

BUYERS' WEEK VISITORS STATE BUSINESS GOOD

Brisk Wholesale Trade Indicates Heavy Winter Season.

With bright prospects for fall and winter business, Indiana merchants attending Buyers' Week, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, are making larger purchases than last year, wholesalers stated today.

Hoosier merchants feel optimistic about winter business in the rural communities, according to interviews with several attending Buyers' Week smokers, Tuesday night, at the Chamber of Commerce. More than 350 were guests of the thirty Indianapolis firms participating in the observance.

Weather Hurt Some

Many cited the rainy season, which caused heavy damage to agriculture as an element which will prevent business from being what it might have been. Farmers in river bottoms were hard hit by the water fall in recent weeks.

Wholesalers reported good sales in holiday goods, indicating heavy Christmas trade.

Guests of wholesalers bought more consistently and widely represented Indiana buyers, Clifford Dunphy, wholesale trade division manager, stated.

"Wholesalers are well pleased with success of the week this year," Dunphy declared.

Worth $500,000

Buyers' Week is worth $500,000 to Indianapolis, it was estimated by Harry S. Noel, of Ely Lilly and Company.

"There has been decided improvement the last six weeks. Buyers' Week brings new people here and creates good will among Hoosier merchants. Buying was heavier than last year, indicating business will be good this winter," declared Otto Keller, vice-president of E. C. Dolmetsch Company, fancy goods, 219 S. Meridian St.

William H. Oliver, buyer at Havens & Geddes, wholesale dry goods, 202 S. Meridian St., said attendance was largest this year that it has ever been.

"The rains have cut the amount of business done, but prospects for fall are flattering," Oliver said.

"We have increased prosperity because there has been increased farming this year," declared John H. Niblack, general merchant, Wheatland.

"In our community the peach, corn and wheat crops were good, indicating business will pick up this fall," Niblack said.

"With cool weather business will take care of itself. Farmers are feeling pretty good in our section and the corn crop is good," said L. J. Scheidt, Columbus, clothing dealer.

"We are hoping for better business than last year," Scheidt said.

as last year," said Guy Lewis, Mecca general merchant.

"Business is a tie with last year. I expect good fall trade as soon as the weather changes," Herman Bruning, Columbus, said.

"Charles Morrison, Hartsville store keeper, believes farmers' buying power normal and predicts a prosperous future for his community."

"We have better quality corn than last year, and trade appears to be better. With plenty of corn I think the holiday buying will be buoyant and good business continuing for several months," declared Herman Grimes, goods furnishing dealer at north Salem.

The Palace and Lyric theaters will be hosts to buyers tonight.

ACCUTE ATTACK FATAL

Frederick Vance, Artist, Dies at Nashville.

Funeral services for Frederick Nelson Vance, 46, member of the Brown County Artists' Colony, who died Tuesday at his studio at Nashville, will be held at Crawfordville at the home of his mother, Mrs. George Vance. Death followed an attack of acute indigestion. Vance leaves a widow, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Vance of 2014 Broadway, a teacher in School No. 57 in Irvington, Vance had studied art in Chicago and Paris. His entries won three prizes at the 1926 State fair. He served as a soldier in France during the World War.

TWO PERSONS BURNED

Woman Injured When Pouring Coal Oil on Stove.

Mrs. Elizabeth Washington, 38, Negro, 510 Spring St., was burned about the hands, chest and back Tuesday night when she attempted to pour some coal oil in a cookstove.

John Vaughn, 26, Negro, of 714 Cincinnati St., who rushed to her aid, was slightly burned. Mrs. Washington was taken to the city hospital.

HEALTH DIRECTOR AT HAAG DRUG STORE IS PRAISED; SCORES ARE RID OF LONG STANDING AILMENTS

A. G. Payne Tells Cause of Catarrh, Stomach, Kidney and Nerve Troubles; Advises How Such Ills Should Be Treated.

Interesting Case of Washington St. Resident Is Brought to Light.

