

TROLLEY HOLD-UP BRINGS WEEK-END TOTAL HERE TO 6

Youth Gets $160 in Four Gasoline Station Robberies.

Week-end hold-ups were boosted to a total of six late Sunday night. A Negro window smasher was arrested early today.

One enterprising young stick-up man, in a stolen automobile, made the rounds of four filling stations and one chain grocery, Saturday night, getting $179.

Don Lind, 340 N. Jefferson Ave., street car conductor on the Indiana Ave. line, told a police emergency squad that when he stepped from the car at the end of the line Sunday night, a lone armed Negro took $15 in tokens and $19 in money.

Breaks Window

Lieut. Fred Winkler and squad captured J. A. McKnight, 331 W. New York St., after a chase, following the report that the H. M. Gaston grocery, 701 W. New York St., was being burglarized. Squad members say that as they drew near the grocery McKnight ran.

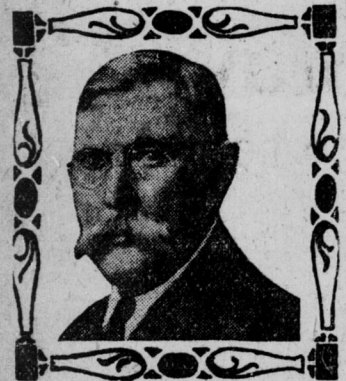

Bits of glass were found imbedded in his sweater. A window at the grocery had been smashed. Gaston and his wife, who live over the store, heard the glass fall and told police McKnight was the man they saw near the broken window. He is held on vagrancy and trespass charges, to be questioned about other burglaries.

The youthful bandit started his activities at the Western Oil and Refining Company station at Tenth St. and Senate Ave., where he pointed two revolvers at the attendant, Ben Bolen, 1244 N. Illinois St., forcing

STOMACH IN GOOD CONDITION FIRST TIME IN A YEAR

Local Man Relieved of Indigestion and Kidney Trouble by the New Konjola.

Up to the present time there have been nearly 500 residents of Indianapolis and vicinity who are publicly endorsing Konjola. This is more praise than many ordinary medicines receive over the entire United

MR. J. H. LANGFORD

States. It is interesting to know that Konjola is being sold in ten times larger quantities than it was when first introduced in this city about a year ago. This is convincing proof that the merit of this remarkable new medicine is widely known over the city. It has been giving permanent, lasting relief in thousands of cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders and rheumatic and neuritis troubles.

One of the latest well-known Indianapolis citizens who endorse Konjola is Mr. J. H. Langford, 1710 English Ave., this city, who made the following statement about this surprising medicine:

"Konjola has put my stomach in good condition for the first time in a whole year," reads Mr. Langford's statement, "and I am also relieved of the indigestion and kidney trouble that I had been suffering."

"My trouble came after every meal I ate. I never could enjoy food like the average person, because I was afraid to eat, and nothing tasted right anyway. My food would form a solid lump in the pit of my stomach, and this fermented gas which nauseated me. My heart would flutter and seem to jump, then I would feel like I was burning up inside, and often had dizzy spells and felt like I was going to faint. My kidneys gave me a lot of trouble, and every day the pains would center in the small part of my back. These would get so bad at times that I nearly fell over. The muscles of my arms were affected with rheumatism, and it would take several hours every day before they would be limbered up."

"Yes, I had a great many health troubles, and took so many remedies that I never had any idea I would feel well. I started on Konjola and noticed wonderful relief the first week. I continued a while longer, and now I can safely say I am feeling better than I have in years, and my stomach and kidney trouble is cleared up. I don't have the lumpy feeling in my stomach, and don't have the belching or any of the other troubles with my heart. Everything I eat is doing me some good, and my food never sours. The pains in my back are relieved, and I don't have the dizzy attacks like I used to. My arms don't have the numb, aching feeling in the mornings any more, and I can do twice as much work every day."

"I certainly can endorse Konjola to everybody, because what has helped me will help anyone who suffers."

The Konjola Man is at Hook's drug store, Pennsylvania and Market Sts., Indianapolis, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is sold by every Hook drug store in this section, and all druggists everywhere. Advertisement.

Dr. Long on Tour of Holy Land

Dr. Edward S. Long, former Indiana Central College faculty member, who is on tour of the Holy Land. He was sent to Palestine by a Bible class of which he teacher.

him to turn over the contents of the cash register and safe which amounted to about $40.

Stays in Car

After leaving the filling station he appeared a few minutes later at the Purul station at Oakland and E. Washington Sts., where he covered H. A. McMorris, 1443 N. Harding St., the attendant, without leaving the car. Loot amounted to $30.

Previous to these two robberies the same bandit is reported to have held up the Standard grocery at 1119 E. Michigan St., where he obtained $19 from Paul Parsons, 1338 Ashland Ave., the manager. A White Rose station at North and Delaware Sts. and a Standard Oil station at Southeastern and State Sts. were on the list.

At the White Rose station he forced the attendant to open the cash register and scooped about $40 from the drawer and fled.

The Standard Oil station was the richest haul, yielding $55 to the bandit's persuasive revolver.

