

THWARTS MOVE BY COUNCILMEN TO OUST SLACK

Members Advised Adversely
by Assistant City
Attorney.

Assistant City Attorney Don Roberts today admitted "some councilmen" sought advice from him as to whether they could "unseat" Mayor L. E. Slack at the Monday night meeting.

Slack was elected two weeks ago to succeed Mayor Pro Tem. Claude E. Negley, who was named after council declared a vacancy in the office of mayor.

Roberts advised three council leaders that Slack was legally elected in his opinion, it was understood.

Opinion Is Asked

It was reported Councilman Walter Dorsett called Roberts to the caucus chamber Monday night and asked his opinion. Boynton J. Moore and O. Ray Albertson were alleged to be willing to vote with Dorsett if they "could get two others."

It was reported Council President Negley and Austin H. Todd, who did not vote for Slack, were asked to join the faction desiring to rescind the council's action.

Dorsett and O. Ray Bartholomew, Republican majority faction members, voted with Edward B. Raub, Robert E. Springsteen and Millard W. Ferguson to elect Slack.

Adjournment Approved

It was said Bartholomew refused to vote with Dorsett, Moore and Albertson.

Roberts told the councilmen they could reconsider the action providing a written notice was filed by a member who voted with the majority before the meeting. This was not done, he said. There was doubt as to whether the special meeting was adjourned.

The minutes of the council show the special meeting was adjourned by a minority, permissible under council rules. Even though the special session at which Slack was elected was not adjourned officially a meeting cannot go on indefinitely and in two weeks automatically adjourns itself, Roberts was said to have advised the councilmen.

The councilmen vigorously denied they had considered such a plan.

"I want to support and not knock Slack," Dorsett and Moore said.

DRIVER GETS 120 DAYS

Man Sent to State Farm for Hitting Woman's Car

Wilbur Lacombe, 28, was fined $60 and costs and sentenced to 120 days on the Indiana State Farm by Municipal Judge Paul C. Wetter on charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated. A fine of $25 and costs was suspended. Lacombe's five-ton truck collided with the parked car of Miss Elizabeth Bennett, 731 Park Ave., Sunday.

COLORED WHISKY FOUND

A four-gallon keg of colored whisky, a sack of corks, two bottles of coloring, a quantity of caps, a camping machine, and hose were found at the home of Arthur Threewits, 434 S. Addison St., by a raiding squad Monday.

The officers said they learned the liquor was owned by a man now awaiting trial in Federal Court.

INDIANA'S BOYS AND GIRLS WIN AT STOCK SHOW

Calves of 4H Club Members
Shown at Cleveland Yard.

By Times Special
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 22.—Indiana boys and girls, enrolled in the 4H beef and calf clubs of the State are back home after a week at the annual calf club show held at the Cleveland Union Stockyard. Each of the last two years, Hoosier club boys have captured the grand championship honors in this show, and while they did not win the grand prizes this year, they brought a fair proportion.

Sixty-two club members from this State exhibited, according to a report today, by Harry F. Ainsworth, assistant State club leader, who, with Miss May Masten, assistant girls' club leader, were in charge of the party. Hoosier club exhibitors brought $240 in cash, two silver cups and one medal.

The Washington County group, with four Angus and four Hereford entries, was in the prize money with each animal and won a cup for the record of having the most calves of any one county to figure in awards. The other cup also went to Washington County when Wyatt Gibbons, Salem, showed the best steer of any in the Indiana group. Last year the Angus calf shown by the same boy was adjudged grand champion of the show and sold for $375 a pound, a world's record. The medal went in a class of sixty-four head.

Fifty-seven Angus steers lined up in competition in this breed and eleven of the fifteen prizes came to Indiana boys and girls, although the first prize calf later chosen as grand champion was an Ohio entry.

All the calves were sold at the end of the show and the highest price for any of the Indiana entries was for an Angus, sold by Geraldine Miller, Peru, at 33 cents per pound. In the group competition, first and third places went to Washington County, second to Miami, fourth to Sullivan and fifth to Clinton. All of the Indiana calves averaged 20 cents a pound.

The following calf club members placed:

Angus—Wyatt Gibbons, Washington County, fourth; Mark Mill and Geraldine Miller, Miami County, fifth and sixth; Roger Wright, Washington County, seventh; Nevin Howard, Miami County, eighth; Warner Boyer, Clinton County, tenth; Vance Stanley, Washington County, eleventh; Raymond Cooper, Miami County, twelfth; Esther Hartman, Whitley County, thirteenth; Robert Brown, Washington County, fourteenth, and Claire Edgerton, Grant County, fifteenth.

Hereford—Forrest Harris, Sullivan County, third; Robert Fry, Whitley County, fourth; Ralph Hinds, Washington County, tenth; Alga Gibbons, Washington County, twelfth, and Keltie McCoy, Tippecanoe County, thirteenth.
