

MINISTERS GO IN RETREAT TODAY AT RESERVATION

Pastors Devote Entire Day to Discussing Problems With Each Other.

Indianapolis and other Indiana pastors today went into "retreat" at the Boy Scout reservation.

This retreat is the second one to be held here under the auspices of the Church Federation of Indianapolis.

The first part of the program started early today with sessions at the Roberts Park M. E. Church.

Motor cars took more than a hundred pastors to the scout reservation. The principal talk of the day was scheduled to be given by Dr. William O. Thompson of Columbus, Ohio, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church. He was scheduled to speak twice today, his subjects being "The Testimony of Christian Experience" and "Sources of Power."

Earl R. Conder, president of the church federation, called the retreat to order. Opening prayer was given by the Rev. V. P. Brock, city evangelist of the Disciples of Christ churches. Devotional services and around table talks followed.

Following a luncheon at noon at which the pastors were guests of the church federation, other talks were on the program for the afternoon.

SUFFERED YEARS SPENT HUNDREDS FINDING KONJOLA

Indianapolis Baseball Star of 1890 Finds New Health in Remarkable Medicine.

"Konjola proved to be the medicine that I had been spending hundreds of dollars trying to find, and now I wouldn't take any amount of money for the good it has done me," said Mr. Wallie Andrews, well known Indianapolis citizen, living at

MR. WALLIE ANDREWS

2350 N. Adams St., this city, in a statement to the Konjola Man at Hook's drug store, Pennsylvania and Market Sts., who is explaining this celebrated compound to the local public.

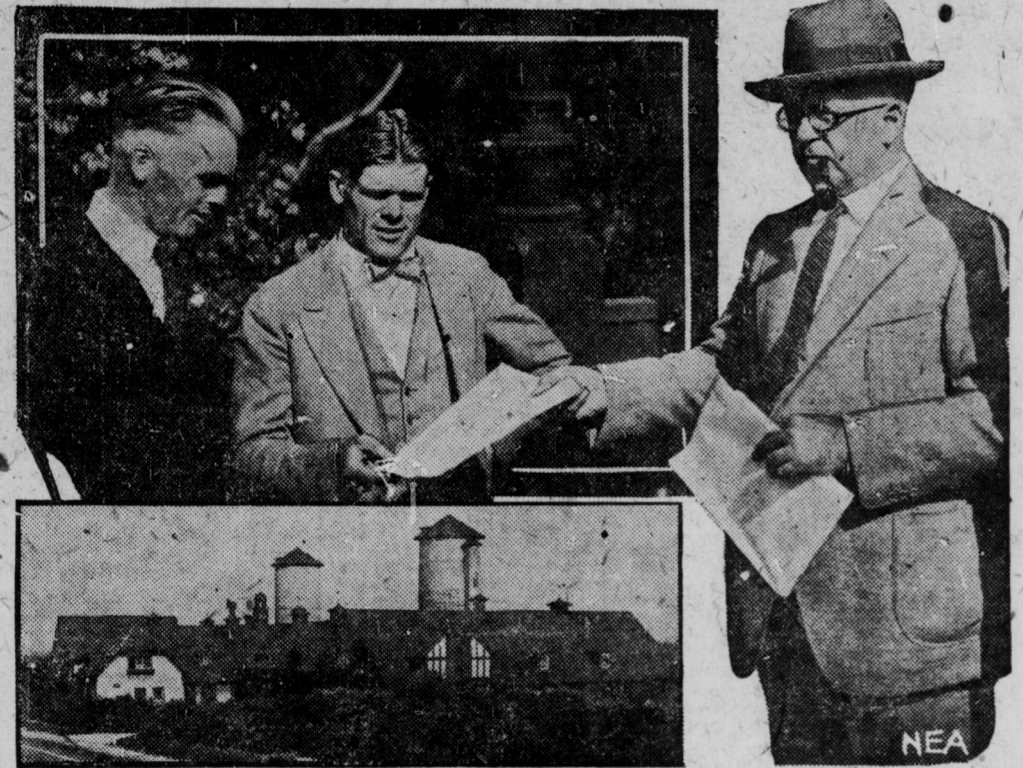

Mr. Andrews reached a height of fame between the years 1883 and 1890 on the Indianapolis ball team. He played against such teams as Louisville, Columbus, Memphis and Omaha, and was rated as one of the best first-basemen of his day.

"I'm a man of 37," said Mr. Andrews, "and until about 12 years ago I was in the best of health. An athletic life kept me in trim years ago, but when I passed 45 I soon realized that I had kidney and bladder trouble. Every year I seemed to get worse, and I don't know how many hundreds I spent for medical treatment, well known remedies and what not. Still I suffered. My kidneys became weak and would nearly drive me frantic. Terrible, sharp pains would catch me in the back, and these would come suddenly—just like a bolt of thunder from a clear sky. Each agony can't be described in words, but oh, how I pity anyone suffering the torture of kidney trouble. Every morning I would feel sore, stiff and aching, all thru my limbs, and it felt like a hard days job to get out of bed. I had fainting and dizzy spells, loss of appetite, and my stomach was affected so that I had cramps, indigestion, and would get short-winded. On top of all this suffering I had the 'flu' about a year which left me a positive health-wreck."