Auto Stolen

The automobile which the robber drove is said by police to have been stolen from W. A. Weghorst, 4401 E. Washington St.

NEW SHORT ROUTE TO CHICAGO SOON

Second Letting of Road Bids Announced.

A new short route between Indianapolis and Chicago will be completed by the end of the highway construction season, State Highway Director John D. Williams announced today, in issuing a call for bids for 80.75 miles of paving and 4.5 miles of grading.

The new route will be provided by paving 25.5 miles in the unpaved portion on United States Rd. 30, the national Yellowstone trail. United States Rd. 30 is reached from Indianapolis via No. 31 to Plymouth and provides a short cut to Chicago through Valparaiso.

The bids are to be opened March 9. This will be the second letting of the season. Williams declared the commission intends to have 200 miles under construction with the present financial arrangement and 250 miles if the increase asked is approved by the Legislature.

Other paving projects included are: United States Road No. 41, from Schneider to Belshaw in Lake County, four miles.

United States Road No. 150, from West Baden to end of present pavement just east of Paoli, in Orange County, 10.3 miles.

United States Road No. 30, from Plymouth to Warsaw, in Marshall and Kosciusko Counties, 23.5 miles; from Hamlet to Plymouth, in Starke and Hamilton Counties, 17.1 miles.

United States Road No. 52, from Lafayette to Fowler, in Tippecanoe and Benton Counties, 25.7 miles.

HINT OF WRONG BODY

Corpse Being Sent West May Not Be That of Noted Surgeon.

By United Press
UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 14.—Possibility of an error in identification of a body said to be that of Dr. George Hillegas, noted California surgeon, which was sent westward Friday, developed today.

It was disclosed that a resident of St. Johnsville by the same name died in the hospital at the same time as the man supposed to be the California physician.

Similarity of names caused the belief that the body removed from potter's field here was not that of the westerner.

SAYS BONDS TAXABLE

Attorney General Gives Opinion in Water Works Inquiry.

Municipal water works bonds, and those issued by municipally-owned plants for extensions and improvements, are taxable, according to an opinion by Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom sent to the public service commission in answer to an inquiry made last week. The attorney general held that municipally-owned utilities are not part of the regular governmental function and therefore these bonds are not tax exempt as are ordinary municipal bonds.

PARIS, Feb. 14.—Two years ago the minister of public instruction decided that Silvain, the veteran of the Comedie Francaise was to old to act and decided that he should retire Jan. 1, 1926. Silvain, however, went to law about it and the courts upheld him in his job.

PUBLIC SERVICE BODY FATE WILL BE CONSIDERED

Evans May Renew Effort to Oust Goodrich From Clark Expo Board.

Swinging into the last third of the present session, the Indiana Senate this week will be a center of attraction when it begins in earnest the consideration of public utility regulatory legislation.

Renewal of the effort to remove former Governor James P. Goodrich as a member of the George Rogers Clark Exposition board undoubtedly will be made by Senator William P. Evans of Indianapolis. Evans was blocked in his move last Saturday when Senator J. Monroe Fitch objected to consideration of the Evans proposed amendment to the bill which appropriates $500,000 for the Vincennes celebration in 1929.

Tuesday undoubtedly will see the death of the Cann bill, abolishing the public service commission, unless its consideration is postponed again. It seemed doomed at birth, for even the most drastic critics of the commission believe that abolishment of the regulatory body would bring chaos. If the Cann bill is passed, rate regulation will go back to city councils.

Then, too, Senator Howard Cann, Frankfort, did not help his cause by crying "coercion" when Representative J. Glenn Harris, of Gary, polled him on the Lake County judges salary increase measure voted Saturday. It was the first rebuff for the Lake County group.

A night's rest to gather strength and the battle will start on the Moorehead bill. Stated to be considered for second reading it was made a special order of business for Wednesday. Unless the barometer of opinion is all wrong his author won't be able to recognize his "brain child" when his senatorial colleagues get through tacking on amendments.

The bill as introduced by Senator Robert Moorehead, Indianapolis, in the preparation of which Samuel E. Artman, former Public Service commissioner, is alleged to have spent much time, calls for the abolishment of the present board, appointment of a new board to serve until Dec. 1, 1928, when a board to be elected in November, 1928, would take office.

Appeal Asked

Moorehead asks for appeals to the higher courts as provided for in the Nejd bill, recently passed. He also provides for bringing holding companies under jurisdiction of the commission, but does not call for supervision of all operating expense and overhead.

The elective commission by Supreme Court districts asked by Moorehead hardly will survive the first skirmish. Many of the Senators feel that such a move would give the utilities opportunity to elect men favorable to their cause.

Part of the proposed changes in the Spencer-Shively act which Moorehead has suggested are covered by the Harlan bill, passed unanimously, which permits the commission to investigate attorney and lobbying fees of the utilities and are charged as operating expense.

Seek Supervision

Harlan's idea went far as Moorehead's, but hardly went far enough to suit some of the Legislators, who probably will amend it to take in operating expenses of all kinds. This is to be done in order to get all "overhead," "parent company contracts" and the like into the limelight. Supervision of these items is not now permitted unless tinged with fraud.

