

RESLATE YOUTHS IN BANDIT CASES

Pawnbroker Charged With Receiving Loot.

Formal charges of auto banditry were filed today against the five youths who police said confessed to staging more than a dozen hold-ups on the county roads within the last few weeks. Two of the youths were captured by the sheriff at Vandala, Ill., and three were taken into custody by detectives here.

Those who face auto banditry charges: Leo Marlene, 17, of 350 E. New York St., and his brother, John, 19; Emette Brownless, 17, of Noblesville, Ind.; Earl Ambrose, 18, of 2031 Harvey St., and John Schuller, 19, of 2058 Hillside Ave.

Six of the loot from the various hold-ups has been recovered. Louis Fogel, 2839 N. Talbot Ave., pawnbroker at 504 Indiana Ave., was charged with receiving stolen goods, buying from minors and making false reports of purchases. Police charged Fogel received some of the ring's loot at his shop.

CANTON RESUMES M'DERMOTT HUNT

Theory That 'Key Man' Was Murdered Exploded.

United Press CANTON, Ohio, Aug. 31.—Search for Patrick McDermott, missing witness, occupied investigators here today as the Stark County grand jury continued its probe of the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton Daily News publisher.

Although the jury is expected to return murder indictments on circumstantial evidence, McDermott is still regarded as the one man who, if captured, could and would tell a first hand story of the plot against Mellett and its execution.

The theory that McDermott was murdered following the assassination and his body shipped to New York in a trunk exploded Monday when the trunk was traced to a relative of the shipper. A man had reported hearing shots and seeing the trunk loaded into a motor truck at the home of a suspect in the Mellett case.

Gone, but Not Forgotten

Automobiles reported stolen to police Monday included:

William Lamkin, 1926 Broadway; Hercules, M-1675, from 900 block on N. Illinois St.

Joe Hines, 835 S. Capitol Ave.; Ford, from that address.

Gardner Sales Company, 544 N. Meridian St.; Gardner, M-1715, from Ohio St. between Pennsylvania and Delaware Sts.

John Northern, 518 Birch St., Ford, 579-927.

BANKERS ON PROGRAM

Plans for the first convention of Stewart-Warner radio dealers, Sept. 15, at the Claypool, have been announced by C. C. Mathews, local representative. Henry Geisenbier and Paul Young, St. Louis bankers, will address the convention. The meeting will close with an evening banquet.

WIG-WAG SIGNAL UP

Establishment of an electric wig-wag signal by the Pennsylvania Railroad where it crosses State Rd. 10 at Maynard, in Lake County, has been completed, according to word received today by Public Service Commissioner Frank T. Singleton. The crossing was regarded formerly as one of the most dangerous in the State.
