contributed the sum of $1,800. In addition to these sums, Carl Mote, attorney for the Insull interests in Indianapolis, is shown to have spent $100 to the cause. J. W. SAYS CHLOROFORM USED BY PROWLER

Police Seeking Negro on Woman's Story.

Mrs. W. H. Foltz, 224 N. Pennycuik St., reported to police today that a Negro prowler had been visiting her house and she believes he attempted to chloroform herself and husband.

He passed the house this morning, she said. Police could find no traces of the man.

Last Wednesday night Mrs. Foltz and her husband were aroused from sleep about 11 o'clock. Their bedroom was filled with an odor of chloroform or ether, she declared. It came from the open window, but they were unable to see any one.

Dr. G. W. Lutz lives next door, but Mrs. Foltz is sure that the odor was caused by some one attempting to chloroform them.

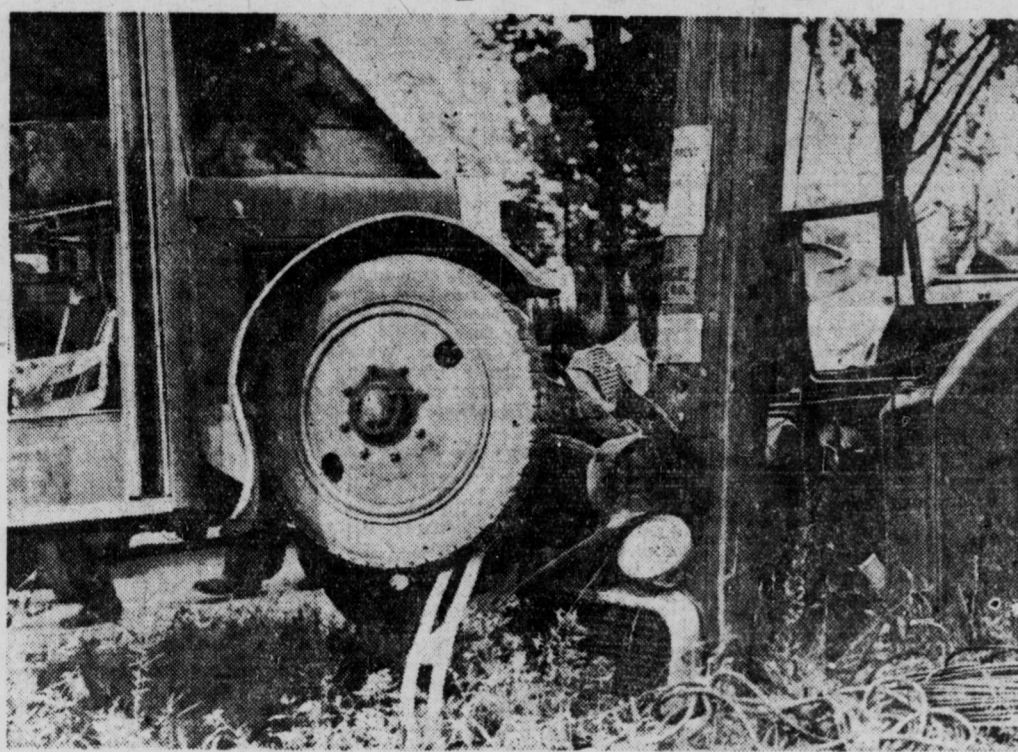

Monday night the colored man peered into their bedroom window, and footmarks were found in the flower bed beneath.

Miraculous Escape In Bus-Car Crash

Scene of bus-auto collision, where woman miraculously escaped death.

Woman Pulled From Wreckage, Recovers From Shock, Cuts.

Miraculously escaping death, Mrs. Bernice Wilcox, 1226 E. Washington St., was pulled from this heap of wreckage with only slight injuries, after her automobile and an Indianapolis Street Railway Company bus collided at Sherman Dr. and English Ave. on Monday afternoon.

The woman today was recovered from shock and slight cuts on the face and arms. Crashing at the intersection, the bus pushed the sedan about thirty feet, pinning it in a ditch between the huge vehicle and an electric light pole. The front part of the coach was on top of the overturned auto when it stopped.

Police charged Charles Allen, Stubbins Hotel, the bus driver, with assault and battery, although witnesses said the bus was not speeding.

Institution.

Headed by James Jackson, brother of the Governor, and Eph Dailey, member of the State industrial board, a group of Allen County citizens conferred Monday with the State highway commission in the interest of a proposed State highway from Ft. Wayne, past the State Hospital for Feeble Minded.

Jackson is head of the institution. It was indicated the commission might assume control of the road in the near future.

