

MANY WORKING FOR PRIZES IN DIANA CONTEST

$100 Offered in Easy Hunt for Words; Rules Are Printed.

BY THE DIANA EDITOR
Help! Hundreds are after that $100 in cash being offered in my word contest.

That $25 first prize must look good: also that $15 second and $10 third prize. And the rest of the prizes listed below.

And simple? Say, honestly it's the easiest contest in the world.

All you must do is to ascertain the largest number of good English words you can construct from the letters contained in this line:

DIANA IN THE TIMES.

You see, "Diana" is the name of the new serial story which starts Monday in The Indianapolis Times. In that story are many words that can be constructed from the above line.

One contestant wrote me, asking if the word "detest" is O. K.

That's a fine word and if you follow the letters in the prize line you'll find that you have two "e's" and two "t's" and an "s" and a "d".

So "detest" is allowed.

Incidentally, that will give Times readers an idea of how to work out the contest. When you get one word, forget it and then start right over again.

When you complete your list, count the words and mark the number on the first page.

The rules:

1. Only English words contained in any modern standard English dictionary.

2. Proper names will not be counted.

3. If you include proper names your entire list will be thrown out.

4. Abbreviations will not be counted.

5. Quotations will not be counted.

6. Words past and present tenses, etc., can be used.

7. Words the singular is used compound words past and present tenses, etc., can be used.

8. Sentences or presentation will be considered in final judging.

9. In no word must you use a letter more than once that appears in the word "Diana" in The Times.

10. The decision of the judges named by The Times will be final; there will be no appeal.

11. The contest begins now and ends at 2 p. m. next Friday, Nov. 4.

12. Address your list to The Diana Editor of The Indianapolis Times.

THE PRIZES

First—for the most good English words—$25.00
Second—for the next largest number—$15.00
Third—for the third largest number—$10.00
Fourth to Eleventh (inclusive) largest number ($5 each) 4.00
Next ten largest numbers ($1 each) 10.00

LAUDS EARLY HERO

C. of C. Hears Lockridge Tell of Revolution Thrills.

Thrilling incidents which resulted in success of the Colonists in the Revolutionary War were described at the Chamber of Commerce open forum luncheon Friday by Ross F. Lockridge of Bloomington.

Lockridge told of the glorious achievements of George Rogers Clark, against almost unsurmountable obstacles in breaking the English hold on the northwest territory.

"The chief Revolutionary war historic spot west of the Alleghany Mountains is located in our own State of Indiana. It is old Ft. Sackville, near Vincennes, capture of which by Clark and his half-starved band of patriots resulted in opening up of the Northwest territory," said Lockridge.

WFBM and The Times Will Broadcast First 'Bridge by Radio' Game Tuesday

The third series of radio auction bridge will be inaugurated by radio station WFBM of Indianapolis, in association with sixty-seven of the leading radio stations in America and Canada Tuesday, Nov. 1. The games will be broadcast for twenty consecutive weeks from the largest chain of stations ever lined up for an international broadcast. The broadcast will start at 8:30 p. m.

The summary of the game will be published exclusively in The Indianapolis Times the day following the broadcast. This account will appear every Wednesday, beginning Nov. 2. The advance hands will be published in previous issues, so that the hundreds of devotees of the game may play the hands and then compare their judgment with that of the leading authorities in the United States.

Milton C. Work and Wilbur C. Whitehead, New York, two leading authorities of the game, will play each week against representatives of cities in this country and Canada. Outstanding bridge players of urban centers have been chosen to participate in the games, so that each game will be a championship contest.

Either Work or Whitehead will comment on the bidding and play personally at the close of each game. The discussions by Work and Whitehead will be given from the New York studios and will be heard over the entire chain of the Red network.

The games are so arranged that the radio audience can play the game bid by bid and play by play with the authorities on bridge,

U. S. EVIDENCE NEAR CLOSE IN OIL DEAL TRIAL

Government Is Expected to Finish Case Tuesday; Recess Today.

By HERBERT LITTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—With the Government's conspiracy case against former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair virtually completed after two weeks of evidence, the trial resuming from the lease of Teapot Dome Naval Reserve today was in recess until Monday.

Prosecutor Owen Roberts plans to call Robert W. Stewart, chairman, Standard Oil Company of Indiana, as the last witness on the Continental Trading Company phase of the indictment, seeking to show Sinclair passed 230,500 in Liberty Bonds to Fall.

