

BANDITS STAGE TWO DAYLIGHT HOLD-UPS

EARLY MORNING BLAZE DRIVES 4 FROM RESIDENCE

8,800 Estimated Loss— Woman Dragged From Bed by Friend.

Four persons were forced to leave their home in their night clothes Sunday when fire burned the first and second stories of the W. T. Cox home, 2175 N. Pennsylvania St., and did $8,800 damage.

Mrs. Essea Eikes, a roomer, was awakened by the flames bursting through the ceiling. She awakened her room-mate, Miss Edna Logsdon, and Mr. and Mrs. Cox.

Thought Alarm Joke

Miss Logsdon jokingly told how she had nearly caused her to enter great danger. Daily Mrs. Eikes aroused her by telling her one was on the phone, or that the house was on fire. She said she ways got up to find herself the victim of a joke. Sunday she laughed, she said, when Mrs. Eikes yelled, "Fire!"

Sparks Cause

Suddenly she said she felt her being dragged out of bed by Mrs. Eikes. Slipping on a kimono she fled with the others. They were refuge next door. Firemen sparks on the roof caused the blaze.

A defective flue at the home of H. Matthews, living a mile and a half from the city limits on Arlington St., destroyed the house Sunday night. Firemen were helpless with the water. Loss was $1,500. The residence of H. B. Perryman, 35 Byram St., was destroyed by fire of unknown origin at 10:30 a. today. The building was a story and half frame dwelling. Delay in finding in the alarm made the fire department's effort futile.

TILL LAUGHS AT LAW

Harley Birger Remains at Liberty Despite Murder Warrant.

United Press HARRISBURG, Ill., Jan. 3.—Charles Birger, the machine gun gangster, continued to laugh at the law he evaded arrest on charges of being an accomplice in the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City. Birger, at his home here, chuckled at the warrant for his arrest and which has not been served by Saline county authorities. The warrant is sworn out in Franklin County. Authorities refused to discuss the case.

REGG FUNERAL HELD

Friends From Other States Attend Rites for Cleaner.

Funeral services Sunday for W. C. Gregg, 77, head of Gregg & Son, c. dry cleaners, at Spiceland, were attended by many friends and relatives from over the State and a number from other States. Mr. Gregg died Friday at the Methodist hospital.

The body lay in state at Spiceland from Saturday afternoon until 2 o'clock at the Spiceland Friends Church. Employees of the Gregg company were pallbearers. Burial was in Spiceland Cemetery.

IGHT SCHOOL POPULAR

Course at School 8 Has Big Enrollment.

An increase in the present enrollment of eighty is expected at the night school at Public School 8, Lexington and Virginia Aves., which opens for its second semester tonight, declared Miss Alvina Stammler, principal, today. Interest in the school was evinced during the first semester by the enrollment in various classes, twenty students having signed up in the 7A class, only in the eighth grade, sewing class fifteen, and the foreign class twenty-eight.

OLD FASHIONED FAMILY REMEDY FOR COLDS, GRIP AND PNEUMONIA

Father John's Medicine Builds New Strength During the Getting-Well Stage After Illness. A Doctor's Prescription. Free from Alcohol and Harmful Drugs—70 years in use.

The getting-well stage of grip is the most dangerous of all because the weakened body is wide open to attacks of other lurking disease germs. That is why all the organs of the body must be kept in their best working order, not only to drive out the poison left by the grip germ, but that the patient shall regain strength as soon as possible to avoid further attacks resulting from the poisons in the system. Father John's Medicine builds up the body because it is all pure wholesome nourishment and free from harmful drugs or alcohol. Father John's Medicine has had 70 years' success for colds and throat troubles, coughs, and as a tonic and body builder.—Advertisement.

Cupid Keeps Pace With the Age

The "stop and go kiss." It's the fashion here now. No more does the youthful driver swear when the stop sign flashes. He just extends the right arm and commences the osculation. Sunday night at Michigan and Meridian Sts., the honks of impatient motorists punctured the atmosphere, when the sign read green without response from the lead car. Number two car glided up alongside. A feminine shriek, disentanglement and a hurried get away.

Far and Near

LONDON—American and French tire manufacturers are engaged in a price-cutting war designed to break the British monopoly of the raw rubber market. British manufacturers said they could not make further cuts to compete with foreign tires.

