

PUBLIC TO GET FULL HEARING ON BUS CASE

Changes in Routes Will Be Made Only After All Voice Objections.

CONFERENCE IS CALLED

Civic, Welfare and Labor Representatives Invited to Tuesday Parley.

"Every man, woman and child in this city will be given opportunity to voice sentiments concerning the proposed changes in bus routes, before the commission will take action," Chairman Frank T. Singleton, of the public service commission announced today.

Singleton has invited presidents and representatives of civic organizations, welfare movements, the Central Labor Union and Chamber of Commerce to attend a conference in the House of Representatives at 10 a. m. Tuesday to discuss the changes the street railway company desires to make in its lines with those of the People's Motor Coach Company, recently purchased.

"Paramount Importance"

"Transportation in a city of this size is of paramount importance and the commission believes that no step should be taken in this problem without a knowledge of the sentiment of the people. Every person using the buses has a right to have a voice in the matter," Singleton said.

Many civic leaders have notified the commission they will attend. Once the commission approves the street railway company's petition, contemplated changes in bus service will be made without delay, said Robert I. Todd, traction president.

"We are eager to get the plan in operation," he said. "Within a very few days after approval, changes will be put in effect."

The petition seeks authorization for a universal 2-cent transfer and to coordinate lines according to a plan of Superintendent James P. Tretton.

Features of the plan:

Central Ave. feeder lines will be abolished and through service to the Circle maintained on a five-minute schedule.

Half the Central Ave. buses will turn east on Keystone Ave. and the other half continue on to Sixty-First St.

Two buses will be added to those operated on Central Ave. by the Peoples Motor Coach Company, four to the New York St. line, and one to Brightwood.

Present feeders will be maintained on W. Washington St., Capitol and English Aves. A feeder to the bus at Thirtieth St. and College Ave., or the Delaware car line, will be operated on Thirty-Eighth St.

Buses will continue on Thirtieth St. and a feeder sent over Martin Dale Ave. across Twenty-Fifth St. to Sherman Dr.

Routing of the Tenth St. feeder line will be changed from Rural across Sixteenth and out New York St. to Chester Ave., thence to Tenth St., east to Garfield Ave., back to Sixteenth and East to Bosart. This service would be provided every fifteen minutes.

Fifteen-minute service also will be given on Arlington Ave. Part of the Brightwood buses will be routed out Twenty-First St.

Total buses in service will be fifty-eight, under the new plan. Under the old management, the People's company operated thirty-seven.

MORGAN HOME TO HELP NAME STEEL CHIEF

Return From Scotland Is Omen of Selection at Tuesday Meeting.

BY ELMER C. WALZER

United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Gossip on Wall Street today turned from the stock market to speculation on the meeting of United States Steel directors after the market's close tomorrow.

The billion-dollar corporation at this meeting is expected to elect its second chairman since its organization twenty-six years ago. From that time until his death Aug. 15, last, Judge Elbert H. Gary held the post, building up one of the mightiest corporations on earth.

At each directors meeting since Gary's death the same rumors have been circulated about an appointment together with a list of prospective candidates for the office. Each time the decision had been deferred, due it was said, to the absence of the most influential director, J. P. Morgan who was in Scotland.

Morgan to Attend Parley

Morgan will be present at tomorrow's meeting.

With him also will be George F. Baker, another director of prestige in the organization.

Gary, Baker and Morgan have been classed as the "big three" of steel.

Choice of a candidate to take Judge Gary's place is a difficult task.

Judge Gary developed with the steel industry, ever changing his views to conform with the better labor conditions and modern methods in corporation structure.

James A. Farrell, president of the corporation, a co-worker for many years of Judge Gary, has been talked of as the most likely candidate for the position.

Farrell Is Mentioned

He cannot handle both the president's job, which includes direction of the business and general supervision of the machinery of production, and that of chairman, the latter requiring close application in determining policies of the vast organization.

However, conduct of the organization's policies is relatively easier position to fill than the presidency, hence there is a possibility of another assuming that position.

There are two others whose connection with the company fit them to assume the chairmanship.

One of these is Myron C. Taylor, close associate of George F. Baker, and a director of the First National Bank, of which Baker is chairman. Baker's recommendation will carry great weight in the final decision.

The other is Nathan L. Miller, former Governor of New York State and attorney for the corporation. Miller's close connection with the company's affairs makes him able to assume duties to the chief executive officer.

Coolidge Out of It

Pierre S. du Pont, chairman of the board of E. I. du Pont, was eliminated automatically when the Federal Trade Commission made an investigation of du Pont's purchases of United States Steel stock.

Dwight Morrow, former Morgan partner, was out of the running when he accepted the post as ambassador to Mexico.

President Calvin Coolidge was mentioned, but interests close to him stated he would not accept even though the position were tendered.

Orlando F. Weber, president of Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation, was mentioned shortly after Gary's death, but his name has been dropped.
