

FOLTZ FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

SENATORS REFUSE TRIAL PAY FROM GOVERNOR'S FUND

Legislators Bow to Wishes of State G. O. P. and Administration.

Four Senators today refused to accept pay for serving in the Dearth impeachment proceedings from the Governor's contingent fund on the ground that there is a legal appropriation for this expense and that to accept would acknowledge the contention of Governor Jackson that the entire impeachment had been illegal.

They were: Senators Thomas A. Brannan, Joseph M. Cravens, Chester A. Perkins and Curtis H. Shake.

Vouchers drawn by State auditor agreed to honor were drawn by Miss Fern A. Eide, State secretary for four days service and mileage. She will complete the payroll for the other days served today.

The four Senators declare that acceptance of the money from the Governor's fund, an offer made to avoid a special session, is humiliating and illegal.

Action Illegal, View
They take the position that if the appropriation measure for this expense is illegal, then it is also illegal to take money from the Governor who has no right to pay State funds for illegal purposes.

But the Governor and the influences eager to avoid an extra session draw no such distinction and the other Senators accepted their checks.

Bowing to the will of the State administration and the Republican State organization, thirty-one Republican and six Democratic Senators did an "about face" and voted to accept Dearth impeachment trial pay from the Governor's contingent fund at a stormy session in the Senate Chamber late Wednesday.

The action drew the fact that many of the Senators had privately promised "never to recede" from their position that acceptance of money from the contingent fund would be an admission that the Dearth proceedings are unconstitutional.

The result left Lieutenant Governor F. Harold Van Orman high and dry on his announcement that "the Senate must be recognized as a distinct branch of the State government." In the face of a deserting army Van Orman stood his ground, maintained his previous contention and came from the battle as the outstanding figure of an inter-party fight.

Despite the defection of six from their ranks, nine Democrats voted in protest and declared that "it would be beneath the dignity of the Senate" to accept the money.

Pressure exerted by the Republican organization was seen several days ago, despite the verbal assurance by some Senators that they would go through and show Jackson and Attorney General Gilliom where to get off.

O'Rourke Weakens
The first to weaken visibly was Senator Edward O'Rourke, Ft. Wayne, who started the hostilities when State Auditor Lewis S. Bowman refused to honor his pay voucher.

Sensor James J. Nejd, Whiting, who cast the lone vote against the Senate taking action in the Dearth impeachment proceeding and acknowledged spokesman of the Republican organization, told the Senate that on advice of counsel the Auditor of State would refuse to pay the trial expenses and salaries from the appropriation bill, although the measure contained a provision for such payment.

Nejd Makes Motion
Nejd moved that the Senate accept the offer of the Governor to pay the expenses from his contingent fund, after Senator Luther Draper read a letter from the Governor. The Governor promised in his letter to see that the Indiana Vegetable Growers get their $1,000 from his fund, and that the appropriation for the Buttrville Feeble Minded Colony would be spent as two amendments covering these two appropriations had been left out of the enrolled bill. House Speaker Harry G. Leslie assumed all responsibility for the "oversight."

Sensors Howard Cann, Frankfort, and Robert Moorhead, Indianapolis, Republicans, joined the Democrats and said that a special session was the only solution. Moorhead suggested that the auditor be mandated to pay the money. Cann and Moorhead led the fight against the public utilities throughout the recent session. Both introduced bills which would have abolished the present personnel of the commission.

Representative Delph L. McKesson of Plymouth, chairman of the House board of managers, told the Senate that he did not care whether he ever was paid for his services or where the money came from. "I have considered this a public trust and a public duty," he said.