Mr. A. G. Payne, well-known health director from Lexington, Ky., and his secretary Mr. J. W. Gray, who have established headquarters at Haag's drug store, 114 N. Pennsylvania St., this city, are now being warmly praised by scores who have been relieved of catarrh, stomach, kidney and nerve troubles.

Mr. Payne has delivered lectures on how to feel young and be vigorous at the age of sixty-five in almost every large city in America. Yesterday he said, "The result of my investigations here in Indianapolis have convinced me that most of the people are suffering from catarrhal affections."

"This is so in every manufacturing city and the indoor worker is usually the worst sufferer. Catarrh of the stomach is one of the most common causes of dyspepsia," Mr. Payne says. "Catarrh of the nose and throat often leads to deafness. Show me a man whose hearing is affected and nine times out of ten I will show you a man who is suffering with catarrh."

"Frequently the lungs become affected. The mental and physical state of catarrhal sufferers is indeed very unfortunate and it is a surprise to know what an immense amount of people are suffering from this almost universal ailment when they believe something else is the cause of their trouble."

The symptoms of catarrh Mr. Payne gave as offensive breath, constant sniffing, frequent sneezing, watery eyes, headaches, full head, pains in the stomach, side and kidney region, depression of spirits, low vitality, unsound sleep, loss of appetite and a great liability to catch cold and sore throat.

Mr. Payne said that it is becoming better known every day that proper food and the right kind of stimulation for the liver and kidneys corrects these conditions quickly and satisfactorily.

Several years ago Mr. Payne commended a valuable medicine made from roots, bark and herbs that grew in the fertile Blue Grass Region of Kentucky that has since proved a boon to hundreds of thousands of invalids.

A. G. Payne

He named his medicine "Husky." This section of the country produces a superior grade of hay and tobacco and it is not surprising to learn that the same excellent quality is possessed by its medical products. A good example of what Husky is doing for many is contained in the statement of Mrs. B. L. Ensley, 316 1/2 E. Washington St. Mrs. Ensley says:

"Before I took Husky my back hurt me from morning until night and I believe I had lumbago. I couldn't bend over and I could hardly walk. My bladder became irritated and I suffered with all of the symptoms that this ailment causes."

"Finally I got so nervous that I couldn't sleep soundly. I would wake up many times during the night and sometimes it was several hours before I could go back to sleep."

"Consequently I felt tired and worn out during the day. My appetite was poor and even what little I ate disagreed with me."

"I took Husky and in a few days I felt like a different woman. My back doesn't hurt me and my nerves are better. I sleep soundly. I have a good appetite and my food doesn't hurt me. I'm stronger, too. I'm glad to recommend Husky to all of my friends."

Those who desire to learn more of Husky may do so at any of the Haag drug stores. It may also be obtained at any well stocked drug store anywhere.—Advertisement.

RILEY PARK SALE IS PROTESTED BY WEST SIDE CLUB

Civic Body Against Baseball Park Move of City Officials.

Declaring that Mayor Duvall and city officials have no right to sell Riley Park to the Indianapolis Baseball Club, West Indianapolis citizens who paid for the park today prepared to send a delegation to protest to Duvall and the park board at the meeting Thursday.

"We believe the proposed sale of Riley Park should be condemned and we shall enter vigorous protest," was a motion carried by the Enterprise Civic League Tuesday night at the W. Morris St. branch library.

Noise Objection

Committee members are: Dr. O. L. Deitch, 1211 Oliver Ave., chairman; O. F. Stierwalt, J. C. Matthews, John C. Vandivier, J. L. Wilson, Frank Turner, Joseph Levin, Mrs. J. W. Richey, Mrs. Thomas Murray, Mrs. Harry Miley and the Rev. James R. Quick, pastor of the River Ave. Baptist Church.

"We citizens of this community not only paid for the park, but built the shelter house," Dr. Deitch said. "We did not get a cent from the rest of the city for this purchase. Why should we allow the city to sell this beautiful park and to deprive our children of a place to play and submit to the noise, traffic congestion, depreciation in property values a baseball park would mean."

