

YOUTH SOUGHT IN SLAYING OF RICH MOTHER

Quarrel Over Gambling
Debts Believed to Have Led to Crime.

By United Press
CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Every known acquaintance of Harry Hill, suspected of killing his wealthy mother in Streator, Ill., was under police surveillance today as additional circumstantial evidence was revealed tending to link the youth with the crime.

Detectives advanced the possibility that Hill had committed suicide by jumping into Lake Michigan when he learned yesterday afternoon that his mother's body had been found buried under the floor of the cellar of her home in Streator, Ill., one of the show places of the town.

A warrant formally charging young Hill with the slaying was issued today by State's Attorney Russell Hanson of La Salle County.

From evidence gathered by investigators in Streator, Hanson today advanced this theory of the shooting.

Quarreled Over Money

"Hill and his mother had been quarreling about money matters."

"We know of five checks, amounting to between $250 and $150 each, on which Harry either forged his mother's name or signed them 'per Harry Hill.' They were cashed between July 22 and Aug. 13."

"On the latter date, Hill registered at a hotel and stayed there two days. It is probable the shooting was committed a day or two before."

"The slayer evidently waited until Mrs. Hill had gone into the basement of her home. As she ascended the stairs to the first floor, according to indications, the slayer fired a shot from behind which struck her behind the ear. The bullet lodged in the wall but had been removed."

Buried Under Foot

"Then the body was dragged across the cellar into a remote corner and buried."

"Hill stayed around town a few days and then left for Chicago. He told every one who questioned him, including Alice Sawyer, whom he was to have married next month, that his mother was out of town."

"While evidence was being gathered against his son, Dr. H. C. Hill, divorced husband of the dead woman, employed two attorneys to assure Harry of a fair trial if he is captured."

Known as "The Fish"

The boy, whose habitual gambling losses earned him the title of "The Fish," is known to have spent Monday night with a friend in Chicago. Since then a city-wide dragnet has failed to divulge his whereabouts.

Another theory was drawn from the remarks of William Bryges, the friend at whose home Hill stayed. Bryges told police Hill had said his mother threatened to disinherit him because of a proposed marriage.

His father, a prominent physician, is said to have in-

RECLAMATION IS DEFENDED

Jardine Charge Expected By Interior Department.

*Times Washington Bureau
15th and New York Avenue*
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Instead of reserving remarks that Secretary of Agriculture Jardine has been making against reclamation work and irrigation farms, officials of the Department of the Interior say that they expected them.

One official declared Secretary Jardine was playing to the farmers of the Middle West and East when he said money should no longer be spent in reclaiming arid lands.

"Reclamation is not subsidizing the irrigation farmer," said P. W. Dent, acting reclamation commissioner. "It is developing desert lands so that they will produce crops.

"Irrigation farming is more expensive than ordinary farming and those raising crops on reclamation projects enjoy no advantages over the farmers of the Middle West and East, who live on land made tillable by nature rather than artificial means."

Dr. Hubert Work, Secretary of Interior, says the Interior Department is not seeking to promote any new reclamation projects, but is anxious to complete those it has already started. This completion work will take ten years.

Asserts Way to Perdition Paved With Parked Autos

Wabash (Ind.) Minister Also Denounces Modern Dances.

By Times Special

WABASH, Ind., Aug. 24.—Take it from Rev. Forrest A. Reed, pastor of the South Side United Brethren church here, that it may be the fast, recklessly driven car that causes physical harm, but it is the parked auto that wrecks morals.

Addressing a sermon to young women, in which he assailed the modern dance along with parked cars, declaring that in the face of today's opportunities for sin, "The wonder is not that some young people go wrong, but that so many escape."

Of the modern dance, Rev. Reed said:

"It is a reversion to the lowest practice of savage people and different from any previous generation of American life. In all circumstances and in all stations, it tends to weaken that which is worst in those who participate. I am not declaring that every girl who dances is immoral, but I do declare that the tendency of the modern dance is to take off the fine edge of the modesty of both young men and young women."

William A. Genes, 71, prisoner in the county jail here, is talking. He faces a charge of bigamy and a divorce suit filed by his third wife, Mrs. Rose Genes, 60.

Relating his troubles with women, Genes said his first wife died and that his second wife, Mrs. Monica Richardson Genes, obtained a divorce March 1, 1926, with $5,000 alimony. In his own defense, the prisoner says he has lapses of memory due to effects of a blow on the head when a child.

The Saturday Night Club has sent $7.35 and three unknown donors have sent in sums bringing the total up to $14 for aid of the family. Mrs. Condon has expressed much appreciation.

"I certainly want folks to know that their interest lightens my burden," she said. "I am also thankful to The Times for letting folks know about Mr. Condon. Maybe somebody will recognize him and let me know."

DECREE IS HELD UP

Chaplin Settlement Threatened by $35,000 Difference.

By United Press
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—The $2,000,000 Chaplin divorce was threatened with legal dissolution over a thriving $35,000.

Charles Chaplin, the movie comedian, miscalculated the amount of receiver's fees for the Chaplin community property and the burden of the debt falls on his former wife, Lita Grey Chaplin.

Attorneys for Mrs. Chaplin said the amount, $35,000 was too much for her to pay.

Meanwhile, the interlocutory decree is being held up by the court.

Chaplin in a secret agreement had assented to be responsible for receiver's fees of $10,000, but the total receivership fees was $45,000.

The United States has 133 physicians to every 100,000 persons, according to a recent survey. In England there are 92, in Germany 51 and in France 53 to each 100,000 of population.
