

CITY MANAGER LEAGUE DEMANDS LEGISLATURE CALL

REPEAL OF BILL SAVING DUVALL IS GROUP'S AIM

Special Session Is Only Way Out of Present Muddle, Says Resolution.

CITY NAME SMIRCHED

Jackson Urged to Act at Once, to Repair 'Wrong Done State.'

A special session of the State Legislature to repeal the mayor savior bill which prevents Indianapolis citizens from having the city manager form of government they voted in last spring until the end of John L. Duvall's term was demanded of Governor Ed Jackson today.

The executive committee of the Indianapolis City Manager League adopted resolutions declaring that this demand was made because the special session is the way out, and the only complete way out, of the present political muddle.

The resolution declares: "The affairs of the city of Indianapolis under Mayor Duvall have been and are being administered with such complete and utter disregard for the best interests of the citizens and taxpayers that the government of the city has been brought into great disrepute in the estimation of the people throughout the entire United States.

Conditions are growing worse and it is impossible to forestall what may result if the situation is not corrected by restoration of rights of citizens."

The Governor is called upon to summon the Legislature not only to repeal the mayor savior law, but to make "all necessary amendments to the law of 1921 by which the people of this and other Indiana municipalities can establish without further delay a nonpartisan form of government."

The committee "calls upon all good citizens," and "upon all business and civic associations and all organizations representing groups of good citizens" to join in this demand.

Commenting upon Governor Jackson's siding with the politicians when he signed the mayor savior bill, the resolutions say: "Had the Governor and the members of the Legislature been able to foresee the inevitable wrong which their action has done to the citizens of Indianapolis and other cities of the State, we believe they would have refused to interfere with the orderly processes which the people were employing for improvement of their government."

City Hall Excited
Meanwhile, the atmosphere was tense at city hall. Majority faction members of city council held a conference with Duvall, after which the mayor kept himself in his chambers incommunicado and only one councilman would talk.

He was Boynton J. Moore, who has been talking for two weeks about impeaching the mayor. He was not so certain this afternoon. City hall observers did not believe an impeachment resolution would be introduced at tonight's council meeting.

Moore said he asked the mayor to "cooperate" with city club leaders, who have been demanding resignations of Duvall and Mrs. Duvall, the city controller. He said Duvall replied he would "go 50-50, but not give up everything."

Chamber of Commerce civic affairs committee also met at lunch.