John C. Vandivier, 825 River Ave., said the thousands of children, who go to the park playground would have to play in streets or alleys.

"On Sunday when you want quiet you could hear baseball fans yelling for miles," Frank Turner, 1146 Blaine Ave., said.

Scheme Defeated

James C. Matthews, 823 River Ave., and O. E. Williamson, league president, spoke against the proposal. Defense of the scheme was made by J. Stephen Fullen, 1031 Blaine Ave., and William E. Clauser, secretary of the Indianapolis baseball club.

Clauser said the club proposed to build a beautiful stadium to cost $300,000 and to seat 17,500 persons, with three acres of parking space to relieve traffic congestion. He said the club would not persist in the move if a majority of the residents were opposed.

FROWNS ON LOUD TINTS ON STATION

Zoning Board Objects to Bright Colored Gas Depots.

If you plan to build a filling station, select your color scheme with care and avoid the loud tints of the collegian's necktie.

That in substance was the advice Roy C. Shanberger, member of the board of zoning appeals, tendered without cost Tuesday to the legions of persons who wish to rezone nearly every residential corner in the city so that snappy little filling stations may arise.

Color Objectionable

Shanberger objected so strenuously to a red and yellow color combination an oil company has adopted that the other board members agreed to delay decision on a request for a station at the southeast corner of La Salle and New York Sts.

When school board representatives and a crowd of property owners voiced disapproval of a proposed station at Forty-Sixth St. and Central Ave., the board denied the application.

Permit to Western

However, a permit was granted to the Western Oil and Refining Company to erect a station at the northwest corner of Twenty-Fifth and Delaware Sts., only a few blocks away from Delaware St. and Fall Creek, where councilmen are considering allowing a permit.

Delaware St. north to Fall Creek some may be converted into a business zoning, according to the view of many zoning authorities.

Opinion is common that the majority faction of city council will withdraw its opposition to the proposed stations at Delaware St. and Fall Creek.

WOMAN SOUGHT 'KICK'

Serious as Result of Taking Poison, Report.

Taking poison to get the "kick" out of it, and to be near death was the motive given by Miss Mary Shuttlesworth, 22, of 321 N. Capitol Ave., found at her home early today. City hospital attaches said her condition is fair and she probably will recover.

Miss Edna Workman, 38, of 823 N. Capitol Ave., refused to give police a motive for taking poison. She is in a critical condition at the city hospital, as result of a large dose of two different concoctions she took in alcohol, police said.

EXAMINER IS NAMED

T. G. Inwood to Start Work in South Bend District.

Appointment of T. G. Inwood of Thornstown as a State bank examiner was announced today by Thomas D. Barr, State bank commissioner. Inwood, who has been connected with the banking department for the last year in charge of closed institutions, succeeds L. M. Maroney of Topeka, Ind., resigned. Inwood was recommended by several prominent bankers of Boone County. Barr said. He will be in temporary charge of examination work in the South Bend district, it was announced.

CITY BUILDING ACTIVITIES

HOME BUILDING ON SOUND BASIS IN INDIANAPOLIS

Railroad Men's Building and Savings President Is Optimistic.

Home-building generally in Indianapolis has hit a sane and sensible price basis, according to W. T. Cannon, president of the Railroadmen's Building and Savings Association, 21 Virginia Ave.

As the head of one of the most influential home building concerns and perhaps the largest in point of capitalization and total building activities covering a period of thirty-nine years, Cannon is an authority on home-building activities in Indianapolis.

"Our business has been going along all right and is good," he said. "I'd say that it is all one could expect. Building is on a more sound economic basis now than it has been for four or five years back." Prices are more steady and sensible.

"About five years ago, building prices were too high for many persons, but they went heavily into debt and many were unable to keep up their payments and let their places go back. Today I believe that building conditions are more normal and home-seekers are getting less pretentious homes at better prices. When persons undertake to build homes too costly and fail they suffer and others suffer, too."

Cannon said that more building was going on at present than last year, especially in new additions. The Railroadmen's Building and Savings Association loans money to persons who want to buy homes on the payment plan and also serves as one of the strongest savings associations in the country.

