

PRESIDENT'S DAY IS OBSERVED BY AMITICIA CLUB

Luncheon Held at Claypool—Musical Program Presented.

The Amiticia Club observed president's day with a luncheon at the Claypool today. Mrs. Arthur T. Harms, luncheon committee chairman, was assisted by Mesdames Rufus O'Harrow, George Green, Milton Wareing and Frederick Bittner.

The table was decorated with a centerpiece of flowers in pastel shades. A musical program, arranged by Mrs. John Larson, was given. Mrs. O. M. Richardson sang "In the Beautiful Garden of Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Walker Bayler. A violin and piano solo was given by Miss Mary Mahon, violinist, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. James Carr. Mrs. Walker Bayler and Mrs. O. M. Richardson sang duets.

The Rev. George Henninger, pastor of the E. Tenth Street M. E. Church, who recently returned from an extended trip abroad, told of conditions in a talk on "The Holy Land." Covers were laid for Mesdames David Ross, J. Lawrence Wells, William C. Buser, John L. Duval, Alfred Washburn, Ibbie Shaw Terrell, A. L. Reeves, Harry Bohn, William H. Blodgett, Arthur Carr, Carl Doyl, O. C. Lukenbill, George Green, Samuel Grimes, Walker C. Bayler, Rufus O'Harrow, C. H. FEELING LOTS BETTER NOW

Writes Ethel May Snider Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Doing housework and taking care of a sick woman proved to be too much for Ethel May Snider, R. R. 1, of Hartford, Conn. She had been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Overwork had so undermined her health that it gave up all outside work, and when she saw this medicine advertised in the "Star" and other papers, she went to a drug store and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

She took it regularly and was greatly benefited and now feels very much better.

Ethel May Snider's experience is similar to that of thousands of other women in all walks of life, who have sent testimonials to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass.

From Maine to California, from Wisconsin to Texas, and from Nebraska to Florida letters are received every day from grateful women who say the Vegetable Compound has helped to restore their health.

Perkins now is president, will be guests of honor at a tea to be given Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. Willis Adams, 1452 N. Alabama St.

Mrs. Peck is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas F. Hudgins, here.

Luncheon for Miss Hodges

Miss Lucile Hodges whose marriage to S. B. VanArsdale will take place Oct. 6, was guest of honor at a luncheon Monday at the Columbia Club given by Miss Sara Frances Downes and Miss Lucille Thorpe. The guests included members of the bridal party and the long table at which they were seated was arranged with a centerpiece of dahlias and roses and streamers of pastel colored ribbons led from the centerpiece to the places, marked with small perfume bottles as favors.

Guests besides Miss Hodges were the Mesdames Elizabeth Hodges, Ruth McKenzie, Mary Ann Miller, Helen Stevens, Helen Meyers and Glen Sewenk. The hostesses presented Miss Hodges with a small oriental rug.

Marriage Announced

Word has been received of the marriage of Miss Ruth Frisinger, daughter of Mrs. Jaes Frisinger of Decatur, to George Sprague Meyers of Jersey City, N. J., which was solemnized Saturday at the home of the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyers left immediately after the ceremony for California, where Mr. Meyers will continue his research work in the zoology department of Leland Stanford University. Mrs. Meyers is a graduate of Indiana University and a member of the Delta Gamma and Tri Kappa sororities. She is the sister of Mr. Dwight Peterson, 4014 N. New Jersey St.

Martha Lee's Column

Dear Miss Lee: Will you please tell me what is best to serve on a hay ride? Is it proper for the boys to pay for the use of the truck?

We are going to have a party (lasting about an hour), before we go on the hay ride. Is it necessary to serve anything at the party? We are of course, going to have refreshments at the place where we go on our hay ride. Thank you very much for the information.

In answer to your questions in order, I would say:

1. Your hay ride probably will be given soon, and it is around Halloween time, so why not Halloween food? Cider and doughnuts make a most satisfactory menu with pumpkin pie. If you are going to build a fire and want to go to more trouble, you could have chicken or ham sandwiches, a mixed salad of some kind, hot coffee and fruit for dessert, or you might take ground meat along and make fried hamburgers or weiners in buns with baked beans, coffee and toasted marshmallows. Almost any combination proves satisfactory when outdoors and the crowd is merry.