PEKIN—This former Manchurian capital is in danger of eclipse by the start city of Wuhan, which has been proclaimed the national seat of government by the Cantonese invaders from south China. Wuhan is a new municipal entity composed of three adjacent cities—Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang.

BAGDAD—Sir Samuel Hoare, British air minister, and Lady Hoare, have arrived here en route by air from London to Delhi, British India.

BUENOS AIRES—Four hundred Brazilian rebels encroached upon Uruguayan territory, according to a dispatch from Montevideo, and were interned. Another group of rebels was reported to be retreating before federal troops in the state of Rio Grande do Sul.

NEW YORK—Known holiday liquor fatalities here have mounted to more than forty. The number of patients received in alcoholic wards reached 222.

GARFIELD—A leaky gas main led to an explosion which destroyed a one-story frame house here. Twelve persons were hurt, three seriously. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

OSHING, N. Y.—Sing Sing Prison is prosperous. Inmates' deposits in the prison bank total $24,000, one-third more than at the beginning of 1925.

MT. VERNON, N. Y.—Richard Ketter's automobile was loaded with hay and apples as it left White Plains. The load attracted a deer. Ketter said he was chased five miles by the deer before he had presence of mind to pitch out some of the apples, the animal then stopping for lunch.

DETROIT—For the next ten days E. L. Tyson, chief announcer for Station WJW, Detroit, is going to keep his mouth shut, literally. Two months ago, in attempting to eat a lion, Tyson strained a ligament in his neck. For twenty-four hours he was unable to close his mouth. A dentist eventually tripped the "key-log" and restored Tyson to a fairly usable degree of his former mouth action, but not wholly. On advice of his dental surgeon, the announcer is submitting to wiring of his upper and lower jaws together for a ten-day rest period from all jaw action. He will sip his food meantime.

WOMAN GOVERNOR OUT

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 3.—America's first woman Governor, Nellie Taylor Ross, Wyoming's chief executive, shed her mantle of official power today. Defeated in the November election, Mrs. Ross left her office to Frank C. Emerson, successful candidate. Elected two years ago to the unexpired term of her husband, Mrs. Ross received the largest majority ever given a gubernatorial candidate in this State.

2-CENT NEWSPAPER

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The New York World (morning), today reduced its price in greater New York from 3 to 2 cents. Ralph Pulitzer, publisher, in explaining the reduction, said: "To the World's circulation a circulation of a million dollars a year which the extra cent brings in cannot begin to pay for even the risk of stagnation."

Flooded Nashville Through Aviator's Eyes

Here is the plight of Nashville, Tenn., at the peak of its inundation as seen from the air—in one of the most remarkable flood pictures ever printed. Great residence, commercial and industrial areas of the State's capital city were submerged as if by a tidal wave when days and days of torrential rains sent the Cumberland River on an unparalleled rampage. Thousands were driven from their homes and much of the city's business life was paralyzed. Districts of the city between which lowlands intervened were accessible only by boat. The huge bridge over the Cumberland, at the upper right of the picture, stood out above the flood, but the ends of its approaches were under water. In the lower right-hand corner is the Tennessee capitol.

POLICE LOOK FOR DRIVERS FIGURING IN QUEER MISHAPS

Three Accidents Under Investigation—Three Injured at Crossing.

Three mysterious automobile accidents, following which the participants were being investigated by police today. Police sought two men injured in an auto wreck at Oaklandon, Ind., on a charge of auto theft. Thomas Hamilton, garage owner, at Oaklandon, told police the men were cut and bruised, and he drove them to New York and Douglass Sts., where they told him to wait until they went inside and got money to pay him. When they failed to return, police were called. Police sought Charles Sandlin 2034 Tipton St., whose auto was found at Thirty-Third St. and Capitol Ave., with blood on the seat. Mrs. Sandlin said her husband left home with another man several hours before. The driver of an auto that struck one driven by William Brown, negro, 1042 N. West St., at New York St. and Massachusetts Ave., failed to remain on the scene. Brown said the other car hit a parked auto and then his. The driver leaped from the car and ran. Believing that when a switch engine passed, the track was clear and also thinking that the watchman signaled favorably, Christy Metcalfe, 31, of 1454 Lee St., Sunday night drove his auto on to the Big Four Railroad crossing at Harding St. to be struck by a passenger train. Metcalfe and his son, Christy, Jr., 2, were cut about the face and head

DRIVEN TO DEATH BY 'LIFE IN FULL'

Three on Threshold of Manhood Commit Suicide—'Futile and Barren,' One Writes.

