Critic Regards Tigers This Year as Real Dark Horse.

By Henry L. Farrell

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, March 31.—For several years, especially during the late periods of the Cobb regime, the Detroit Tigers were ridden harder perhaps than any club in the major leagues. It may have been responsible for the failure to do better than they have done.

Conditions became such, it is no secret, that several players practically demanded to be traded to other clubs where they felt they could get along better and play better than they could for Cobb.

There is no doubt that Cobb was a great player, but he will admit himself that he was not even a good manager and in the hands of another leader the club may get more of its potential strength.

The possibilities of the club under George Moriarty, who has everything that seems essential for a successful manager, are so respected by baseball men that the team is regarded as a real dark horse in the pennant race.

The infield weakness at second base has been fatal to any changes the club had for a pennant and with the acquisition of Marty McManus from the St. Louis Browns, the weakness may be corrected.

McManus is a better second baseman than his game in St. Louis showed. He was dissatisfied with the Browns and was not on the best of terms with the management or owners of the club.

Blue, working for Moriarty, ought to be a vastly improved player. He has the mechanical equipment, but he was ridden so hard by Cobb that he couldn't play his real game.

There is certainly nothing lacking in the outfield. Detroit clubs always have run to power in the outfield, and in Heinie Manush, 1926 batting champion; Harry Heilmann and Bob Fothergill the team has three of the first five batters in the league. It isn't the most finished fielding combination in the league, but base hits cover a multitude of fielding sins.

Cobb Slowed Up
Cobb probably will not be missed as much as it might be figured at first glance. He slowed up so much last season that he benched himself and played little late in the season. The spirit of the club should not suffer by his departure.

The team hasn't any pitching strength to waste, but there aren't many clubs in the league that have pitchers to spare. The Detroit pitchers—Whitehill, Holloway, Johns, Wells and Dauss—are not the weakest combination in the league, and with strong hitting behind them they do not have to be as tight on the defense as pitchers on a club that doesn't have such a heavy attack.

Moriarty has ability and personality. He is not inclined to Cobb's field tactics, but he can be just as hard if he has to be. His experience as a player and later as a manager should have qualified him to think heavy and "master mind," and if the breaks go good for him the Tigers may be the biggest surprise of the year.

Long and Short of It

Presenting Infielder Emory Rigney and Pitcher Bryan Harris, the short and long of the training camp of the Boston Red Sox in New Orleans. Harris and Rigney both are from Texas, but Harris makes almost two or Rigney in height. By United Press
NEW YORK, March 31.—Eddie Roush, holdout center fielder for the New York Giants, will be given a compromise offer of $25,000 on a one-year contract, it was reported today. Judge Frank McQuade, treasurer of the club, who returned from Florida, said the Hornsby stock case and the Roush holdout situation were "marking time." McAllister Likes Spirit of Club

By Jack McAllister

Manager of the Cleveland Indians
Written for the United Press

LAKELAND, Fla., March 31.—After watching the developments in our training camp, I feel sure the Indians will be as good this year as they were last year. I am not claiming the pennant, but I am certain we will be one of the contenders. We can't fill Tris Speaker's place this year, of course, but while there may be a weakness because of the change, the team has been strengthened by the purchase of Lou Fonseca and by the improved form of Willis Hudlin, one of our young pitchers.

There is a fine spirit on the club and the boys feel they will do at least as well as they did last year, and I do also.

HOOSIERS WIN AGAIN

CHICAGO, March 31.—The margin of one basket spelled victory for the Ft. Wayne professional basketball team over the Chicago Bruins in the closing game of the American Basketball League season. The score was 21 to 19.

A. B. C. MEET

Few Changes in Standings of Pin Tourney.

By United Press
PEORIA, Ill., March 31.—Few changes resulted following Wednesday's events in the annual American Bowling Congress.

W. Benda, Davenport, Iowa, retained his hold on first place of the singles for the day by rolling 653. This incidentally placed him in sixteenth place in the all-events.

In the doubles events J. Steppacker and N. Karnages, East St. Louis, Ill., retained their first place position by rolling 1,232.

The Reading Realtors and the Boyle's Values, entered in the five-man event, were the center about which a new ruling was made.

The Realtors rolled 2,877 while the Values rolled 2,826, and the secretary of the congress announced all-boys would be changed for the singles and doubles events today.

The Chicago bowlers threaten to walk out of the congress if the ruling is enforced.
