

ILLEGAL EVIDENCE SEIZING IS RULED ILLEGAL BY JUDGE

Defendants in Two Cases Are Dismissed in Municipal Court.

Holding that the manner of obtaining evidence was illegal, Lawrence Shaw, judge pro tem, in Municipal Court Two, dismissed defendants in two alleged liquor violation cases Friday, on motions to suppress the evidence, filed by defense attorneys.

One case was against George Doolittle, 407 N. Arsenal Ave., and the other against Charles Smith, 134 Thomas, arrested at 303 Osage St.

Search and arrest warrants were issued in both cases by Municipal Judge Dan V. White.

"Based on Hearsay"

According to briefs in the Doolittle case, the warrant was issued on the statement of a police officer "based on hearsay and fiction, and not upon personal knowledge and information." Police searched the property and "claimed to have secured" evidence, it is said.

Joe Rand Beckett, deputy State attorney general, did not present any brief or further evidence in the court Friday. Beckett charged the court had no jurisdiction in the case.

Broke Into Place

In the case against Thomas and Smith it is charged that police officers searched a third man whom they met on the streets and who told them he obtained his liquor at the Osage St. residence. It is said police took him to the place, broke into the house by unlocking the door after reaching through a broken window glass and arrested Smith and Thomas.

The three men were jailed and then a search warrant was issued and a search made, which is said to have revealed a small quantity of liquor. Judge Shaw held that the arrest of the third man was illegal and therefore the entire procedure was illegal. Beckett, declared the arrest of the man had nothing to do with the manner in which the additional evidence was obtained.

SUGGESTS TRIPLE CLARK MEMORIAL

Hall, Bridge and Park in Architect's Plans.

Three memorials to George Rogers Clark, conqueror of the old Northwest, are suggested by H. Van Buren Magonigle, noted New York architect and designer of memorials. A hall of history, a bridge across the Wabash River at Vincennes, and a park are provided for in plans Magonigle has submitted to the memorial commission.

Magonigle's program has been approved in principle by the commission which is arranging celebration in 1929 of the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of Clark's achievement. The architect has been instructed to make drawings of his memorial conception.

The hall would be built on the site of old Ft. Sackville at Vincennes and the park would be laid out around it. With these two projects, a boulevard system is suggested to link the park, the home of Gen. William Henry Harrison and Harrison Park, which contains the site of the old territorial capital building. The span across the Wabash would be called Lincoln memorial bridge, connecting it with a proposed midwest Lincoln memorial plan.

Sober Santa Claus Is Christmas News

"The Hoosier Santa Claus will find liquor scarce this Christmas time."

A. R. Harris, deputy prohibition administrator, was speaking. "There isn't a drop of really good liquor on the Indiana market. That is putting it strong, but I believe it is true," Harris said.

Moonshine, home brew and industrial alcohol concoctions will be practically the only bottle wares available for the coming holiday season, Harris said.

Does Not Suffer From Asthma Now

Every Sign of Trouble Gone, Works All the Time Now.

People who suffer from asthma or chronic bronchial coughs will be much interested in a letter written by William F. McKinley, 649 Arbor Avenue, Indianapolis. He says: "I had been a sufferer from asthma for fifteen years. Was unable to do any work for four or five months in a year, had to sit in a chair for weeks, unable to lie down. I tried different medicines, but they did me very little good. I commenced taking Nacor in September, 1923, and I hadn't taken a half bottle until I could lie down and rest at night. On the way to the court house, I was told that Nacor was what it has done for me. I recommend it to all sufferers from asthma and bronchitis."

If you suffer from asthma, bronchitis, or have a chronic cough, you should read the Nacor booklet which will be sent free by Nacor Medicine Co., 413 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. This booklet also contains letters from people whose troubles disappeared years ago and never returned. No matter how serious your case seems, call or write for this free information. It may save you a lot of trouble.

Another Building Goes A-Journeying

The Cambridge Apartments on the move.