"I heard about Konjola from several people who knew my sick condition, so I ordered this medicine, but I frankly admit that I never expected anything to help me. I figured it would be more money wasted, but I tried Konjola anyway, and now I will swear on an oath that it is the only medicine I can truthfully recommend to people who suffer. I took 8 bottles of Konjola. That has been over two months ago, and today I feel like I did in the old days. My kidneys are in good working order, the back-pains are completely gone, and I only have to get up once at night and sometimes not at all. The awful burning in my bladder is relieved, and my stomach never gives me any trouble, such as indigestion or cramps. I've gained in weight and strength, and found new health in Konjola, so I can't hardly say anything but the very best for this medicine."

The Konjola Man is at Hook's drug store, Pennsylvania and Market Sts., Indianapolis, where he is fully meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is sold in every Hook drug store in Indianapolis, and by leading druggists in the nearby towns throughout this section.—Advertisement.

Two Brothers Out to Make De luxe Farm Owned By Senator Pay Profit

Mark Williamson (left) and his brother Frank (center) receive their contracts for free use of a 900-acre farm from Senator James Couzens. Inset shows the $125,000 barn, which is part of its equipment.

DETROIT, Sept. 27.—Two young men, brothers, who learned dirt farming on Michigan's fertile acres and studied its technical angles in the State Agricultural College, are going to find out if farming de luxe can be made to pay a profit.

The brothers are Mark and Frank Williamson. They have been chosen by United States Senator James Couzens to operate his 900-acre farm in Oakland County, twenty-five miles north of here, rent and tax free for five years. The only stipulation in their contract is that they make it pay.

Senator Couzens, several years ago undertook farming in the grand style as a hobby. He bought a herd of 125 pure-bred Holstein cattle and built a $125,000 barn with steam heat, an ice plant, shower baths for the help and other unfarm-like innovations.

It was a fine idea but it lost money steadily. At last Senator Couzens lost patience. He offered to give free use of the farm for five years to anyone who could operate it on a paying basis.

The Williamson brothers are the lucky men. They meet the Senator's requirement that his farmers must be young men; Mark is 33 and Frank is 23. Mark is married and has three small children; Frank is single.

They are confident they can make the farm pay and their plans are all made. They will operate it as a dairy and sheep farm, will stock it with sixty head of Jersey or Guernsey cattle and expect to find a market for high-grade milk either in Detroit or Pontiac. They will also buy 500 or more laying hens and several hundred sheep.

Fully a thousand people applied to Senator Couzens for the job. The Williamson brothers were brought up on a farm, studied at the Michigan State Agricultural College and have farmed ever since. Senator Couzens has signed contracts with them and they are ready to go to work.

STATE TAKES 838 FISH FROM LAKES

2,648,336 Put in Public Waters This Year.

Since June 1 a total of 838 undesirable fish have been removed from Indiana's lakes by a crew of men working for the department of conservation, the September bulletin issued by George N. Manfield, State fish and game superintendent, shows.

The men destroyed 741 gar, forty-five dogfish and fifty-one big carp. Three of the dogfish averaged thirteen pounds each and one gar, fifty inches long, weighed the same.

During August the department distributed 194,688 fingerling fish from the State hatcheries. Thus far this year a total of 2,648,336 fish have been distributed for stocking the State's public waters.

Out of 139 arrests during August by game wardens, 128 convictions were obtained. Fines and costs totaled $2,327.35. Six cases were continued and five dismissed. The leading offense, as usual, was hunting and fishing without license, seventy-one sportsmen being arrested for this infraction.

SAYS TRAFFIC IS VITAL CONCERN

Arnett Points Out Work of State Chamber.

Business men have come to accept a definite responsibility concerning transportation, according to William H. Arnett, managing director of the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce.

"This responsibility is one of correlating the advantages of transportation with the business of building our cities," Arnett declared.

"In a large measure, this accounts for the efficient traffic department in the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce. Here we find a work being so well done, affecting all the people of our State, that more than ever it seems transportation is everybody's business, for surely transportation costs are paid by the consumer.

"The distribution of Indiana made goods, to all parts of the world, provides many complex problems, as our traffic department's program of work discloses and very clearly bears out the above statements.

"There is work being done for all the groups: Manufacturers, farmers, wholesalers, jobbers, retail merchants; in fact, all lines of business activity are affected in the proper solution of several big cases now before the commissions for decisions, such as the eastern class rate, petroleum products, iron and steel, sand and gravel, furniture, chemicals, brick, coal, western class rate, crushed, builders' and limestone, interstate and intrastate class rates; in fact, these and other cases affect the entire business interest of our State.