2. If the boys are helping to plan the party with you, then they should pay for the truck, but if you are asking them as your guests, they should not.

It is not necessary to have any refreshments before the hay ride.

You will marvel at the array of deliciously prepared foods at White Cafeteria "On the Circle." As always—odd penny prices.

of pearls, or the vanity case, found when they are caught.

Speaking of the ladies who bootleg, we are told of a famous pair called "Emperor" Pic and Florence Lassandra. They were caught and arrested. The man declared that he alone was guilty. The woman declared the same. To make sure, the law hung them both. Just a chance to remark, "honor among thieves," and "in the mud and scum of things, there's always something there that sings."

Poor, abused woman, indeed! Somebody called Ernest Vierbrocker, who swam the English channel a few days after Trudy Ederle brought glory to her sex and America. He bettered Trudy's time by more than two hours. A few days later another woman, Mrs. Clemington Corson, shook the water of France from her tresses on the English side. Her time was not nearly that of the man's. But every one is talking about Trudy and Mrs. C., and hardly any one remembers poor Ernest's name. It takes a woman to throw the proper romantic glamor over any feat!

Can you satisfactorily abate your faire phiz without a wash cloth? Neither can I. Every time I stay at a hotel I mean to complain to the management by putting a note in one of these little boxes labeled "suggestions for bettering our service." Any hotel which would be as generous with some nice, woolly wash cloths as with its towels would get all my valuable patronage, I promise.

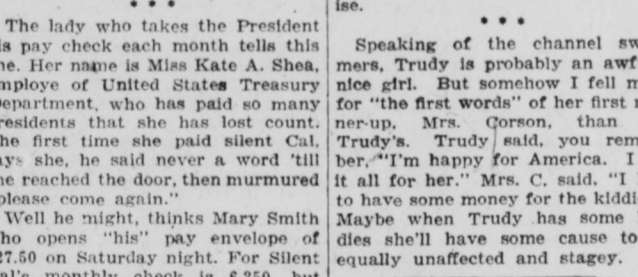

Speaking of the channel swimmers, Trudy is probably an awfully nice girl. But somehow I fell more for "the first words" of her first run-up. Mrs. Corson, than for Trudy's. Trudy said, you remember, "I'm happy for America. I did it all for her." Mrs. C. said, "I had to have some money for the kiddies." Maybe when Trudy has some kiddies she'll have some cause to be equally unaffected and stagey.

GARLAND FORTUNE GONE

By United Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The fortune which Charles Garland, eccentric farmer, refused four years ago and instead devoted to the aid of idealists, has been entirely consumed. The $1,674,000, has gone for the aid of workers, schools, labor publication, farms and labor colleges.

Her Own Way. A Story of a Girl of Today

JUDY'S DILEMMA

"Judy, do you know you have completed my cure?" said John Meredith. "Never again can I call myself cursed by life; never again can I say that I am not as other men are, for I find that I can be moved by pure emotion—thank God for that! And you do love me, Judy, do you not?"

The question brought me back with a thud. I stood up and shook my soft feather trimmed evening wrap into place.

"You do love me," he whispered again.

"But your soft lips did answer my kisses, your yielding form did not stiffen in my arms; you acted as though you loved my caresses, and surely no woman does that unless she loves the man who gives them."

"My dear John," I said, "that is an exploded notion. Our mothers were taught that no girl could love caresses for their own sake, as men do; but suddenly we have found out that we are human; there is something very sweet in your kisses, John."

Again he pulled me toward him. "Judy, you do not deny your emotions, you do love me, you must love me. Darling, take pity on me. I have missed so much. I have never had any joy or real happiness before in all my life."

"Judy," called Joan, "are you ready?"

"Yes, dear, I was just coming."

"Well, then, I'll send for John," she said as she came through the drawing room door out into the hall. John also stepped forward. "I am here with Judy, Sis," he said.

In spite of all his efforts to keep emotion out of his voice it slightly trembled.

Joan looked at me rather curiously, but only remarked: "I never saw you looking so lovely, Judy; I don't think I ever saw you in white."