The Cambridge Apartments, formerly on the southwest corner of Pennsylvania and Michigan Sts., are on their way. It is the "smart" thing at present in Indianapolis for buildings to go on promenades through the streets. The Cambridge is in Michigan St. now, just west of Shortridge High School. In its travels it will go east along Michigan St. to Delaware, and thence north on Delaware to its new resting place on the northwest corner of Delaware and North Sts. H. H. Woodsmall, president of the H. H. Woodsmall Company, owns the structure.

It was necessary to move the apartment because it was in the site of the war Memorial Plaza. The building is finished with light brick on one side which faced Michigan St., in its former location. The structure will be turned part way around at the corner of Michigan and Delaware Sts., and the same thing will take place at the intersection of North and Delaware Sts., so that in the new location the light brick will face North St., thus turning the building "end for end."

The Cambridge weighs more than 2,000 tons, slightly less than the Haugh Hotel, its neighbor, moved recently. The same firm, Kresau Oravets House Moving Company of Pittsburgh, which took the Haugh hotel on its jaunt is the chaperone on the latest journey. John Pazicky is superintendent on the job.

The "latest movement" in flats, it is thought, will take approximately three weeks. The Pennsylvania street car tracks are likely to be passed Saturday night.

The movers are using some 2,500 pieces of fir timber 6 by 8 by 32 inches and 200 pieces of railroad iron.

The building is 46½ feet wide and 116½ feet long.

FUND CAMPAIGN REAL WORK ON

(Continued From Page 1)

and first report of results will be heard Monday noon at the Claypool. The campaign began officially Friday, following an opening luncheon in the Riley room of the Claypool. About 500 attended. The campaign will run to about Nov. 15. By that time the workers expect to have collected the quota of $63,000, which is $33,000 more than last year.

Fred Hoke, Community Fund president, instructed the workers to observe the Sabbath day by working for the fund.

"Observance of the Sabbath could not be done more creditably than by working for the Community Fund," said Hoke. "This is money consecrated to work of good deeds, and I do not believe anyone will resent being asked to subscribe on Sunday to a cause like this one."

Urges Larger Gifts Herman P. Lieber, general chairman of the campaign, announced at the luncheon Friday acceptance of the challenge of the Terre Haute Welfare League to reach its quota before the Indianapolis organization.

Fred Hoke made a short address to the workers, and said among other things that no solicitor should permit any one to subscribe less than in previous years.

The chairman of the men's special gifts "A" division, Dick Miller, said his committee has been working two weeks. "The way looks bright," he commented. Miller, "put your hearts into this work, right along with the folks of this community."

Carl Wagner heads another special gifts committee. "We are all ready to settle into the work of collecting money and we have reason to think we're going to be first 'over the top.'"

Women Optimistic Mrs. Russell Fortine, chairman of the women's army declared that the "drive will be as successful as it was last year." The women's special gifts "C" division which is seeking $25,750 is headed by Mrs. Thomas Kackley and Mrs. William Coleman. Chairmen of the women's neighborhood division, seeking $30,128 are: North division, Mrs. R. Harry Miller; east, Mrs. Charles E. Rush; west, James E. Dunne; south, Miss Leona Popplano, and Mrs. Wolf Sussman; west Mrs. John H. Phillips.

Homer W. Borst, executive secretary of the Community Fund said the system of conducting the fund this year "is as nearly perfect as possible, and that's saying much. This movement comes the nearest to being the movement of all the people in the city," he concluded.

"I have not been making this for the newspapers," Remy said. "I wouldn't say a word, gentleman, considering all the discrepancies on the part of attorneys that have occurred between here and Michigan City."

Holmes said holding Mrs. Julian was the "most outrageous thing perpetrated" in Marion County.

"If you did that in the name of the law, you ought to be impeached," Holmes shouted.

"No, it's not the most outrageous," Remy fired back. "I can cite you things, of which you are aware, that are far more contemptible."

Julian was not present during the argument, but remained in the court room, while the attorneys were in the court's private office.

Colleges of Indiana Dry, Official Word Butler University and other Indiana colleges are relatively free from the liquor problem, according to A. R. Harris, deputy prohibition administrator.

