A pretty home wedding was that of Miss Mary Frances Bradshaw and Wilbur Edward Dittich, which took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Harmon Bradshaw, 111 E. Sixteenth St., Monday at noon.

Only the immediate families were present. The ceremony was read by the Rev. W. L. Clark. Lovely with ferns and pink roses, the living room furnished a beautiful background for the bride, who entered unattended. Her gown was of white silk crepe, fashioned in Redingote style. She wore a large white picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Dittich left on a motor trip. They will be at home Sept. 15 at 933 Park Ave.

Miss Dorothy Sandefur, a bride-to-be whose marriage will take place Sept. 11 at 4 p. m. at the Edwin Ray M. E. Church, was honored Monday evening with a miscellaneous shower and party at the home of Miss May Henderson, 815 Dawson Ave.

Miss Sandefur will be married to Robert E. Avels. Bridal colors in orchid, pink and blue were used in decorating the house and on the table the cakes were served in the same delicate tints. Ices molded in the shape of automobiles denoted that the bride and bridegroom are planning a motor tour for their wedding trip. The gifts were presented in a large basket covered with garden flowers.

Guests included Misses Eloise Bennett, Elizabeth Davis, Dorothy and Jean Wilson, Dorothy and Grace Avels, Gladys, Leonard, Bertha Kelly, Olive McCallum, Alma Harris, Elizabeth Robinson, Mesdames Milton Sandefur, George R. Avels, Olive Leonard, Walter Spahn, William Jenkins, Cora McKee, B. A. Thalls, Howard Wilson, George S. Henninger, O. H. Richardson, W. W. Bollinger and Rose Brock.

The bride's attendants will be Miss Dorothy Avels and Miss Jean Wilson. Frederick Shick will be best man. Other parties will be given for Miss Sandefur by Misses Jean and Dorothy Wilson next Tuesday at their home, 528 N. De Quincy St., and by Miss Dorothy Avels Sept. 4. Mr. and Mrs. Sandefur will give a bridal dinner the evening of Sept. 10.

Miss Margaret Ott, who has been attending the summer session at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., has returned from the east to her home, 1943 N. Rural St. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ott, her parents, and Anna, her sister, made a motor trip to the east, spending a few days at Ithaca, and drove Miss Ott back with them.

Miss Mary Ryan, Miss Mary Klee and Mrs. R. E. McLaughlin, entertained Monday evening at Mrs. McLaughlin's home, 526 E. Full Creek Blvd., at a buffet luncheon and miscellaneous shower for Miss Rosemary Barrett, 1521 Olney St., whose marriage to Bernard Q. Zimmer will take place at St. Frances De Sales Church, Sept. 9.

All of the appointments were carried out in white and the gifts were given to Miss Barrett in a parasol lowered from the chandelier with ribbons. Guests included: Mesdames Roscoe Conkle, Linnie Hollis, Rexie Ward, Willis S. Thompson, Robert Brewer; Misses Marjorie Killie, Cornelia Packer, Lillian Shaffer, Viola Barrett, Margaret Swope, Kathryn Clegg, Lottie Plaskett, Wanda Susemichel, Maude Erisman, Ethel DeLong, Ernestine Fuss, Elvina Held, Elizabeth Redmond, Tressie Reeves Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Edmond entertained at dinner Sunday evening at 6 p. m. for Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clark and daughter, Rosemary, who will leave next Sunday for California. They will reside there until Mr. Clark's health is improved. The Edmonds are occupying the Clark home, 1227 Wright St., until their return.

Miss Edna Reed Moran will entertain this evening for Miss Ione Ludwig of Wilmington, Del., at her home in the Latona apartments. Miss Ione Ludwig is visiting her sister, Miss Gertrude Ludwig, 2405 N. Tenth St. The rooming will be decorated in pink and white in honor of Miss Ludwig and the other guests. Those invited are: Mesdames Oliver Hollowell, Leroy Russell, Leo Miller, Charles Grinslade, Betty

Her Own Way A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

THE SHOWDOWN

I came out of my thoughts, as I heard Mr. Elkins, Jr., say that he had loaned to Mr. Robinson $300,000, taking as security his share of the department store.

"This part of the estate, you know, was left to Mr. Robinson and Mr. and Miss Meredith here, jointly, with the stipulation that Mr. Robinson should act as manager of the store."

"I haven't any concrete idea what the property would bring today, but I know when I had Mr. Robinson's books audited before I made him the loan, that they showed a gross profit of over $500,000 last year. According to the terms of the will, both Mr. and Miss Meredith have the chance to buy out Mr. Robinson, or they can sell this loan and make some arrangements whereby Mr. Robinson may pay off his indebtedness in a short or long time as they desire."

"Personally I would advise you that this should be done, as you understand that your other property from which you derive a good income, is free and clear of all debt. "How much money can I realize at once?" inquired John, quickly. "Have I enough liquid assets to finance a three year's trip to South Africa?"