MAN, 50, DIES IN DENTAL OFFICES

Unidentified Man Believed
From Gosport.

Under the influence of nitrous oxide gas, while teeth were being extracted, an unidentified man, about 50, died today in the Eiteborg & Moore dental offices, Monument Pl. and Market St. It was believed his heart was weak.

Lieut. George Winkler believed the man's name might be McGregor, living with his daughter near Gosport.

On checks on a Gosport bank were in his person. Corporal Paul F. Robinson ordered the body taken to city morgue.

The man wore dark clothes, a Masonic pin, shell rim glasses, a mustache, and weighed about 150 pounds.

Ask Aid in Hunt for Hit and Run Driver

If you see an auto without headlights at night, notify police.

This was the appeal of Sergt. Frank Owen of the accident prevention bureau today.

Owen is hunting the hit and run driver whose auto crashed into a machine driven by Carl Fredrickson, 5418 Broadway, Sunday night at Fifty-Fourth St. and Pennsylvania St.

Mrs. Fredrickson is in a serious condition at city hospital. Thrown from their machine, she and her husband were left unconscious on the sidewalk by the driver of the other car.

The only clue to the phantom auto is two large drum headlights found at the scene of the accident.

McGLASSON FREED OF BIGAMY CHARGE

Love Letters Figure in Trial—'Dearest Man' Missive
Said to Have Been Written by Woman.

Following a trial in which love letters took a prominent part, a bigamy charge against Thomas Clyde McGlasson, 40, of 3243 Park Ave., was dismissed in municipal court this morning, by Judge Paul G. Wetter.

But the letters introduced in the case meant nothing, Judge Wetter ruled.

The bigamy charge was brought against McGlasson by Miss Laura Enlow, nee Mrs. Charles Bridge-water, of New Albany, Ind., who said she became Mrs. McGlasson when McGlasson married her in Cincinnati, Ohio, in April of this year, deserting her a few weeks after the marriage. She was the principal witness.

Details Vogue

But Miss Enlow was unable to remember details of her marriage. There was "some sort of a ceremony, but my mind is not clear," she said.

But she did remember "Clyde kissing me" just after the ceremony and

A letter which Miss Enlow admitted writing to McGlasson more recently was addressed "Dearest Man."

In it she stated she loved him "better than all else."

"If you do not want me, just say so," it also declared. "I am so sick and blue I cannot write much."

The task of choosing between McGlasson and another man named Charley caused the "sick and blue" feeling, Miss Enlow said.

"I could not make up my mind," she declared, "and I wanted to be sure he would marry me before I gave up the other man."

Mrs. Enlow McGlasson, who married McGlasson in 1920, and their 2-year-old child sat on a bench throughout the trial.

A fraudulent check charge, preferred by Miss Enlow, was taken under advisement by the judge.

Meredith Has Forebodings
About Job.

United States Marshal Linus P. Meredith has grim forebodings that he will have to go to Michigan City, Ind., and become skipper of the good ship Frank Woods.

Papers received here today, if filed and approved by the court, may bring about confiscation of the boat by the Government and its sale at auction to pay back wages of the crew.

Eugene Hibberdine, first mate; Christian Smith, chief engineer; Maurice Parmelee and William McGraw, wheelmen, and Peter Green, watchman, have prepared the papers for suit against the Calumet Steamship Company and the freighter Frank Woods.

They contend they were discharged without pay at noon Monday and told that there was no money.

Police raided two houses Monday, where neighbors complained liquor was sold and wild parties staged.

Sergt. Roy Pope reported no liquor found in either of the houses. One was in the 400 block E. New York St., and the other in the 300 block N. New Jersey St.

Police found fifteen gallons of beer brewing, they said, at the home of Maurice W. Mullery, 2414 N. Sherman Dr. He was charged with operating a blind tiger.

Harvey Hoffman, of 1916 E. Thirty-fourth St., was charged with the same offense. Police said they found 109 quarts of home brew bottled and twenty-four gallons fermenting at his home.

Leonard Mainus, 134 N. New Jersey St., and Pearl Brandenburg, 47, of 1224 Park Ave., were also arrested on blind tiger charges.

STUMP TO BE SPEAKER

Albert Stump, Democratic senatorial candidate for the long term, will address the Kiwanis Club at the Claypool Hotel, Wednesday noon. The subject of the address will be "The Psychology of Disposition."

The annual Kiwanis picnic is to be held at Walnut Gardens Thursday.

Is your name Mary?
If it is, you are invited to a picnic Thursday, when Marys from over the State will take their lunch to Garfield Park and get acquainted.