Dispatches Friday stated Chicago agents were checking up on liquor sales to university students, following dismissal of twelve students from the University of Illinois.

"We have little trouble in college towns. It is seldom that we even receive a complaint, but when we do the university and city officials cooperate with us," said Harris.

Several Indiana colleges have taken drastic action in cases where students are found drinking. Harris said the stand of a Wabash College fraternity which warned alumni not to bring liquor back to school on festive occasions was typical of the attitude of college organizations. The fraternity threatened to remove the badge of any member who brought the same time?" "I did."

DICKMAN TELLS OF INDUCEMENT

(Continued From Page 1)

Dickman said he had made complete reports on investigation to his superior.

Letters of Mrs. Hall were read into the record. Charlotte Mills, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, was called "to identify certain papers which I did not have when she testified before." In the words of Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, who is attempting to convict Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, Henry and Willie Stevens, of the murder of the Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Mills.

Speculators Started Simpson then startled the spectators by offering in evidence a letter written, not by Charlotte's mother, but by Mrs. Hall.

The letter discussed family affairs, and commented on the way Willie Stevens, Mrs. Hall's eccentric brother, was conducting himself. The letter was to Henry Stevens.

Willie has been so incensed at you for not coming up instantly when you heard of my arrest, the letter said.

"It was terrific when they took Willie out, but he's been brave and fine and we're proud of him."

Defense counsel charged the letter had been "stolen" from Stevens' home.

Mrs. Mills was excused after identifying the handwriting as that of Mrs. Hall.

These garments, during the investigation, had been traced by detectives who seemed to attach great importance to the incident.

A second letter of Mrs. Hall's to Henry discussed money matters chiefly, but said:

"I was made almost ill by that long Thursday when they were making the application for bail. Finally it went against us. Mr. Nelson and then later Mr. Pfeiffer called me up and told me. Then Mr. Pfeiffer came to the house and later they all came, including Mr. McCarter."

Made Willie Mad "I felt so sorry for Mr. P. He was insulted outrageously by Simpson, and when Willie heard it he got up and started to go for him, but they quelled him down."

The reference to the bail hearing was the hearing which followed the arrest of various defendants. Mrs. Hall, herself, succeeded in securing bail.

Mrs. Anna K. Bearman testified after the letters had been read and who told of the alleged springing by Ralph Gorsline and Mrs. Minna Clark, was recalled to the stand for cross-examination when court opened.

Mrs. Mary Demarest, who said she had seen Henry Stevens in New Brunswick the day after the murder and who told of the alleged springing by Ralph Gorsline and Mrs. Minna Clark, was recalled to the stand for cross-examination when court opened.

"Was there any one with you when you saw Henry Stevens the day after the murder?" asked Clarence E. Case, of the defense.

"No," almost shouted the witness.

"Why do you say 'no' in that way?" "What's the difference between C flat and C sharp?" objected Simpson.

"Sometimes it's the difference between fair and unfair testimony."

Then Mrs. Demarest was asked to retell her story of having once seen Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills in Buccleugh Park when, she said, they were observed by Ralph Gorsline and Mrs. Minna Clark.

Reading Hymnal "Were Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills doing anything improper?" "No, they were just sitting on a bench. Dr. Hall had a book. I think it was a hymnal," said Mrs. Demarest.

When Case, asked what impression the scene had made on Mrs. Demarest, Simpson objected, commenting:

"It is for the jury to say whether Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were holding a song service or were spooning on that park bench and whether Borsline and Mrs. Clark were watching them."

"Do you love Mrs. Minna Clark?" Case asked.

"We've always been good friends." "Yet you came down here a few weeks ago to give evidence against your cousin which might lead to an indictment as an accessory to murder?" asked Case.

"Well, I got a subpoena and I thought I had to come."

In the course of Mrs. Demarest's cross-examination she described Gorsline's car.

"Oh, then, you do know something about automobiles except the one you saw Henry Stevens in?" broke in Case.

"Well, I had seen Gorsline's car many times," said the witness, "and never had seen Henry's car before."

She was excused.

DEMOCRAT TO CONTEST Charges More Votes Cast Than Were on Muncie Books.