"I think so, Meredith," answered the elder Elkins, "but I would advise caution. How much do you want?" "I want at least $250,000 to begin with."

"That will not be hard to get," answered Mr. Robinson. "I think I can raise half the face value of my note, which with Joan's consent I will pay to John. I am sure that he will be able to make up the rest."

"Thank you, dad," said John. "Oh, that's all right. When are you leaving?"

"As soon as I can get away. Within the month at the very latest. Symington tells me that we can get ready within that time, and you know how I hate civilization."

Joan was told that she had plenty of money at her disposal to make her trip abroad, but she seemed to have changed her mind.

"I do not think I shall go for a month or two now. I want to stay here until the end of the year. You'll come out here, John, and stay at the house until you are ready to go."

The engagement of Miss Rosemary Barrett, daughter of Mr. Rose Barrett, 1521 Olney St., to Bernard Q. Zimmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Zimmer, has been announced. The wedding will take place on Sept. 9 at St. Francis De Sales Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huey announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Garnett, to Wilson B. Churchman, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Churchman, Churchman Pike, Beech Grove. The wedding will take place in the late fall.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Head, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Head, 555 N. Oakland Ave., to Paul J. Richey took place Thursday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Philip Neri Church, with the Rev. George Smith officiating.

Martha Lee Says 'FORGET AND FORGIVE' OLD, BUT GOOD ADVICE

If you hold an object close to your eye it looks larger than the ten-story building a block away. So, a grievance held constantly before the mind's eye will shut out much good right at hand. We rob ourselves by so doing.

A wrong done us, can either harm, or help us. If we yield to the temptation to dwell upon it, nurse it and pity ourselves, we're going to harm ourselves more than the original act did. Throwing off resentment, refusing to let the wrong act drag us down, will make us grow in character.

Cannot Forgive

Dear Martha Lee: Several years ago, my husband became entangled in an affair with a young girl. Circumstances which followed awoke him to the fact that he had been deceived. He heartily repented. I have made the hurt he had put into my heart, easier for me to bear, and he has taken me in his arms many times, telling me the pure love of his heart had been his. I cannot forget. —The long lonesome nights I sat alone "hating" him, "working overtime," "not being able to sleep," etc. He says he has learned his lesson and that he would rather be dead than have her think this of me. I'm not in by ten she would sometimes start out to look for me. I know how to take care of myself and I'm a fighter. I do to prove to mother I am a fighter. GOLDEN LOCKS.

Convincing Mother

Well, you can't blame mother, dear. She has a pretty daughter, whom she intends to protect at any cost, and to hear you try to explain that the boys were trying to straighten up while under the influence of liquor—well, I'd be from Missouri, too! People are judged by the company they keep, and let me tell you, you have a rare mother in these days. She's trying to keep you and your associations of the highest. But you can win mother's confidence by letting her be a big sister to you. Take her advice in earnest and seek out her company more. Take her to the movies as you would a girl friend. She's probably just yearning for this contact with your youth. Make a pal out of her and you'll convince her that you are nobody's fool and able to look out for yourself. Mother's simply in the dark about you, and she's taking no chances.