The eleven Senators voting against the "whitewash" were:

Democrats—Thomas H. Brannan, Brownstown; Joseph M. Cravens, Madison; James P. Davis, Kokomo; William V. Deegs, Cannelton; Andrew Durham, Greensburg; Thurman A. Gottschalk, Berne; Anderson Ketchum, Greensburg; Chester A. Perkins, South Bend; Curtis H. Shake, Vincennes. Republicans—Howard A. Cann, Frankfort; Robert H. Moorhead, Indianapolis. Absent—William P. Evans, Indianapolis; Perry Johnson, Atlanta.

BANKERS' NAMES CROP OUT DURING LIBEL CASE TRIAL

Sapiro Mentions Baruch, Meyer and Others as Reed Questions.

Reed Questions
DETROIT, March 31.—Bernard Baruch, Eugene S. Meyer and other New York bankers were drawn into the testimony in the Ford-Sapiro million-dollar libel suit today.

Resuming their two-man war of attrition, each trying to bend the other to his will, Aaron Sapiro, plaintiff, and James A. Reed, United States Senator and Ford's chief trial counsel, turned their fire upon each other for another day when court opened.

Sapiro told how in 1923 he collected $3,300 as fees and retainer from the Northwest Wheat Growers' Association for obtaining for them a loan of $5,000,000 from the War Finance Corporation. To get this loan, he said, he had gone to New York and consulted Baruch, Meyer and "many others."

Judge Fred M. Raymond, presiding in the case, today took formal cognizance in open court of rumors that he had ordered an investigation to determine whether Henry Ford, injured Sunday, was attempting to avoid appearance as a witness. He said that not only was he without cause to order investigation of such a rumor, but he had no reason for any investigation of any sort in the accident whatsoever at this time.

War and Rumors of War All Over Earth
By William Phillip Simms
WASHINGTON, March 31.—Wars and rumors of wars to hold the stage from one end of the earth to the other.

Two-thirds of the total population of the globe are at this moment engaged in killing one another or are on the verge of it.

The other third are on the side lines, fearful of what may happen. Such is the appalling situation nine years after the great war that was to end war. The whole world is tossing in a fever of unrest, but whose possibilities are unthinkable.

China's 400,000,000 people are involved in a civil struggle which might at any moment, turn into an international conflict involving the United States, Britain, Japan, France, Russia and other countries, a situation which full of menace not only for China, but for the great powers themselves.

India's 300,000,000 people are chafing at the bit, angry at Britain, their overlords, and demanding to be free. The undercurrent of revolt is daily running stronger.

Russia, with her 150,000,000 inhabitants, faces the world's superpower, the United States, and she is defiant, chip on shoulder. She hates the world and not without cause. The world hates her, while Poland, Roumania, Britain, Italy and Japan in Asia are Russian danger spots, any one of which might, at any time, break into open conflict.

Italy and Jugoslavia are glaring at each other across the Adriatic, and Italy, with 40,000,000 people behind her, stands ready to invade Albania, scene of an incipient revolt and the bone of contention between the two countries.

France, with a population of approximately equal to Italy's, sides with Jugoslavia and looks with alarm upon Italy's program of expansion in North Africa, the Balkans and the Near East.

An ominous rumble of dissatisfaction is heard throughout the Balkans and Hungary and Austria—disembodied and so reduced in size the Balkan states after the war that they will never rest content until the situation is remedied—are only waiting until Europe starts something so they can kick in.

Roumania has no idea of what will happen when her very ill King Ferdinand dies and the several warring factions begin their fight for power. A revolution would surprise no one who has been watching the goings on.

Kemal Pasha, dictator of Turkey, and Dictator Mussolini, of Italy are watching one another like hawks as Mussolini lays his plans for a new Roman empire and the Pasha dares him to touch Turkey.

Spain—Peter Trapani liked his spinach prepared in a certain manner, identical to the method used by Mrs. Margaret Trapani and Mrs. Sadie Trapani in cooking the greens. In discussing the subject, the women found they were married to the same man, Mrs. Margaret, who was No. 2, was granted an annulment.