MUNCIE, Ind., Nov. 6.—John C. Humphries, Democrat, defeated in Tuesday's election by Sheriff Harry McCauley by 112 votes, will contest the count in two precincts in Delaware County. In one precinct, Humphries claims, more votes were cast for the two candidates for sheriff than there were voters, as indicated on the books of the election clerks.

METHODISTS GIRL SELVES Bu United Press DENVER, Nov. 6.—The Methodist Church will be girded for battle against the opponents of prohibition in the 1928 election, according to Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Detroit, who is here attending the semi-annual conference of Methodists.

WILL LEATH CHEAT HER DAY IN COURT?

Real Issue of Hall Trial Being Fought Out in Hospital.

By United Press SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 6.—Court went ahead in the Hall-Mills murder case today with all seriousness, but lawyers, judge and jury knew that the real issue was being fought out not in the courtroom but in Somerville hospital.

There gathered at the bedside of Jane Gibson, three doctors, a corps of nurses and attendants were fighting to restore to health the famous "pig woman."

If they succeed sufficiently to permit her to be questioned, then the Hall-Mills case can go through with a feeling that all the evidence has been offered.

May Be Weeks Dr. A. A. Lawton, her local physician, said that "Mrs. Gibson's recovery is a matter of weeks, not days," and this view met the approval of Dr. E. L. Keyes, New York specialist in kidney diseases, who was called in as a consultant.

The court already has refused once to allow the trial to move to the bedside of Mrs. Gibson in the Somerset hospital and Dr. Keyes said he would be opposed to such a course.

An Empty Shell But should the "pig woman" fade from the picture, all the State would have left—unless some hitherto unknown person comes forward to fill her place—would be much of an empty shell.

For four years Jane Gibson has been the outstanding figure in this most baffling of all modern romantic murders. She was the only person who claimed to have seen any part of the tragic events which took place when the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were murdered.

Other persons heard shots; saw people come or go hours before or after the crime; but Mrs. Gibson alone said she was there.

She identified Willie Stevens and Mrs. Hall as two of the persons she saw scurrying around the crab-apple tree where the murdered bodies were found.

The State's entire case has been wound up in her—and for four years she has stood ready to tell her story.

Her history has been bizarre—in keeping with this bizarre criminal case. She is a woman of some 50 years, who started life as a circus rider; retired from the sawdust ring to raise pigs; lived in obscurity; until suddenly one night she rode her mule, Jenny, over the Phillips farm in the moonlight.

On that night, she maintains, she saw the murder.

And she rode her mule into a light of fame as brilliant as any that ever played upon her when she rode bareback in the circus.

She became known the country over. Everywhere "The Pig Woman" was spoken of. Her fame has lasted during the years since the Hall-Mills case all but abandoned as an unsolved puzzle.

Finally, however, new evidence came out. The case was brought to trial.

Her Day Arrives At last the "Pig Woman" was to have her day in court; the day which for years had been awaited.

Wednesday she was able to be at the courthouse. She talked with the United Press correspondents, who she waited the summons to the witness stand. But other witnesses had to lay a groundwork for her recital. She couldn't be called then.

And when Thursday brought the hour for her recital—illness had gripped her. She was in a hospital. Her fever was at 104. Doctors ruled she could not be disturbed.

Collapse of Mrs. Gibson at the very hour of the trial, contains many possibilities. Some say she can not recover. Others fear that the excitement of questioning might be such that for months it would be dangerous to permit her examination to take place.

The point at which the groups were further apart was on the question of the basis for naval disarmament, with France insisting upon total tonnage as the basis, while the American and British group insisted it should be based upon classes of vessels.

Aligned with the United States on one side were: Great Britain, Japan, Argentina and Chile; the other group, headed by France, consisted of Belgium, Italy and other European land powers.

The point at which the groups were further apart was on the question of the basis for naval disarmament, with France insisting upon total tonnage as the basis, while the American and British group insisted it should be based upon classes of vessels.

Aligned with the United States on one side were: Great Britain, Japan, Argentina and Chile; the other group, headed by France, consisted of Belgium, Italy and other European land powers.

