

BRIDE'S FATHER OFFICIATES AT CHURCH WEDDING

Miss Irma Matthius Becomes Bride of Gerhard E. Jordan.

Miss Irma Matthius, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Matthius, of 577 Middle Dr., Woodruff Pike, was married by her father to Gerhard E. Jordan, Decatur, Ill., Wednesday evening at Trinity Lutheran Church, of which the Rev. Mr. Matthius is pastor. Miss Ada Matthius, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore a gown of yellow georgette and tulle adorned with gold ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Lucille Matthis, a sister of the bride; Miss Hilda Jordan of Decatur, Ill., a sister of Mr. Jordan; Miss Gertrude Reinke, Chicago, and Miss Mary Louise Schuler. Their gowns were fashioned alike of georgette, with petal skirts, tight bodice waists and sashes of tulle, but carried out the different costume colors of Nile green, shell pink, turquoise blue and orchid. Each bridesmaid wore satin slippers and hose of the color to match her gown.

Nieces Flower Girls
Two little nieces of the bride, Myra Adella and Mary Elizabeth Matthius of Mattoon, Ill., were the flower girls, dressed in light-colored georgette dresses, trimmed with ribbon ruffles.

The costume of the bride was of ivory-white satin, fashioned in princess style with a long court train elaborately beaded in pearls, rhinestones and trimmed in Chantilly lace. Her long tulle veil was arranged in cap shape with a band of Chantilly lace across the front, beaded with pearls and rhinestones. Her flowers were bride's roses and valley lilies.

Best Man
Waldemar Jordan, Decatur, Ill., acted as best man for his brother, Walter Meyne, Decatur, Ill.; Carl Muffage, Louisville, Ky.; Clarence Elbert and Edmund Kassing, Jr., were the ushers. The organist, P. G. Elbert, played before the ceremony "Liebestaum" (Liezt), Schubert's "Serenade," "Berceuse," from "Jocelyn," and other classic bridal airs. Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Reinke sang before the entrance of the bride party. Mr. Elbert played "To a Wild Rose" during the ceremony.

Among out-of-town guests present at the reception held by the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Matthius in honor of the bride and bridegroom were: Messrs. and Mesdames Julius Jordan, Herbert Jordan, Bernard Jordan and daughters, Messrs. Ruth and Irma Jordan, all of Decatur, Ill.; E. C. Matthius, Mattoon, Ill.; A. M. Troyke, Chicago; the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Reinke, Chicago, and Messrs. Caroline and Esther Harloff, Evanston, Ill.

SUPERIOR COURT CANDIDATES AT VOTERS' MEETING

Democrats and Republicans Meet Members of Women's League.

Women voters had a chance to get acquainted with candidates for the Superior Court benches at a League of Women Voters meeting Wednesday at Central Library Bldg.

"Politics is cleaner since women got the vote," said Joseph Milner, Republican candidate for Room 5. "Women voters who came to the polls are to be praised," said Thomas McGee, Democratic candidate for the same bench, in speaking of the pronounced slump in voting.

Byron K. Elliott, Republican candidate for Room 4, declared he is allied with no political faction. "Justice and not the cloak of government determines good government," was the word of Frank T. Brown, Democratic candidate for Room 1.

A personal touch was contributed to the meeting by W. O. Dunlavy, Republican candidate for Room 3, who remarked that the date was the anniversary of his twenty-seven years of law practice in Indianapolis.

"A judge should administer law religiously, impartially, fearlessly," said Judge Linn D. Hay, Republican candidate for re-election in Room 2. He said that principles of law must be flexible, changing to meet the conditions of the times.

Stephen A. Clinehens spoke. Candidates unable to attend were Judge James M. Leathers, Carl Wood and Woodburn Masson.

NO SOLEMN MARCHES Couple to Charles-on to Altar to Be Wedded.

Martha Lee Says FEATHER YOUR NEST, OR MARRY FOR LOVE?

We're constantly told that we're living in a very material age. The floods of materialism and cynicism that beat round about us much of the time come largely from the older folks who, having lost their own youth, spend much time complaining fretfully of the younger generation.

"The young folks are so extravagant," they cry, and ignore the fact that the extravagant tastes of the young are largely developed by the older folks. For instance, the mother who had the pleasure of helping her own husband from penury to affluence will kick like a steer at any but the most glit-dit matrimonial prospect for her daughter.

Marry a Poor Man?

Dear Martha Lee: Who shall a girl please most when she marries, her folks or herself? I love a young man who is not very well to do yet, but I'm sure we could get along. He loves me dearly, but my folks just snort and say I can help my mother says and she's making it awful hard for me. She fairly insists when he calls. It hurts his feelings as he is proud and he has offered to give me up but says it would spoil his life. So you think mother is right and should I give him up and wait for a rich man? My father was very poor when he married mother and wait for a rich man?

I think a girl who is old enough to know her own mind should make her own selection of a husband. It's your mother who's the trouble. But, remember that it's really their love and consideration for you that primarily cause your parents to take their stand. Your mother forgets the joy and pride of her own economies and accomplishments in her young married days, and, perhaps, remembers more vividly the hardships. That's rather natural. So be gentle with her, but firm in your attitude and declarations of loyalty to the man you love. If your mental attitude isn't a wobbly one, it will accomplish the purpose of winning her over.

Of course, you know that two can not live as cheaply as one, though, so don't be in too much of a hurry to marry. Your young man may get well on his feet if you wait awhile.

Winning Him Back

Dear Martha Lee: I have been going with a fellow for a few months, but he lately changed and others say he tells them that he does not want a steady girl. He never told me, though. We work at the