COLUMN OF AIR A FOOT SQUARE WORTH $153.80

That's Board of Work's Estimate in Assessing Ayres Company for Vacating Pearl St. Ether.

A column of air a foot square from eighteen feet above the street to the sky in Indianapolis is worth $153.80.

This is according to the charge made by the works board against L. S. Ayres & Co., in the preliminary assessment roll for the vacation of the air above Pearl St. The total assessment against the company was $62,510.

The company was authorized to build a runway eighteen feet above the street, connecting its Washington St. store with the old Chamber of Commerce Bldg. It will be so constructed that additional stores may be added.

The board's action gives the company title to the air, but the street will be open and still city property. The department of mental hygiene announced, More men than women patients are admitted each year.

Plans Complete as Chateau Model Is Christened by Mrs. Garland.

Representatives of Indianapolis firms that joined in building the French chateau centerpiece for the Home Complete Exposition opening Saturday at 6 p. m. were guests at a dinner given in their honor by the Indianapolis Home Builders Association, in the Manufacturers' Bldg., State fairground, Wednesday night.

Smashes Bottle
Mrs. Isabel M. Garland, of the Chamber of Commerce convention bureau, "broke the bottle" over the front porch to christen the model home.

Representatives of more than fifty firms which helped build the house described their products following the dinner. Everett J. Holloway, home builders' association president, spoke enthusiastically of the show and M. M. Miller, chairman of the chateau committee, acted as toastmaster.

Record Exhibits
J. Frank Cantwell, exposition, declared this year's show will eclipse those of previous years in the variety of its exhibits.

L. H. Lewis, president of the Indianapolis Real Estate Board, which is sponsoring the show, expressed gratitude for cooperation in staging the exposition.

The opening night has been designated as "Realtors Night." J. S. Cruse is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the special night. Thomas E. Carson is reception committee chairman.

Auto Thief Wins Race With Owner

Alfred La Roque, 2019 S. Pennsylvania St., was paying his respects to Miss Charlotte Cunningham at the latter's home, 1741 Arrow Ave., Wednesday night when he heard the motor of his car, parked at the curb, start.

Reaching the door, La Roque saw the car being driven away. He and the young woman's brother gave pursuit in another machine, but lost track of the thief after a dizzy chase about the east side.

The car, a Buick coach, bearing Indiana license 599-144, had not been found by police today.

MOTHER AND GIRL BURNED TO DEATH
Former Local Family in Florida Tragedy.

Mrs. William J. Wright, 57, and daughter, Miriam, 25, are dead and another daughter, Dorothy, 22, is seriously injured as the result of an explosion of gasoline in their home at Howey, Fla., Wednesday, according to dispatches received today.

Dr. and Mrs. Wright and two daughters went to Florida from Indianapolis last October. The father was engaged in the real estate business and the daughters obtained positions as teachers. Wright formerly was a Christian minister at Crawfordsville.

The explosion occurred when Mrs. Wright lighted a kerosene stove which had been filled with gasoline by mistake. Dorothy rushed from the house and saved herself by rolling in the sand.

Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Ralph W. Lieber, 2027 N. Talbott St., and two sons, Stanley, of New York, and Donald, of Birmingham, Ala.

SAYS MANKIND IS SLOW
"The world faces serious problems, most of which will be solved by the boys and girls of today," said Bishop Harry S. Longley of Des Moines, Iowa, in his third Lenten talk at Christ Church, Wednesday noon.

"This generation has failed to build a secure spiritual foundation," he said. "We have seen in the last one hundred years tremendous advances in science, philosophy and the things which minister to the comfort of man. All this change demand better men and man has made little improvement."

Jury Decides Man Should Not Die for Killing Another in Whose Arms He Found His Wife

A Criminal Court jury today decided a man should not die for killing another man in whose arms he found his wife.

The jury found Grover Foltz, 30, guilty of manslaughter in connection with the shooting of Malcolm Grayson, 32, who Foltz found holding Mrs. Grover Foltz at their former home, 228 E. Wyoming St., Nov. 16, 1926.