The long-looked for conference at which Democrats and Republicans are to thresh out their differences and suggest a bill for which both sides could vote in order to get remedial legislation has not taken place. Representative George L. Saunders (Dem.) told a leading Republican "you can have all the credit for your party but do something for the people."

The Republicans haven't had time and the Democrats are chafing at the bit. The latter may propose legislation which they know cannot pass but would make campaign material for 1928.

CHANGING KING'S NAME NOT EASY

British and Dominion Parliaments Must Act.

By United Press
LONDON, Feb. 14.—Although the imperial conference concluded that the king must have a new title, it will probably be many months before the change becomes legal.

The king's title cannot be changed except by act of parliament, but in this case an act of the British parliament will not be sufficient. An identical act must be passed by the parliament of every dominion and of the Irish Free State before the new title can become effective.

George V is now king of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British dominions beyond the seas. He is to be the king of Great Britain, Ireland and the British dominions beyond the seas.

The new title will better suit Ireland, but the very slight modification entails considerable trouble.

THE TINYMITES

"Was great to see the ostrich run and Clowney had a heap of fun. They traveled down the sandy beach at quite a rapid pace. 'Hey, hurry up,' wee Clowney cried to all the others who had tried to keep up with the ostrich. But they dropped out of the race."

So Clowney loudly shouted "Whoa!" I guess the ostrich didn't know just what that meant, or else he simply didn't want to stop. When 'bout a mile of beach was crossed, said Clowney, "I will soon be lost. I've got to get down on the ground. Here's where I take a flop."

He quickly jumped up from the seat and balanced on his little feet. And then he waited for a chance to leap down to the ground. Just then the ostrich stopped dead still and Clowney almost took a spill. Before he had a chance to jump the big bird looked around.

Real quickly Clowney got a thrill. The ostrich grabbed him in his bill and swung him outward in the air. Then placed him on the sand.

"Course Clowney had no chance to mind. In fact, he thought the ostrich kind, but how the bird had learned such tricks he couldn't understand."

The other Tinies came in sight, quite pleased that Clowney was all right. Then for a ride upon the bird they all began to beg. But Clowney said, "I think it best that, for a time, we let him rest." And then they heard of Scouty yell, "I've found an ostrich egg."

They all began to shout, "Oh, gee, let's open it so we can see what's on the inside of the thing. Perhaps we'll have a meal!" Then Scouty gave the egg a poke, just hard enough so that it broke. A little ostrich peeked right out and then began to squeal.

TRAFFIC DEATH RATE IN CITY SHOWS DECREASE

Only One Automobile Fatality in Indianapolis During Four-Week Period Ending Jan. 26—7 Year Ago.

Indianapolis suffered but one automobile fatality during the four-week period ending Jan. 26, compared to seven in Minneapolis, four in Cincinnati and three in Jersey City, statistics compiled by the United States Department of Commerce show. Automobile accidents were responsible for 473 deaths during the period in seventy-eight large cities in the country.

During the same period a year ago Indianapolis had seven deaths from automobile accidents. Cincinnati also had seven, Jersey City four and Minneapolis three. Deaths for the total of cities was 431, an increase of forty-two.

Fifteen cities reported no automobile fatalities for the period this year, while ten cities reported none for the corresponding period of 1926. For the year ending Jan. 29, 6,693 automobile fatalities were reported from the seventy-eight cities.

Indianapolis reported eighty deaths for the year, Cincinnati 121 and Kansas City eighty-one.

New York City headed the fatalities list reporting 100 deaths for the four-week period and 1,084 for the year. Chicago was second, with sixty-five for the month and 678 for the year, Philadelphia being third with twenty-three for the month and 246 for the year. Detroit exceeded Philadelphia's "early total," reporting 354 deaths, but dropped to a total of but thirteen for the month.

Other cities reporting over ten fatalities for the month Baltimore, 16; Los Angeles, 15; Pittsburgh, 18; St. Louis, 14; and Seattle, 12. Monthly compilation shows the period from Oct. 9 to Nov. 6, 1926, leading with 676 fatal accidents during the year in the seventy-eight cities. The period from March 27 to April 24, 1926, was low with 423.

New Bedford, Mass., with an estimated population of 125,000 was low on the list in fatalities for the year, reporting eight. They report no fatalities for either the four-week period this year or last.

During November, 1926, there were only forty-one hours of sunshine in London.

RENEW SEARCH FOR TORSO HEAD

Grand Jury Probe May Be Asked.

By United Press
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 14.—Search continued today for the head and shoulders of the woman whose severed body was found on the banks of the St. Joseph River here last week.

Feeling that identification of the body will be impossible without the missing head, police have refused to give up the search, now in its fifth day.

Theory that the body may be that of Mrs. Alice Van Dusen, who disappeared from her home here, Dec. 21, with Ernest Rodgers, caretaker at St. Marys College has been practically abandoned. Statement of a local youth, a relative of the missing woman, that he saw Mrs. Van Dusen in a South Bend hotel a week ago has made authorities believe they are on the wrong track.