ACRORA, Ill., Jan. 3.—Convinced that he had experienced everything that life had to offer, Joe N. Moore, a 21-year-old University of Illinois student, killed himself here Sunday. Moore left a note in which he told of his determination to die because he had lived "life in full." The son of a wealthy doctor of Guanajuato, Mexico, Moore was visiting with his sister here. He seemed in the best of spirits. Just before ending his life, he had chatted with the family, listened with interest to the radio, and then whistled while he climbed the stairs. A few minutes later those in the house heard a shot and an investigation revealed Moore dying from a bullet through his head. Although each was yet on the threshold of manhood, that life held nothing more for them. Rigby Wile, sophomore at the University of Rochester and son of Dr. Ira S. Wile, noted specialist in mental diseases, was found shot to death in his father's home yesterday. In a letter to his father he said he had concluded life was "futile and barren" after comparing his ideas with those of the great philosophers. The other youth, Alfred Kehoe of Brooklyn, had his twenty-first birthday on New Year's eve. Early Sunday his body was found under the Washington bridge in Manhattan. He had leaped to the Speedway from the lofty viaduct. Kehoe had been slightly lame from birth. In his pocket was a note to the girl he loved. He said he was "too queer" to marry her and hoped she would marry another man and be happy.

and were injured about the body. Mrs. Candida Metcalf, 21, his wife, thrown through the glass and out of the car, was cut and shaken up. They were sent to the city hospital by Lieut. George L. Winkler. An auto driven by S. J. McCombs, Niles, Mich., and a truck driven by Walter Surface, Greenwood, Ind., collided at Madison Ave. and Raymond St. Mrs. Cecil McComb, 24, and her son, Henry, 6, were injured. All were treated at the city hospital and taken to a downtown hotel.

FIGHT; TRAIN HITS AUTO

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Two automobiles collided near an electric line

POISON ALCOHOL REMAINS IN ISSUE BEFORE CONGRESS

Some Members Feel Death Too Severe for Violating Unpopular Law.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Congress continues disturbed by deaths throughout the country due to poisonous alcohol. The anger aroused by Wayne B. Wheeler's remark at the White House that persons determined to violate the constitution should be permitted to "commit suicide in their own way" was somewhat appeased by Secretary Mellon's announcement that his department is endeavoring to find a method of denaturing industrial alcohol without rendering it poisonous. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, after a talk with Mellon—and after one or two dry Senators had talked quite plainly to him—modified his callous observations and expressed himself satisfied with Secretary Mellon's efforts. But the feeling continues among members of Congress that "death is a severe penalty for violation of an unpopular law."

Deaths Tell Story

An indication of the damage being done by the use of poisonous denaturants is given by statistics gathered from a number of cities. These figures, received from health officers in some cases represent only cases of death by poison and in other cases include deaths from alcoholism, without specifying that the alcohol was poisoned; all are for the single year 1925: New York (eleven months), 531; Boston, 125; Chicago, 328; St. Louis, 56; Columbus, 7; Pittsburgh, 127; Baltimore, 71; Cleveland, 138; El Paso, 6; Oklahoma City, 2; Indianapolis, 7; Evansville, 2; Knoxville, 3; San Francisco, 24; San Antonio, 3; Omaha, 10; Harrisburg, 6; Detroit, 121; Los Angeles, 30; Minneapolis, 28, and Seattle, 28. That these figures do not represent the total number of poison alcohol victims is the view of many of the health officers. The health registrar in Columbus, Ohio, says that instead of the seven deaths listed, he would be surprised if there were fifty deaths, directly or indirectly due to bad liquor in that city.

Real Cause Not Listed

In Baltimore it is explained that many deaths listed as due to acute indigestion are in reality due to alcoholism. Baltimore's official records show only four such deaths in 1920, as contrasted with 71 in 1924. Oklahoma City health officials say that some deaths due to alcoholism are recorded as due to heart diseases. San Francisco reports that some such deaths are listed as due to "natural causes." In collecting the above statistics the following interesting telegram was received from Knoxville, Tenn.: "There were only three deaths from alcoholic poisoning in 1925. This low figure is explained by the high grade of corn liquor made in the mountains. This is the honest opinion of experts, who point out that mountaineers were prolific distillers long before prohibition. Although the standard is somewhat lower than in former years, because of heavy demands, it is nevertheless a far better grade than that made in northern cities."