Told Own Story
Foltz took the stand in his own behalf and told of returning unexpectedly to his home the night of the shooting and seeing Grayson enter the kitchen door. The defendant told the jury he returned to his car and got a gun firing through the kitchen door when he saw Grayson grab his wife. Grayson ran to the street, where he died.

The charge carries a sentence of two to twenty-one years. Foltz will be sentenced April 12, by Special Criminal Judge Fremont Alford. The jury deliberated thirty-five minutes Wednesday, returning a sealed verdict.

May Appeal
Frank Symmes, attorney for Foltz, asked until April 12 to straighten out the court record, probably looking toward an appeal.

Mrs. Foltz, who testified she was in Grayson's arms at their former home 228 E. Wyoming St., when her husband shot, was beside her husband when the verdict was read. When her husband gave her the child, Marie Wameta, 7, she hugged her passionately and broke into tears. The wife was ruled an incompetent witness after testifying for the State.

Monopoly Menace
"Such a monopoly, by virtue of its domination over the American press, could shape and mould the national mind, strangling progress and stupefying initiative. The organization of the United Press, which distributes its news reports as the raw material out of which public opinion is created, no later blight could fall upon the United States than the creation of a monopoly in news distribution."

ANGERED BANDIT FLOORS DRUGGIST
"What's the Idea?" Brings Blow on Head.

Doubting the seriousness of a bandit who ordered him to stick up his hands, Beverly D. Brown, druggist, Riley Ave. and Michigan St., today nursed a headache, the after-effects of a blow on the head from the bandit's revolver.

Brown said he was behind the prescription case when the bandit confronted him with a drawn revolver. Instead of holding up the doctor, Brown asked, "What's the idea?" and was struck. He then obeyed a command to lay on the floor.

Another armed bandit escorted Robert Gilliom, 14, of 223 N. Hancock St., from the front of the store to the prescription room and ordered him to lie down. One stood guard, while the other looted the cash drawers and obtained $60. They escaped in an auto parked near by which police believe was stolen.

While Luther Boatman, 22 N. Audubon Rd., attendant at the Stand and Rural St. and E. C. Brannan, old station, Southeastern Ave., 2723 Southeastern Ave., sat in the station visiting Wednesday night, a hold-up man walked in, covered both with an automatic pistol and took $60 from the cash drawer and Boatman's money changer. He ran to a parked auto and escaped.

News and Opinion
Reverting to the relation of news and public opinion, Bickel said: "If public opinion is to retain its vitality and its strength the press of America must always have at its command a free and steadily expanding source of news supply, open to the constantly changing demands and desires of the nation's news consumers—the newspaper readers—and ready at all times to welcome new and vigorous forces into the ranks of journalism. Had it not been for the existence of the United Press during the last twenty years many of the most important and widely circulated newspapers in America would not be in existence today."

Darrow Deems Man Souless Machine
WASHINGTON, March 31.—Pessimists today had a strong ally in Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago criminal lawyer. Man is a soulless piece of machinery and his life is merely a sequence of events, Darrow told members of the Penguin Club here.

Reformers have changed the world so that now there is "mighty little" we want to do that we can do," Darrow declared. "The only valuable thing one can possess is a sense of humor."

Life today is a continual fight, according to the noted lawyer. One must fight for his life, as well as fight the law, churches, society, neighbors and wives, he elaborated. He himself had nothing to do with the Galesburg Evening News. He was forced into success by circumstances.

GALESBURG, Ill., March 31.—The Galesburg Printing Company, publishers of the Galesburg Republican-Register, today announced purchase of the Galesburg Evening News and the consolidation of the two papers under the name of the Daily Register-Mail.

The Register-Mail will have a circulation in excess of 20,000 and will be the only evening daily paper in Galesburg. It will be served by United Press leased wire.