CLOSED JARS

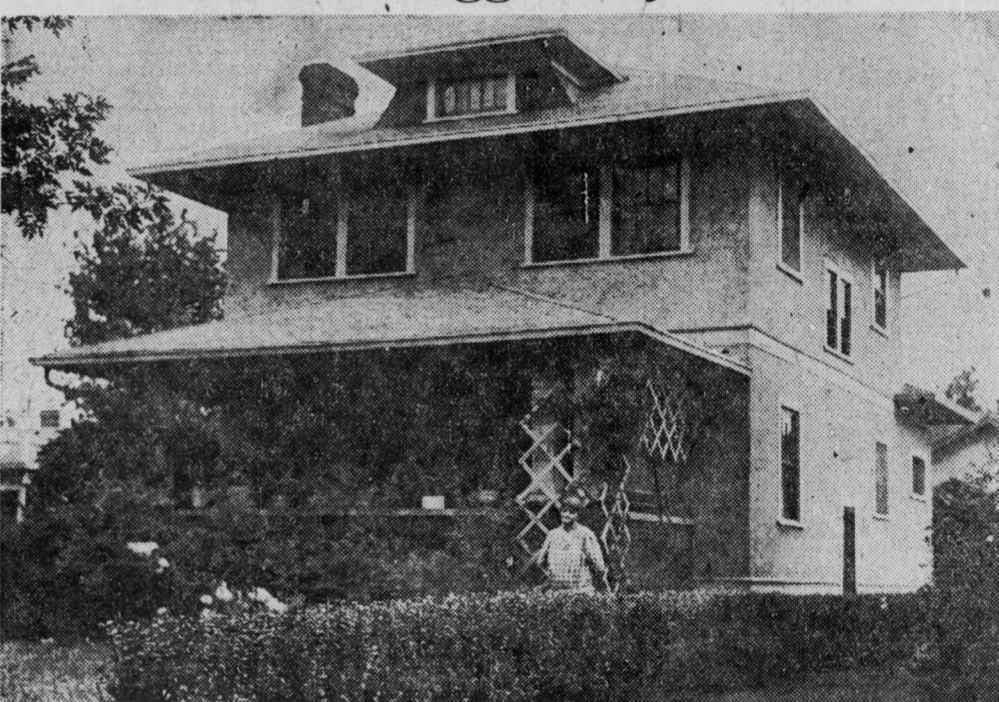

Glass or pottery jars with covers are absolutely necessary to icebox sanitation during warm weather. They protect food from absorbing the taste and odor of other food, and prevent spoilage.

CHEESECLOTH

Cheese-cloth wrung out in cold water and wrapped around a head of lettuce will keep it fresh for forty-eight hours.

By forgetting yourself. Timidity is a form of egotism. You're thinking about yourself when you cannot converse naturally. Ever read that little book of Clara Laughlin's, "Everybody's Lonesome"? It would help you. She makes the point that everybody, be he king or peasant is

Ham and Eggs 'Buy Home'

This house was bought by money earned from "frying ham and eggs" in a restaurant, according to Mrs. Emma Hillman, 1045 Willow Dr., proud owner of the pretty south side residence. Seven years ago she bargained for the house and started out to save $7,500. Today the house is hers, and every cent was earned "behind a range" and with the aid of one boarder. The widow has pride in her home and grows flowers and shrubs in the yard.

Breakfast—Baked apples, cereal, thin cream, crisp broiled bacon, rye muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Salmon chowder, toasted crackers, cucumber fingers, drop ginger cookies, lemonade.

Dinner—Smothered veal, baked new potatoes, creamed carrots, pear and cream cheese salad, whole wheat rolls, currant snow, milk, coffee.

If you live inland and must rely on the canned variety of salmon for your chowder you may be interested in the following information taken from a bulletin issued by the United States Department of Fisheries: "The choicest grades of canned salmon are richer than meats in body-building material and contain the same amount of fats. Pink salmon, which is a cheaper grade, is better than meats for making flesh and bones. There is no waste and nothing is to be thrown away except the can."

Salmon Chowder

Three cups milk, 1/2 cup canned salmon freed from skin and bones, 1 slice onion, 4 tablespoons minced celery, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon paprika, 1 1/2 cups diced boiled potatoes, 1 tablespoon minced parsley.

Scald milk in double boiler with salmon, onion slice and celery. Melt butter, stir in flour and when perfectly blended slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Add the salmon, celery and onion with the milk and bring to the boiling point. Boil 5 minutes and add potatoes. The salt, pepper and paprika are added with the flour to the melted butter. Sprinkle with parsley and serve. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

THEY'RE SPILL-PROOF

Bridge covers of pebbled oil cloth are not despised for porch use when glasses of lemonade or ice tea are almost as much a part of the game as the deck of cards.

MAKES GOOD SALAD

For a nourishing salad that is enough for the main dish of the luncheon try combining asparagus, hard boiled eggs, pimientos, lettuce, and grated cheese.

A WOMAN'S DAY ABROAD

By Allene Summer

PARIS—I have just returned from the races—the most famous races in the world. But I did not see a horse—not a single horse.

It was the world-famous Grand Prix classic at Longchamps, the yearly race which attracts horse lovers the world over.

I repeat, I did not see a single horse. But oh babies—as we French say, what clothes I did see!

Most people, anyway, go to the races to see clothes, and not horses. It seems that here in Paris the race track at Longchamps is only an excuse for wearing all the clothes and diamonds and algaettes that they wear when presented at court in England or at a White House reception at home.

It seems strangely like the French who refuse butter with bread, but serve it as an appetizer with pickled snails and crawfish, to choose a dusty race track whither to wear costumes which would grace a ball-room.

My gentle readers may be interested in my own costume for Longchamps before I launch into a description of that which draped the Queen of Spain.

I wore some brown exotica costume with a rich layer of bois de rose mud and beige dust. My tweed coat had a plaque of green grass spots and my hat had a coy dip where Pansy Herring had accidentally sat on it at lunch.

To be really truthful, I did not assemble this chic costume for the races, but for a picnic in the Bois de Boulogne.

We had just eaten the last sardine when the people began to go by. We thought it was a fire and started following—by taxi. As I have said, one can ride forty-three miles for a nickel, so we made no inquiries about cost, but merely indicated that we vould-voused to follow the people.

And so we came to Longchamps. The reason we knew we were at Longchamps was because the taxi man held up his hands ten times and looked fierce, which meant that we had to pay 100 francs or he would call the gendarmes.