United States to Close Tuesday

Stewart may testify on a Government charge which so far has not been established by "eye-witness testimony." That is, that Sinclair was a Continental stockholder, and thus, in a position to receive certain profits in Liberty Bonds traced to Fall's possession.

Afterward, the Government will present evidence dealing with Sinclair's admitted loan of $25,000 in Liberty Bonds to Fall in 1923, after Fall retired from the Cabinet. The Government charges this loan was a part of the conspiracy to defraud the Government.

The Government probably will close its case Tuesday, and the defense will start at once with a notable array of witnesses.

Resume Story of Contract

Charles W. Thomas, former Colorado Senator and Governor, will return to the stand Monday to resume his story of the conference of oil chiefs in New York in November, 1921, on the day when the Continental Company signed contracts to buy 33,333 barrels of oil at $1.50 and selling it to Sinclair and Standard companies at $1.75. Thomas, as attorney for the late A. E. Humphreys, oil producer, was present and wrote the contracts. Sinclair, Stewart, James O'Neill and Harry M. Blackmer, were among those present.

A battle started at adjournment of the trial yesterday will be resumed Monday, over a defense attempt to ascertain from Thomas whether his first draft of the Humphreys contract provided for sale direct to the Sinclair and Standard companies.

HEALTH FUNDS SOUGHT

Six District Meetings Scheduled for November.

Methods for obtaining funds for furtherance of health work and tuberculosis associations in Indiana are to be discussed at six district meetings. Each meeting will take the nature of a Christmas seal institute.

The meetings will be held at Indianapolis, Oct. 31; Ft. Wayne, Nov. 1; South Bend, Nov. 2; Lafayette, Nov. 3; Evansville, Nov. 8, and New Albany, Nov. 9.

Murray A. Auerbach, executive secretary of the Indiana Tuberculosis Association, will have charge. The meetings will be attended by hundreds of tuberculosis executives.

NEW TURKEY IS 4 YEARS OLD

Celebrates Westernization and Birthday.

By United Press
ANGORA, Oct. 29.—Turkey is today celebrating two anniversaries: the proclamation of the republic and the beginning of the nation's westernization. Both occurred Oct. 29, 1923.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the first president of the new Turkish republic, led the way to both happenings. His activities resulted in revolutionary changes which are generally being inaugurated throughout the Fall's possession.

Soon after the one-time Ottoman empire was proclaimed a republic, century-old Turkish traditions were altered and gradually numerous important changes were made in some of the oldest customs of the East.

Throughout the today—which was declared a national holiday—the entire country is celebrating not only the fourth anniversary of the republic, but also the satisfactory conclusion of Turkey's westernization.

Robert Bryson, chairman of the public utilities division, told of the organization among public employees and urged the members of his division to do their utmost to make their sections a 100 per cent unit.

Government Art Ready

"Our plans were completed and things looked promising for a 100 per cent drive in our division," he said. Today it is different. Salaries of teachers, policemen, firemen and other public employees are being held up. But despite all the obstacles, the public employees will meet their quota. Just as soon as the city treasurer honors vouchers for salary checks, we will begin to measure up to the standard," he said.

George Torrence, chairman of the railroad division, announced he is completing plans for a race among the various railroad companies to see which one will report 100 per cent first. Chairmen of the four other divisions explained their plans.

QUEEN MARIE IS 52 YEARS OLD; HAS QUIET DAY

Watches Political Turmoil From Background: Marriage Talked.

By United Press

BUCHAREST, Oct. 29.—The loneliest queen in Europe celebrated her fifty-second birthday today.

Pushed to the background of public attention while her grandson, 6-year-old King Michael, occupies the throne his father, Prince Carol, is seeking, Queen Marie spent her birthday dreaming of the great adventure that started 35 years ago, when she married Ferdinand, and which ended recently on his death.

One of the interesting features is that advance hands will appear in The Times previous to the broadcast of the game. By this means, bridge players are able to play the game in their own way and then compare their judgment with that of the experts.

Interest in foreign countries has been especially keen, as many letters are received asking that reprints of the game be mailed to them. Among the countries heard from are England, France, Spain, Russia, China, India, Scotland, Ireland, Hawaiian Islands and Alaska. Quite a number of letters were received from ships in the Pacific and Atlantic waters.