There are more than 300 members of the Mary Club, which was founded in Noblesville fourteen years ago and established in Indianapolis two years ago.

Mrs. Mary Aldrich, 1226 W. Thirty-fourth St., is president. "Come early and bring your lunch," is her invitation to all the Marys in Indianapolis.

The club is a national organization with 600 members.

WOMAN ROUTS BURGLAR

Robber Believed Wounded
by Female Resident.

A motorist who refused to obey orders of hold-up men to stop on the Fendleton Pike Monday night narrowly escaped death when the bandits shot at him as he sped away.

In the city a woman is believed to have wounded a burglar who appeared at her bedroom window.

The attempted hold-up occurred near Lawrence. The motorist, George Sulgrove, 621 E. Twenty-third St., reported to police that two men drove up from the rear and ordered him to stop.

Speeded Away

Instead, he sped up, Sulgrove said. As he drew away from them, the bandits opened fire. Two bullets pierced the back of the auto and went through the windshield only a few inches from his head.

Three men, acting strangely in Oakland, Ind., a short distance from where Sulgrove was fired on, were arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Bell and Brown for questioning.

Police are searching for a burglar who was probably wounded by Mrs. Claude White, Negro, 127 Puryear St. Mrs. White was awakened at 10:15 p. m. by the removal of the screen from her bedroom window. She is the wife of a patrolman, and was alone.

The burglar was crawling through the window when Mrs. White pulled a revolver from beneath her pillow and fired twice.

The man fell from the window with a bowl of pain.

Mrs. White described the burglar as being a tall, white man and wearing a raincoat. It was dark and she was unable to identify him closely.

Other Robberies

Mrs. J. W. Fisk, room 315, Spencer House, reported $40 taken from her room. Edward Scudder, 174 Dawson St., said he left a purse and $50 in a restaurant near Noble and Michigan Sts.

Lieutenant Shilline, provost marshal at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, reported an automatic pistol stolen from his residence.

Two windows were smashed in the east section of the city Monday night. Clarence Bange, grocer at 5836 E. Washington St., said the thieves took five cartons of cigarettes valued at $5, and Paul J. Miller, druggist at 615 E. Washington St., found the door broken and fifty pennies, a gum machine and alarm clock taken.

POLA SEEKS SOLACE IN NEW HOME

Goes to House Valentino
Was Building for Her in Beverly Hills.

By United Press
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 24.—Pola Negri plans to leave here Saturday for New York where she will meet Rudolph Valentino's brother, Alberto Guglielmi, due there Wednesday from Paris on the steamer Homeric. Funeral services for Valentino, have been postponed until Wednesday, the actress said she was informed.

By United Press
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 24.—Pola Negri remained under physicians care today, grief stricken over the passing of Rudolph Valentino. The Polish star sought solace in Valentino's home high up in Beverly Hills, the house that Rudy was building for her and which has not yet been completed.

Friends of the couple said that Pola and Rudy had planned to be married shortly after Jan. 1, although a wedding date had never been publicly announced.

"I have lost not only my dearest friend, but the one real love of my life," Miss Negri was quoted as saying.

She received many messages of sympathy and condolence from friends of Valentino and her own.

Hollywood Mourns

Meanwhile, Hollywood bowed its head in mourning over the passing of a friend. While Valentino was mourned by millions as a screen idol in the movie capital, he was remembered more as a friend.

Valentino, it was learned, died comparatively poor, although the profits from his latest pictures, upon which he receives a percentage and which are to continue showing, may run a fortune for his heirs.

The star had been idle for three years before he became a part of the United Artists Organization, and had recently negotiated a loan of $150,000 from Joseph Schenck.

John W. Considine, Jr., head of the producing unit which made the Valentino pictures, said he had taken out a $250,000 life insurance policy on the actor recently. "There is no other insurance that I know about," Considine said.

Gets 50 Per Cent

Valentino's interest in "The Son of the Sheik," his last picture, was 50 per cent of the profits.

This film, according to Considine, will continue its run. "That was Rudy's own wish," said the producer. "He said just before leaving Hollywood for New York that if anything happened to him he wanted the film to go on, the earnings to be given to his family in Italy."

"I don't really know about Valentino's will, but I presume that after his estate is settled, what is left will go to his family in Italy. No funeral arrangements have been made yet, as we are waiting to hear from his relatives."

Two hundred contractors are expected at the Hotel Severin Wednesday for the two-day convention of the Central District Tile and Mantel Contractors Association.

Jack C. Thurston is local convention chairman.

