The wedding of Miss Athleen Barkley, granddaughter of Mrs. Ida Douglas Barkley, 1824 N. Pennsylvania St., and Samuel Craig Houston of Pittsburgh, Pa., which took place in Wellesley, Mass., this afternoon, is of much interest to a large circle of friends and relatives here.

The ceremony was held in Wellesley College chapel, with the Rev. Lewis W. Hicks of Emeritus Wellesley Congregational Church, officiating. Yellow and pink flowers studied a background of greenery at the altar and seven branch candelabra, with white tapers, flanked the altar.

Prof. Hamilton C. McDougall of Wellesley College gave a program of bridal airs preceding the ceremony and played "Pomp and Circumstance" for the recessional.

Wedding attendants were Miss Harriett Fisher, Cleveland, Ohio, maid of honor; Miss Mary McCrea Houston, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Helen Mary Cannon of Columbus, Ohio, bridesmaids. Warren Richardson of Worcester, Mass., was best man. Miss Fisher was given in pink georgette. The bridesmaids were in blue, with velvet hats and slippers of deeper blue.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was in a lovely gown of white georgette, with tight sleeves of Chantilly lace and very full skirt. She wore a tulle veil, caught at the sides with clusters of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 400 guests at Wellesley Inn, which was a bower of pink and yellow flowers, against banks of greenery. Indianapolis guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frank McDougall and Charles P. McDougall, Mr. and Mrs. Houston left immediately on a wedding trip to the White Mountains. After Nov. 1 they will be at home at 4 Clement St., Worcester, Mass.

Miss Anna Mae Truemper will be the honor guest at a farewell party to be given tonight by members of the Alpha chapter of Sigma Delta Zeta. Miss Truemper leaves for Indiana University to continue her studies this fall.

The home of Miss Mary Christian, 410 Sanders St., will be the scene of the party, which is to follow a regular business meeting of the chapter. Miss Christian will decorate the home in gold and yellow tea roses, carrying out the colors of the sorority.

Guests, with Miss Truemper, will be Misses Dorothy Kruse, Teresa Ostermeyer, Sophie Zink, Helen Taylor, Irma Kahn, Pauline Jacobs, Marie Striebel, Margaret Striebel, Augusta Dudley and Mildred Wessel.

Selecting the cool of the early morning as an ideal time for a late summer wedding, Miss Lucille Rusch was married yesterday at 5:30 a. m. to Harry B. Jackson at Holy Cross Church. The altar and chancel were banked with vines and ferns. The bride made a very charming picture in a gown of sand-colored crepe. Her train carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. A black velvet hat completed the costume. Miss Helen Jackson, the bridesmaid, carried an arm bouquet of Premier roses and wore a gown of tan crepe.

Romaine and a hat of black velvet. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will make their home in Indianapolis, immediately following their return from a wedding trip to the east.

Miss Mary Nina Ball, who will leave Monday to enter the Illinois Masonic Hospital as a student nurse, will be the honor guest at a party to be given by the Cheta Club to night at the home of Miss Evelyn Hankins, 335 Harvard Pl.

The guests, with Miss Ball, will include Misses Virginia Schey, Frances Barnegrove, Betty Kegs, Bruce Ridge, Beulah O'Brien, Genevieve Orrell, Eleanor Kissel, Helen Burr, Thelma Ball, Helen Leiper, Lois Day and Mesdames Leonard Harms and Herbert Fatout, Jr.

Miss Katherine Korch, who will become the bride of Earl Johnston Aug. 30, was honored Monday evening with a miscellaneous Monday evening at the home of Miss Virginia Mann, 1201 N. Keystone Ave.

Colors of green and yellow, which will be used in the bridal appointments formed the keynote of the decorations. Guests, with Miss Korch, were Louise Johnston, Alberta Seifert, Kathleen Jeffrey, Helen Kiesel, Delcia Lee Rogers, Margaret Ryan, Lillian Shook and Mrs. Ralph Sicker.

Miss Mildred Thomas, who will be married Aug. 30, to James D. Bacon, was the honor guest at a miscellaneous shower Monday evening at which Mrs. William A. Fountain and Mrs. F. L. Kenyon, 824 N. Tuxedo St., were hostesses. Bridal colors of blue and white were used in decorating the house. Gifts for the bride-to-be were presented in a large basket of blue and white.

Guests with Miss Thomas and Mr. Bacon were Misses Evelyn Nelson, Irene Borchert, Helen Coppess, Dorothy Coppess, Edna Vale, Pauline McClellan, Ruth Thomas, Lillian Jacobs, Clarabelle Jacobs, Mesdames James Reynolds, Roy Jones and Clifford Strahl.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael P. Harakas announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, of 3324 Northwestern Ave., to Roland Reddick, 331 N. Gladstone Ave., Aug. 17, at Cincinnati, Ohio. Mrs. J. W. Webster, cousin of the bride, will entertain for her with a miscellaneous shower at her home, 4102 E. Michigan St., Monday.

Mrs. Lowell Smith, 1224 N. Pennsylvania St., will return from a visit to Kokomo the latter of the week.

A card party will be given by Magnolia Circle, No. 4, Thursday at 2:30 p. m. at Red Men's Hall, Morris and Lee Sts.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wuensch announce the engagement of their daughter, Lena, to Anthony Hood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hood of Asheville. The wedding will take place Sept. 8 at 10 a. m. at Sacred Heart Church.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

Breakfast—Cream of wheat with sliced apricots, thin cream, crisp rye toast, peanut butter, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Baked new cabbage, bran rolls, tomatoes stuffed with pineapple and cream cheese, milk, tea.