The point at which the groups were further apart was on the question of the basis for naval disarmament, with France insisting upon total tonnage as the basis, while the American and British group insisted it should be based upon classes of vessels.

Aligned with the United States on one side were: Great Britain, Japan, Argentina and Chile; the other group, headed by France, consisted of Belgium, Italy and other European land powers.

The point at which the groups were further apart was on the question of the basis for naval disarmament, with France insisting upon total tonnage as the basis, while the American and British group insisted it should be based upon classes of vessels.

Aligned with the United States on one side were: Great Britain, Japan, Argentina and Chile; the other group, headed by France, consisted of Belgium, Italy and other European land powers.

The point at which the groups were further apart was on the question of the basis for naval disarmament, with France insisting upon total tonnage as the basis, while the American and British group insisted it should be based upon classes of vessels.

Aligned with the United States on one side were: Great Britain, Japan, Argentina and Chile; the other group, headed by France, consisted of Belgium, Italy and other European land powers.

The point at which the groups were further apart was on the question of the basis for naval disarmament, with France insisting upon total tonnage as the basis, while the American and British group insisted it should be based upon classes of vessels.

Aligned with the United States on one side were: Great Britain, Japan, Argentina and Chile; the other group, headed by France, consisted of Belgium, Italy and other European land powers.

The point at which the groups were further apart was on the question of the basis for naval disarmament, with France insisting upon total tonnage as the basis, while the American and British group insisted it should be based upon classes of vessels.

OFFICIAL FIGURES THUS FAR UPHOLD LEAD OF WATSON

Official tabulation of the State vote on United States Senators and all State officers, being conducted at the State House by Herman B. Gray, deputy Secretary of State, so far has corresponded with the unofficial compilation which gave Watson a lead of 10,865 for the Senate seat, over his Democratic opponent, Albert Stump. The vote was: Watson, 519,923; Stump, 509,073.

The official totals gave Senator Arthur R. Robinson a lead of slightly double that of Watson over Evans Woolen, his Democratic opponent, for the other seat. The vote was: Robinson, 516,419; Woolen, 493,877; Robinson's lead, 22,542.

Approximately forty of ninety-two counties in the State have made returns, twenty of which have been tabulated. Union County was the first to submit a complete return.

The board is experiencing some delay in posting complete figures, due to a number of county returns lacking in either the United States Senators' figures or returns of the vote on the four constitutional amendments. The work of compiling the official vote will take about ten days, Gray said.

Republican candidates for State offices won out over Democrats up 35,000 to 70,000.

The unofficial totals showed that Judge C. F. Remy, re-elected to the Appellate Court, First Division, led the Republican ticket with 534,450 votes and a plurality of 70,886 over Norman Patrick, his Democratic opponent. Judge Remy is the father of Prosecutor William H. Remy who led the Marion County Republican ticket.

Elaborate arrangements for the reception Nov. 17 of Queen Marie of Roumania and her regal entourage have been laid by local persons. Due to the short time the Queen has been allowed for her visit to Indianapolis, a party of city and State representatives will meet the royal guest at Chicago and escort her to Indianapolis.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

WILL MEET QUEEN MARIE IN CHICAGO

Elaborate arrangements for the reception Nov. 17 of Queen Marie of Roumania and her regal entourage have been laid by local persons. Due to the short time the Queen has been allowed for her visit to Indianapolis, a party of city and State representatives will meet the royal guest at Chicago and escort her to Indianapolis.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.

Representatives of various women's organizations will greet the Queen at the Union Station in the evening. At the head of a military parade she will be escorted north on Meridian St. to the monument, where she will lay a wreath at the foot of the shaft in honor of Indiana's soldier dead. From the monument the procession will continue north to the main library, where Mayor Duvall will present the keys of the city.

Returning to the Statehouse, the Queen will attend a reception to be tendered by Governor Jackson and other State officials. Proceeding to the Roumanian church on W. Market St., she will attend special services. At 9 p. m. a banquet will be served at the Columbia Club.