

ACTIVE LIFE IS LED BY FOCH IN WORK AT PARIS

General Has Thorough Contempt for All Forms of Praise for Himself.

This is the third of a series on the life of Marshal Ferdinand Foch, written for the United Press.

BY A. L. BRADFORD, United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS, Sept. 7.—When he is at Paris, Marshal Foch leads an active life as president of the Allied Military Committee of Versailles, the organization which controlled the disarmament of Germany, until the recent transfer of that question to the League of Nations.

Foch rises at an early hour, and about 9 o'clock goes to his headquarters, Boulevard Des Invalides. He immediately goes into conference with his chief of staff, General Barattier and then goes over the pile of letters that is found every morning on his desk.

As in the case of the mail of all world figures, Foch's letters contain many curious requests. Most numerous are the simple requests for autographs. There are many letters from women. One of these ladies asked Foch to pin the Sacred Heart on the French flag. One enterprising American business man asked Foch for authorization to parade the former Kaiser in an iron cage across the United States.

Presides at Ceremonies After he has finished his mail, Foch turns to the morning newspapers to acquaint himself with the news of the world. He carefully reads the news, and at times he shrugs his shoulders with a movement of displeasure when he remarks a published error concerning his own work.

Foch has a thorough contempt for all forms of praise.

"Write whatever you like concerning me," he said one day to a newspaper man, "it will effect me about as much as if I were that bronze statue that you see on the mantel-piece."

Until noon, when he is not occupied with the deliberations of the allied military committee or the conference of ambassadors, Foch receives visitors who have sought audiences with him.

After lunch, the marshal is back at his office reading or writing reports. He frequently presides at various ceremonies. Every Thursday without fail Foch goes to the session of the French Academy, where he holds a seat as one of France's "immortals."

GARAGE WORKER BELIEVED SLAIN

Skull of Man Found Overcome Under Car Fractured.

Theory that Jesse Sampson, 76, night watchman, found fatally injured in the W. E. Beard garage, 125 N. East St., Tuesday morning, was murdered by burglars he surprised at work was advanced by detectives today.

Sampson died at city hospital. Hospital attaches at first believed that he had inhaled poisonous gas and had been overcome.

After examining the body, Coroner C. H. Keever, however, declared that Sampson had been murdered as he found a skull fracture of more than four inches long.

"A fall could never cause a fracture like that," Keever said. "Besides a large piece of the skull had penetrated the brain. The injury was inflicted by a severe blow from a blunt instrument. We found no trace of gas in his lungs."

Sampson's daughter, Mrs. Paul Griffin, with whom he lived at 436 1/2 E. Washington St., said he never carried large sums of money.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Gadd funeral parlors, 2130 Prospect St. Burial will be in Round Hill cemetery. His daughter is the only survivor.

TWO HELD IN BRAWL

Man Injured in Argument After Refusal of Another to Buy Alcohol.

Alleged refusal by Lon Morris, 405 1/2 W. Ohio St., to buy James Monday, 54, of Greencastle, Ind., denatured alcohol to drink, resulted in a brawl at Ohio St. and the Canal Tuesday night.

Police found Monday beaten about the head and his hand badly cut. He said he cut himself while attacking Morris with a knife after the latter beat him with a club. Both are charged with assault and battery.

La Porte Team Captures Stock Judging Contest

The La Porte County team won the junior livestock judging contest at the State Fair Monday, Prof. C. F. Gobble of Purdue University, in charge of the event, announced on Tuesday.

Prizes were awarded Merlin A. Porter, Russell Brown and James Bowell, members of the winning team by Guy Cantwell, State Board of Agriculture president.

They will represent the State in the national contest to be held in December at Chicago during the International Livestock Exposition. Hancock County boys were second and Fulton County third.

Besides getting the Chicago trip with all expenses paid, the boys retain possession for a year of the $150 silver cup given by the Belt Railroad and Union Stock Yards of Indianapolis.

President S. E. Rauh put up a new cup this year, the other having been won for third time and permanently last year by the Henry County team, which tied for fifth place this year.

The La Porte team ranked high over the other thirty-nine teams, placing first on beef cattle, horses, hogs and sheep. First place on dairy cattle went to Dearborn County, but the five high teams on this class of livestock will compete today for the right to represent the State in the national dairy cattle judging contest.

Ed Driver, 17, of Aurora, won a $100 scholarship to the Purdue School of Agriculture for placing high in individual rating over the 120 boys in the contest. Merlin A. Porter of the winning team was second high and he won a $75 scholarship to Purdue. High scoring individuals in judging different classes of livestock were Ed Driver, Aurora, on beef cattle; Harold Tremps, Centerville, on dairy cattle; Merlyn, Kingsbury, horses; Raymond Knots, Kokomo, on hogs, and Royal Alexander, Huntington, sheep.

The cash prizes of $870 are provided by the State board of Agriculture and Kingan and Company.

JUNGLE TUNES TO BE FEATURE

Negro Baptists to Sing at Denver Parley.

By United Press

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 7.—Jungle tunes which had their origin hundreds of years ago in the Congo will be heard in Denver for one week beginning today when thousands of negro Baptists, delegates to the Baptist convention here, contribute their negro spirituals to the convention program.

While leaders in the Baptist church consider matters ranging from baptism to architecture, a great negro choir will interest song writers from various parts of the country, here that they may set down strange negro music that has been heard by few people outside the native haunts of the negroes. Many of these tunes, in reality mere scraps of fervent rhythm, were brought to the southern states years ago by slaves imported from Africa.

As the years rolled by, the songs were modified. A bit of stridency was eliminated. A little more melody was introduced. Finally the songs of the African natives evolved without conscious effort on the part of any one into musical gems which are said by many critics to be the most deeply religious church music ever sung.

At the convention here, music most of these songs will be written on paper for the first time.

Piccadilly Realty Company owns in fee simple 135x122 feet at the northwest corner of Pennsylvania and Sixteenth Streets upon which it is erecting what is expected to be one of the finest store and apartment buildings in Indianapolis, consisting of a nine-story and basement pressed brick building heavily trimmed with stone, containing fifty-six apartments of from three to five rooms and a seven-room bungalow on the ninth floor, in addition to stores and doctors' offices on the ground floor. It is planned to finish the apartments in the best style possible consistent with good taste, including such items as tile baths, cork floors, electric refrigeration, soft water, oil paint on walls, mahogany doors with glass handles and silver hardware and enameled woodwork.

In spite of the superior advantages of this building, it is planned to rent the apartments at the moderate rentals of from fifty to eighty-five dollars per month, which will show estimated gross revenue of $51,840.00 and estimated net revenue of $38,090.00. We have been advised that a large part of the space in the building has already been applied for.

The complete property has been very conservatively appraised at $454,420, which affords ample security for the $300,000 preferred stock, which is safeguarded with all the usual features of the time-tried MEYER-KISER plan through which the preferred stock in effect approximates the security of a first mortgage.

Legality of the issue will be approved by Smith, Remster, Hornbrook & Smith. Complete circular giving more details of this issue will be furnished upon application. Orders may be wired or telephoned at our expense.