Dinner—English mutton chops, rice potatoes, endive and orange salad, peach tapioca pudding, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

"English chops" are thick chops cut from the loin. Before broiling put chops in a colander and pour boiling water over them. This rather overcomes the strong flavor disliked by so many people. Trim the chops carefully before broiling.

This cabbage dish is really delicious and well worth serving often.

Baked New Cabbage
One four-pound head cabbage, one and one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, four tablespoons heavy cream, two eggs, one tablespoon vinegar.

Cut head of cabbage in quarters and cook in boiling water for twenty minutes. Do not cover kettle while boiling. Drain and chop. Beat eggs until light and add salt, pepper, butter, cream, vinegar and one-half teaspoon sugar. Mix thoroughly with chopped cabbage and turn into a well buttered baking dish. Bake in a hot oven about fifteen minutes until the top is a golden brown. Serve at once.

He had started from Centerville with the circus to Wyoming, where his grandmother lives. But the circus broke up, and he began walking, arriving here after two weeks. Police gave him care.

Her Own Way. A Story of a Girl of Today

A BOMBHELL.
Mr. Elkins and his son left shortly after and Jean was called away.

John Meredith did not rise as his sister left the room. He still sat in the big chair. I knew he was determined to sit there until I also left. I was, however, determined that he should not, for I knew that every time he gave in to his sensitiveness over his crippled leg and arm, it became worse.

"I hope you will pardon me, Mr. Meredith, but I must tell you that I think you have been very selfish to leave your sister to the care of strangers as you have done all these years."

"Do you, Miss Dean?"
The question was insolent.

"Yes, I do. You think you're the most unfortunate man in the world just because you happened to have been born with a deformed hand and foot."

"Miss Dean, I think you forgot yourself."

"Perhaps, but I am going to tell you a few unpleasant truths."

"I hardly think so, Miss Dean. I shall ring for my sister immediately and tell her that I cannot stay in this house."

I laughed. "You are a coward, aren't you?" I said. "Your mind is more deformed than your body and I really think your soul is warped."

This had the desired effect. John Meredith, I expect for the first time in his life, forgot that he was a cripple. He suddenly arose to his feet in a blind rage and limped across the room and punched the bell. Then he turned his back on me. The man answered his ring and told him that Miss Meredith had gone out.

"What do you know about your sister?" I asked.

He looked at me, startled.

"Why—why—why," he stammered. "I think she is one of the prettiest girls I ever saw and probably one of the most fortunate beings on earth. She can have her every wish."

"Do you think so?" I asked.

"What do you mean?" he queried.

"What if I should tell you, that your sister has never been very happy."

Again he spoke in a softer voice.

"What do you mean by that?"

"I mean that Joan has been left entirely to strangers. She never has had love, which, of course, is the one thing she has wanted. You should feel a great sympathy for her, because this is the one thing you have always wanted."

"How do you know that?" he asked.

"Because you have deliberately avoided all human contact, except that which you have bought and paid for. Because you have thought only of yourself and left your sister to outsiders."

"I thought she was happy," he apologized.

"You had no business to think so. Do you know that a girl in her position is one of the most unfortunate in the world?"

He smiled deviously.

"That's absolutely true. A girl that has so much money that she has everything done for her, only has to do what you, yourself, have been doing—think of herself. Joan has become bored to death with everybody and everything, until a few months ago, when she fell in love with a dancing man, one who haunted public dance halls."

"Heavens, how did my sister happen to go to such a place?"

Martha Lee Says 'CLOSE UP' OR 'ABSENT' LOVE; WHICH IS BEST?

Maybe it's true that "absence make the heart grow fonder," but it's propinquity, seeing the beloved at close range, day after day, that puts love to a real test. Imagination can invest the absent one with charms and virtues galore. A close-up of him day after day makes a vast difference oftentimes.

That's the big problem of matrimony. Nifty, handsome, adorable, a man may seem to his sweetheart as he arrives to call on her in his courting days. Will her love stand the test of seeing him grumpy and unshaved morning after morning? An angel of light, she may appear to him when they're engaged. Can he be patient with the various faults she's sure to develop after marriage?—seeing she's only human after all? Only real love can stand this close-up successfully. Fortunately a lot of couples do, the divorce records, notwithstanding.

Lemons Bleach the Skin White

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whiter, softer and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared—advisedly.

Loves When He's Away

Dear Martha Lee: I don't understand about the boy I go with. He travels, and when he's out of the city, I'm crazy about him, but when I'm with him, I'm not in love with him and sometimes various little ways he has—mannerisms, various little ways he has—almost disgust me. Would I be safe in marry him?

Gracious no, Mayme. If you can have those feelings about him before you're married, I'd hate to imagine how you'd feel afterwards. When he's away, you're "crazy" about him, because your imagination can work without any contradiction of his actual presence. You're considerably in love with love and are trying to fit this young traveling man into the role of the hero of your dreams, but I believe you'll have to look further.

Marry Again?

Dear Martha Lee: I hope you will give me a little advice. I am 19 years old. I've been married and have a baby but I am sure for divorce as my husband was very cruel to me. I have heard that a young man that I used to go with, he says he has loved me all the time and wants me to promise I will marry him the minute I get my divorce. He promises so faithfully to be good to both baby and me. What shall I do? L. D.

Why be in such a rush to decide? If you mean you are undecided whether to marry again, I should say, that if the young man seems worthy and good, you need not let your first unfortunate experience prejudice you against marriage. Many persons have found more happiness in the second, than the first marriage, because their tastes
