

TO BE AT COAL RATE HEARINGS

Commissioner Will Represent State in Matter.

Public Service Commissioner Clyde H. Jones will represent Indiana at hearings Nov. 16 and 17 before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington, D. C., on a petition to revise the schedule of freight rates on coal shipments from the Indiana fields to Chicago.

Present rates, it is contended, are too high and impose a burden on the Indiana coal industry which stifles competition with the West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee fields. Affecting both producers and consumers of Indiana, the case is regarded as extremely important. The Indiana commission has suggested a revision of rates, which, if carried into effect, will revive operations at a number of Indiana coal mines.

COUZENS FOR SHORT WEEK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Business generally would do well to adopt at this time a five-day week with six days pay for five days work, according to James H. Couzens, Republican United States Senator from Michigan, who amassed millions and a title of "The Business Builder" as executive of the Ford Motor Company, in its rise to power.

SUFFERING OF 13 YEARS RELIEVED BY THE KONJOLA

Rheumatism and Neuritis Pains End for Local Lady; She Praises New Medicine.

"I have been restored to wonderful new health since I got Konjola, and I can't hardly praise this medicine enough," said Mrs. Carrie E. Edler, well-known Indianapolis lady, living at 1128 W. Eighteenth St., this city, while talking a few days ago with the Konjola Man at Hook's Drug Store, Pennsylvania and Market Sts., Indianapolis, where he is explaining this surprising new medicine to large crowds daily.

"I had my first attack of neuritis and rheumatism thirteen years ago," said Mrs. Edler. "It was during the flood of 1913. I was trapped in our home on Oliver Ave. and was forced to wade through water up to my waist. Ever since then, until I got Konjola, I had been almost constantly a victim of rheumatism. Then in the last three or four years, I developed neuritis, too, and this settled in my arms and shoulders. The pains would draw my head backward until I could hardly move it. My arms and hands were affected and so painful I couldn't raise them to comb my hair. Sometimes I had to be fed. My knees and ankles were swollen about twice their normal size, and I always had to buy my shoes several sizes too large.

"Besides the rheumatism and neuritis, I also had trouble with my stomach. Large, painful knots would bulge out on both sides of my stomach. I would become so bloated up with large quantities of gas that I could hardly get my breath. You can imagine how I was bloated and swollen when I tell you that Konjola has reduced my waistline 11½ inches. Black spots would appear in front of my eyes, and I would get so dizzy and light-headed that I would nearly faint. One time I fell in the middle of the street at Pennsylvania and Washington and had to be carried to a drug store.

"Well, I can't begin to tell you everything I tried, but I suffered so much I felt nothing would help me. Then I found Konjola, and as I said, this medicine gave me such wonderful new health that I can't hardly praise it enough.

"I am fully relieved of all neuritis pains, and can use my hands the same as any one else, and my head never hurts like it did before. The swelling has gone down from my knees and ankles so that I can wear smaller shoes and I don't limp when I walk like I used to. My stomach has also improved, so that I can digest a meal without suffering afterward. All the gas and bloating pains are gone and, as I said, my waistline has reduced 11½ inches. I have never had a dizzy spell since. I finished taking half of my first bottle of Konjola. I am never short of breath, and I can work around the house all day long without getting tired.

"After all this wonderful relief, I certainly want to praise Konjola. I have already recommended it to several of my friends, and now I endorse it to the public."

The Konjola Man is at Hook's Drug Store, Pennsylvania and Market Sts., Indianapolis, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is sold by every Hook Store in Indianapolis and by all good druggists in the nearby towns throughout this section.—Advertisement.

Foch Takes Credit for Victory Drive

By United Press
PARIS, Nov. 11.—General John J. Pershing, Field Marshal Haig and Marshal Blain, commander, respectively, of the American, British and French armies on the western front, opposed Marshal Foch's plan to begin the final drive against the German in July, 1918, Foch said today in an Armistice day interview in which he explained how he "talked them around to believing" his plan was best.

Here's what the commanders first said, Foch declared:

"Petain: 'The French army is bled white. How can you demand another effort?'

"Haig: 'The British army, so to speak, no longer exists.'

"Pershing: 'The American army is not yet ready. Do you want to rush them into the fight?'

$2,000,000 FUND PLAN

Winona Lake Institutions Will Be Beneficiaries.

Winona Lake institutions will receive an endowment and extension fund of $2,000,000, through a plan entered into by the Fletcher Savings and Trust Company and the colleges and Chautauqua associations there, William T. Carmichael, president of the institutions, announced today.