FAVORS CHURCH DANCES

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the largest Methodist church in Chicago, a denomination which for years forbade dancing under penalty of expulsion, believes that dances should be held in churches. "The trouble is not with dancing," he said in a sermon, "but with the church, which prohibits dancing."

Robbers Get Loot From Grocery and Filling Station—Eight Reported Over Week-End.

Two daylight hold-ups this morning brought the ho week-end robbery total in Indianapolis to eight. Shortly after 9 a. m., a white bandit about 23, wearing patched trousers and coat, held up the Kroger Grocery E. Vermont St. and obtained $35.

After looting a while with Ray Morton, manager 610 E. Twenty-Fourth St., the bandit pulled a gun and commanded Morton to "give me your money." The bandit ordered Morton to stay in a back room or "I'll shoot you."

Oil Station Robbed Two bandits robbed the Western Oil Station, 2401 N. Harding St., at 7 a. m.

A dirty-faced bandit, with his left knee protruding through a bursted trouser leg, a bleeding nose and slightly under the influence of liquor, robbed three filling stations within fifteen minutes, Sunday night.

Early today two men drove into the Western Oil station on Harding St., with drawn revolvers, one of the bandits cautioned Alva Caldwell, 3181 N. Harding St., attendant, to move his hands carefully, but to open the cash register and hand him the contents. Caldwell told Lieut. Fred Winkler he did as commanded. After the bandit took $35.25 he ran to the auto and sped away. Winkler said there is a possibility that the grocery bandit may have committed the filling station robbery. The description tallied in some respects. Miss Hazel Ford, 329 Fulton St., living near the grocery, told police she saw a Chevrolet touring car with curtains, similar to the one in the Western Oil robbery, in the neighborhood this morning.

Made Three Stations

The bloody-nosed bandit walked into the Pure Oil station, New York and Indiana Ave., at 8:25 p. m. Sunday night and ordered Harry Kountz, the attendant, to "stick 'em up." He did not flash a gun but told Kountz that the protruding point of his coat pocket was caused by a gun. Taking $15 from Kountz he ran to a parked auto and sped east. He then drove to the Western Oil station, Massachusetts Ave. and New Jersey St., police say, and held up P. A. Boyer, 417 E. Twelfth St., in the same manner. He took about $25.

From there he drove to the Pure Oil station, East St. and Massachusetts Ave., where he told James Smith, 2332 Gale St., attendant, to "stick 'em up," and this time flashed his blue steel gun. He took $18. That was the last police heard of him. Dade Fields, negro, of 371 W. Twelfth St., said he was at Roanoke and North Sts., when two men took his bill fold and $14.25. Ralph Greppenhauer, Columbus, Ohio, visiting with Edward Schneider, 423 E. Thirty-Third St., reported that they were walking at Ohio St. and Capitol Ave., at 11 p. m., Dec. 31, when two white men held them up and took a watch and $3.60.

Marion White, 1142 McDougal St., was walking at Shelby and McDougal Sts., New Year's Eve, when three men in a roadster drove up to the curb, one alighted inquiring the time. White told police the man drew a gun and took $12.50 and a watch.

Purse Snatched

Mrs. Martha West, 1716 Sheldon St., said she was walking at Sheldon and Seventeenth Sts., when a Negro took her purse containing $5.

Mrs. Agnes Wathen, 2225 Sheldon St., was walking at Twenty-Second St. and Arsenal Ave., when a Negro walking in front of her turned and told her to "put up her hands." She said she bit his finger but he seized her purse valued at $5 and a fountain pen and ran.

Paul Eudaly, 502 Dorman St., reported his barber shop looted and tools and equipment valued at $100 taken.

A porch climbing burglar entered the home of John F. Morrissey, 764 E. McCarty St., and took clothing.

ELLEN TERRY NEAR DEATH

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Ellen Terry, 79-year-old doyen of British actresses, lay critically ill in her London home today, interrupting stretches of restless silence with lines from the parts which made her famous to the parents and grandparents of present day theatregoers. Dame Ellen was able to eat and that alone, according to her physician's prolonged her life over the week-end.