Chief of Police Claude F. Johnson will give the address of welcome Wednesday morning. The U. S. Encaustic Tile Company will give a luncheon for the wives of members at the Woodstock Country Club at noon. A smoker and business session will be held Wednesday afternoon, with a theater party for the ladies. Thursday morning the visitors will inspect the U. S. Tile Company's plant. A sight-seeing tour banquet will conclude the program. Several officers of the national association are expected.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The tropical storm in the Gulf of Mexico will strike the coast somewhere between Burwood, La., and Galveston, Tex., tonight or early Wednesday and is almost certain to cause considerable damage in a limited area at least, weather bureau officials said today.

The storm's center is of hurricane intensity, it is said. Hurricane warnings are being sent to all coast stations along the section of the coast threatened.

VALENTINO'S BODY TO BE ON VIEW FOR THREE DAYS WITH FUNERAL MONDAY

Noted Screen Star to Lie in State in Famous Gold Room—Burial Place Is Undetermined—May Be Hollywood.

THOUSANDS PAY HIM TRIBUTE

Persons From All Walks of Life Clamor for Admission.

By Times Special
NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Thousands packed around the undertaking parlors where the body of Rudolph Valentino rests, got beyond control of police this afternoon and crashed through a plate glass window of the establishment.

Women screamed, children cried and men fought for safety.

Two women and one man were severely injured, three other women collapsed and a policeman was cut by the shattered glass.

Meanwhile, funeral plans for the great screen favorite were announced by S. George Ullman, his personal manager.

The body will lie in state today from 4 p. m. to midnight, and from 9 a. m. to midnight Wednesday and Thursday.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a. m. at "The Actors' Church," the Church of St. Malachi.

May Be Buried in Italy

The place of his final burial remains undetermined. His body may be sent back to the little town of Castellana, Italy, where he was born Rudolph Guglielmi, and grew up with the village boys; or it may be sent out to Hollywood, the place where as Rudolph Valentino he grew to world fame, and there remain through the years in a splendid tomb beside some of the other great of filmdom.

"I hope to have the body taken to Hollywood for burial," said Ullman. "I think he belongs there and hope to so persuade his brother."

Rudolph's brother, Alberto, is in Paris. No word has been received from him.

Expects Pola

Ullman said he expected Pola Negri to arrive from California in time for the services.

The tentative list of honorary pall bearers was named by Ullman as follows: Mayor James J. Walker, Joseph M. Schenck, Hiram Abrams, Will Hays, Adolph Zukor, and Marcus Loew.

Thousands are expected to file past the casket of silver bronze, topped with glass, for a last look at the actor's body, which will be dressed in evening attire.

Ullman, who was at the bedside of Valentino for four days and nights, was visibly shaken after his collapse Monday. He said Valentino had premonition of impending death and once or twice had referred to the possibility that "The Son of the Sheik," now playing, would be his last picture.

Pay Tribute

While the funeral plans were being made, men and women came in a steadily increasing stream to the funeral establishment on Broadway, where Valentino's body lay. A busy world stopped long enough in its daily routine to pay him tribute.

A leaden sky and an almost imperceptible drizzle made the day gloomy.

At a side door of the establishment the favored ones who knew the actor or had other claims to admittance were let in. Here, too, came flowers in profusion from the great theatrical world down to offerings from those who had never seen the actor, but had been moved by his shadow-appearance on the screen.

Magnificent Casket

Inside the gold room of the undertaking company was prepared. On a raised dais in a magnificent bronze casket the body was placed, banked solidly with flowers. There (Turn to Page 2)

Knelt on Rail

In the foreground is a felt rail on which those who come to pay last tribute to the man whose image was known to the world may kneel in prayer.

The body is attired in full evening dress. An embalmer has tried to repair the ravages which pain made in the features of Valentino.

But the effort was in vain. Powder and rouge could not take the tautness out of compressed lips or change the distended nostrils, and could not remove the traces disease left.

The eyes are closed unnaturally, as if simulating sleep.

The hair has lost its sleekness that the movie fans knew.

But if the still figure over which the palm fronds wave were so slightly, there is yet the ineffable grandeur and beauty that made Rudolph Valentino loved by the millions.

SENSATIONAL RUMORS

By United Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—New York woke up today to read in some of the morning papers a series of sensational rumors about the death of Rudolph Valentino.

They were:
That he had been shot in a quarrel.
That he had been struck in a fist fight and fatally injured.
That he had been poisoned by a jealous woman during a party.

However, the signed statements of the attending physicians, the application for a burial permit, and the statements of the attending physicians in the presence of witnesses, all were such as to disprove the theories and set down the actual cause of death as infection following gastric ulcers and appendicitis.

The district attorney's office said its attention had not been called to any of the rumors.