Under the agreement, the trust company will receive gifts, payable in ten installments. When payments are ended, a life insurance policy for each donor, equalling the total amount pledged, will be issued, with Winona and the donor as beneficiaries.

If the donor dies before completion, the Winona institutions will receive the total amount of the policy, but will refund to the heirs the amount actually paid. If the donor lives until payments have been completed, the amount of the pledge goes to Winona and the proceeds of the policy to the beneficiary.

Sun and Smog Battle

There was smog, and plenty of it, in Indianapolis this morning. Even those who did not rise till 8 a. m. must have noticed it. This picture, taken about 8:30 a. m., shows the sun doing its best to shine through the smoke and haze, and not getting very far.

GUARDS FOR QUEEN

One Hundred Boy Scouts Will Aid in Reception.

One hundred Boy Scouts will have a chance to swell their public service record when Queen Marie of Roumania comes to Indianapolis, according to an announcement made Tuesday night at the November session of the scout court of honor, by F. O. Belzer, scout executive. Two guards of honor of fifty scouts each for the Queen's reception now are being enrolled, he said.

Merit awards, totaling 128, were given to scouts at the meeting, which was held in the First Presbyterian Church. Indications are that last year's record of 2,215 merit awards will be exceeded, when the court of honor holds its final session on Dec. 15, the present total already being 1,996.

AIDS LEGION TRAVELERS

Fletcher Company Names Paris Representative for Convention.

American Legion members, their relatives and friends, arranging to attend the Legion's convention in Paris, France, in 1927, can have the service of a representative of the Fletcher Savings and Trust Company foreign and travel department. Baron A. V. Patterson has been chosen as special representative and will maintain an office in Paris. He will handle extension tours for Americans prior to the convention and otherwise serve foreign and travel department patrons of the Fletcher Company.

The Fletcher Company is official depository for "On-to-Paris" savings clubs now being organized by members of Indianapolis Legion posts.

More than 350 agents, assistants and company managers of Indiana attended the dinner.

SAD DAY AT LA PLATA

Eight of Children Killed by Storm to Be Buried.

By United Press
LA PLATA, Md., Nov. 11.—This is probably the saddest Armistice day for this town of 400. Nine of the thirteen victims of the tornado which crushed a schoolhouse here Tuesday were being buried.

Three of the children were to be placed in tiny Mount Rest graveyard, many of the stones of which were knocked down by the storm. Five other children and one adult were to be buried in the Catholic burying ground. The number of injured is placed at forty, all children.

SECRETS of the WHITE HOUSE

The one person in the world who knows what has gone on in the private—the home—part of the White House during the stirring last 17 years is Elizabeth Jaffray, housekeeper of the Executive Mansion during the administrations of Taft, Wilson, Harding, and Coolidge.

She now tells her story. Tells of the home life of the Tafts, the crisis of Mrs. Taft's illness; the coming of the Wilsons, the languishing of the first Mrs. Wilson, and her death; the first visit of Mrs. Galt; Mr. Wilson's boyish courtship; the wedding; the stirring days of the war; Mr. Wilson's breakdown, and what actually happened during those months when a curtain of mystery hid the stricken Executive from the public; the astounding happenings while the Hardings were in power—in some ways the most extraordinary revelations ever made concerning a President; the Coolidges, strangest of all the White House families she knew so intimately.

The first instalment of Elizabeth Jaffray's memoirs appears in the December issue of Cosmopolitan.

Beginning also in this December issue . . .

"The Bacchante"

A Novel of a Woman with a Devil in her Soul, by ROBERT HICHENS, author of "The Garden of Allah" and "Bella Donna"

. . . Edna Ferber

Directly on the heels of the success of her novel, "SHOW BOAT," Miss Ferber has written another of her extraordinarily human short stories—the form of writing that won her first fame. The new story is called "PERFECTLY INDEPENDENT."

. . . Irvin S. Cobb

. . . Before Mr. Cobb could write this story, he had to wait for two men to die. Now that it may be written, we have a Drama from Police Headquarters which will probably rank as the best of Mr. Cobb's famous newspaper stories. It is called "THE WOODEN DECOY."

Also in December Cosmopolitan . . . "The Old Countess," a new novel by Anne Douglas Sedgwick, who wrote "The Little French Girl." Another novel by Peter B. Kyne . . . And Short Stories by Kathleen Norris, Gouverneur Morris, Arthur Somers Roche, Montague Glass, Don Marquis . . . Features by Homer Croy, George Ade, O. O. McIntyre . . . And a dozen more.

It is because of outstanding features like these that 1,500,000 people buy Cosmopolitan . . . a 35c magazine . . . every month in preference to magazines that they can buy for 25c, 10c, or even only 5c.