The company is vitally interested in the "Indianapolis First" movement, Cannon said.

CABINET BURNER PROVES POPULAR

Uses Oil Fuel and Saves Firing Bothers.

Simplicity of construction has made the new oil burner of the Cabinet-Burner Company, 435 Massachusetts Ave., popular in many homes. The Cabinet oil burner is built to operate automatically.

This burner is built in a size and capacity expressly for the ordinary heating plant of a family home, and requires no service attention. The oil feed is regulated by a heat control thermostat, which, when once set for the exact temperature one desires for a home, feeds the burner with more or less oil as needed to maintain that exact degree of heat, and does it more perfectly than the human hand could do by constant attendance.

Oil, like coal, depends upon weather conditions for the amount required. Much fuel is required in severe weather and but little during mild weather. Figuring cost of entire heating season, oil heat will be considered reasonable as compared to coal, with all its attending expense and its exasperating muss.

The Cabinet Oil burner is manufactured in Elwood, Ind., by the Cabinet Burner Company. It is the result of two years of careful engineering, and not an experiment, according to experts. It reduces the drudgery of winter's heating problems and adds to the general family comfort and health.

North Side Home Attractive

A splendid example of the high-grade type of home construction work of the Dalby-Unger Construction Company, 525 Merchants Bank Bldg., in Indianapolis is the Wood Unger home, 3642 Winthrop Ave., one of the most tastefully designed and decorated homes in the Hoosier capital.

Built on colonial lines of architecture, the Unger home stands out distinctively. The red brick exterior, with the French red tile roof, adds a marked atmosphere of solidity and comfort to the house.

Circular steps lead to the main entrance off of which opens a spacious center hall. To one side is the long living room and solarium on the south front. The living room is finished in two-tone woodwork, mahogany and cream. The rough plastered walls are high-lighted. A special three-arch fireplace with a sun mantle is built into the living room.

Bath Downstairs

The dining room is large and well-lighted, leading off the center hall to the left. The rough plastered walls are high-lighted in baby blue. A special built-in china closet occupies nearly the entire side wall.

Off the hallway is a downstairs bathroom, equipped with a Sitz tub. The walls are plain white with a tiled floor, trimmed in blue.

To the right of the dining room is the kitchen finished in old ivory, the side walls in keene-cement, the color imbedded in the upper walls.

MAKES SPECIALTY OF METAL WORK

Metal specialties of practically all types for building projects are handled by the Ideal Heating Company, 2437-39 Central Ave.

Metal for roofs, gutters, spouts and other building purposes may be obtained from this company's stocks, or ordered special, according to Harry Escot, a firm member.

"We have had a splendid business this summer, and anticipate a good fall business," Escot said.

As makers of the Escot furnace, the company has established an enviable business reputation. For twenty-six years the company has been located in Indianapolis and is installing its furnaces in many of the finer homes of the city. Built of all-steel products and equipped for oil-burners, many satisfied customers are cited by the company-officials. The company maintains a large repair department, carrying in stock furnace parts for practically all makes. The summer repair business, Escot asserted, had been good.

DOES SHADE WORK FOR INSTITUTION

High Type Service Given Butler University.

"One of the latest contracts of the Indianapolis Shade Company, 3522 E. New York St., was the re-fitting of window shades at Butler College, according to Mrs. C. W. Post, associated with her husband in the company.

The company has reversed many of the Butler College shades and installed a number of new blinds, she said.

"We are glad of this opportunity to demonstrate to such an institution as Butler College the quality of our work and the type of service we are able to give in supplying window shades," she declared.

The company handles a high-grade type of window shade, using Columbia cloth in the manufacture of blinds, a quality of window cloth used exclusively in Government buildings throughout the country. Mrs. Post explained. Business this summer has been exceptionally good, she asserted, and prospects are splendid for a fine fall business.

The company has become better known as a result of its advertising policy. It has adopted the unique trade slogan: "A shady business on the square."
