

BOARD AGAIN IN BUILDING CLASH

Park Heads Seek to Learn Authority Extent.

The park board has renewed its fight to determine its authority to regulate business buildings within 500 feet of a boulevard.

The board today was to consider the case of Frank Woolling, whose now famous filling station permit was obtained after Circuit Judge Harry O. Chamberlain threatened Building Commissioner Bert Westover with contempt of court charges if a permit were not issued.

Woolling was refused a permit by the park board and board of zoning appeals.

Motorcyclist Harold Edwards was ordered to stop erection of the filling station by Woolling's contractors early Wednesday and the order later rescinded, until the board further considers the matter. An arrest as a test case was considered.

Superintendent Walter R. Jarvis was ordered by the board on May 12 to instruct park policemen to prevent business buildings within 500 feet of a boulevard.

Park Board Secretary Clarence Myers learned that Woolling had obtained from the city engineering department a permit to cut curbing which had been denied by the park board.

Workmen in shifts toiled through the night to beat the next park board move.

CHERRIES ON MARKET

Southern Indiana Fruit Makes First 1927 Appearance.

Home-grown cherries made their first appearance of the season at the city market today. They are from the southern part of the State, selling at 20 to 25 cents a quart.

A scarcity of mushrooms has caused the price to advance to $1.25 a pound, while peaches, which came on the stands last Saturday, dropped 5 cents to 30 cents a basket.

Long watermelons are cheaper than when they arrived nearly two weeks ago. They have dropped from $2 to $1.50 and the large round melons are now being offered at the same price. The round melons were not available before today.

THREE NEW PASTORS

Licensing Features Methodist Greenwood Session.

Licensing of ministers featured the annual conference of the Indianapolis district, Methodist Church, at Greenwood Wednesday. New ministers receiving licenses are: John H. Hanger, Dr. Paul Stuch, Dallas Church, Arlington Church pastor; C. V. McMillen, Nineveh circuit. Thirty-three, old licenses were renewed.

An oratorical contest on prohibition, fostered by the temperance and morals board, will take place at the N. Meridian St. church here Friday evening.

CLOSED BAR IS NO INCOME TAX ESCAPE

Hotel's Plea Turned Down by U. S. Appeal Board.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 2.—A hotel cannot get credit on its income tax for "obsolescence of good will," because the country went dry and it lost much high-class bar patronage, the United States Board of Tax Appeals has decided.

The Secor hotel of Toledo, alleged obsolescence of good will for 1919 in the sum of $100,611.40. After July 1, 1919, the opinion sets forth, the "tax payers" bar lost the patronage of those who came for the purpose of obtaining their favorite beverage. The bar, together with the fixtures, were used for other purposes than the sale of liquor.

In this decision the Government officially decided the bar was conceived to good fellowship in the old days.
