

BOOM RAUB AS NEW HEAD OF CITY COUNCIL

Negley Successor Will Be Chosen Jan. 2; Todd Is Candidate.

A successor to President Claude E. Negley of the city council will be elected Jan. 2 at noon.

Council rules provide the election shall be held at noon of the first Monday in January.

Councilmen, six of whom are under grand jury indictment have not manifested the usual interest in the election. There was considerable "politics" before the election last year, the choice of Negley being an upset.

Raub Has Support
Councilman Edward B. Raub, Democrat, has been mentioned prominently for the post and is believed to have the support of the largest faction.

M. W. Ferguson, Democrat, and Walter Dorsett and Otis Bartholomew, Republicans, who voted with Raub and Robert E. Springsteen, a Democrat, are considered likely to support nomination of Raub.

Politicians are speculating on whether the "four horsemen" composing the majority faction will split on the election of a council president as they did in the election of a mayor.

Todd Is Candidate
Austin H. Todd, dentist-councilman, erstwhile deputy sheriff and coroner, has let it be known he is a candidate for the presidency.

Some believe the majority faction will seek to elect Bartholomew, who at various times has had political ambitions.

KONJOLA BROUGHT AMAZING RELIEF TO MAN AND WIFE

"Can Walk Without Cane," Says Mr. Baxter; Wife Also Restored to Health.

In every section of Indianapolis there are dozens of homes where Konjola has restored somebody's health. This new medicine has received over a thousand endorsements from people right in this city. A never-ending stream of letters are received by The Konjola Man at Hook's Drug Store, Illinois and Washington Sts., where large crowds continue to visit him daily. These crowds are mostly men and women, who are suffering from stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles, and rheumatism or neuritis.

Among the thousands already benefited by Konjola, none is better known than Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Baxter, 1928 Valley Ave., Indianapolis. Mr. Baxter's statement reads as follows:

"I am a man of 78, and I have suffered with rheumatism for years. Sometimes I was laid up entirely, and when I did walk I had to use a cane. My joints were stiff and aching and the pains were terrible. My stomach also gave me a lot of trouble, and I suffered with headaches. This Konjola not only ended my stomach trouble and the headaches, but it cleared all the poisons from my system and now I am entirely free of all the aches and pains of rheumatism. I can walk without a cane. I hardly know what to make of it. This medicine has helped me in many other ways. I don't have dizzy spells like I used to and I sleep good. I will be glad to tell anyone about your new remedy."

The statement of Mrs. Baxter reads as follows:

"Konjola is the first medicine that really ended my stomach and kidney trouble. I was suffering from the worst kind of indigestion, pains. Every bite of food would hurt me. My kidneys were so weak that I had to get up 6 and 7 times a night. I had pains in my back and was dreadfully nervous at all times. That was my condition, but now I am feeling like I never had a sick day in my life, and I owe it all to Konjola. My food agrees with me, and my nerves are stronger and I never have any trouble with my kidneys. The night rising is ended, and I don't have back-aches like I used to. I think it is wonderful to find such a medicine as Konjola, and I want to endorse it."

The Konjola Man is at the Hook Drug Store, Illinois & Washington Sts., Indianapolis, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is sold by every Hook store in this city and by all druggists throughout this section.

They Picked Her Right

They do appropriate picking in the movies. But never so well as when they picked the latest part for Clara Bow. The fiery-haired queen of Hollywood has been cast as the lead in "Red Hair." That kind of pickin' can't be beat, and all Hollywood will swear by that.

Barring Girls From Y. W. for Faith Is Ballot Test

Vote Is Withheld From Jews, Christian Scientists by U. S. Rule.

Whether Catholics, Christian Scientists, Jews and girls who belong to no church, shall be admitted to voting membership in Young Women's Christian Association will be voted upon by Indianapolis members Jan. 28. The question will be decided finally in a national convention in April.

An amendment to the national constitution proposes that full membership shall be based not upon membership in a Protestant church, but upon mere personal subscription to this purpose:

"I desire to enter the Christian fellowship of the association. I will, loyally endeavor to uphold the purpose in my own life and through my membership in the association."

The Y. W. C. A. does not bar girls of faith other than Protestant from gym classes and other activities, the only privilege withheld being the vote.

"The fairness of barring these girls from voting while inactive or indifferent members of the specified church have the right has been our problem for the last twelve years," said Miss Florence Lanham, membership secretary.

"The change is not particularly needed in Indianapolis," she said. "It would, however, benefit the policy of 'fellowship' of our organization."

DOG ROUTS CAR THIEVES

Even Policemen Have Trouble With Auto Deserted in Street.

Dr. Harry S. Mackey, 4309 Central Ave., prizes his bulldog more than ever today. Tuesday night thieves took Mackey's automobile from its parking space near the Statehouse.

From all appearances the dog put them to rout, for the car was found deserted a short distance away in the center of the street.

Lieut. Patrick O'Connor reported that the dog fought to keep police out of the automobile. They pulled automobile and dog to a garage.

EXPERTS STUDY BLONDES, CATS AND SLAYERS

Mind Sharps in Convention to Decide Why Tabby Comes Back.

BY JACK POWER

United Press Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 28.—Some 300 mental diagnosticians-knives vivisectionists, who specialize in the genes, powers, and functions of the human mind—gathered at Ohio State University today for the thirty-sixth annual meeting of the American Psychological Association.

Every phase of psychology, our feelings, reactions, emotions and why, in short, we do what we do, were discussed by the psychologists who exchanged ideas in a symposium. Nor were the discussions taken up by the idiosyncrasies of the human mind. Animal instincts and the why of them were laid bare.

To the psychologist, so said those here, there is not a little of truth in the statement that gentlemen prefer blondes—while intuition exists no stronger in the female than in the male.

Why Cat Comes Back

They will explain, too, they said, that the instinct that "causes the cat to come back" is merely due to a good sense of direction.

As for the murderer returning to the scene of his crime, those modern metaphysicians contend there is some psychology to the assertion—"a murderer invariably will return to the spot of his wrongdoing."

"Thought of the crime," said Prof. H. E. Durt of Ohio State University, host to the visiting psychologists, "continually will prey on the mind of the criminal and eventually lead him back to the place where it was committed. It is merely the mental reaction to the physical action that brings him back."

Not 'Vague Opinion'

In the opinion of Prof. Edward S. Robinson, New Haven, Conn., the belief that psychology is merely "a matter of vague opinion" is erroneous.

Experimental tests have borne out, he said, that practical psychology, as well as psychology from the theoretical standpoint, is one of the useful sciences of the world today.

Psychology, in all its forms, is to be taken up during the three-day discussions. Today was given over to general and experimental psychology.

Tomorrow, discussions will be held on clinical, social, abnormal and educational psychology and mental measurement.

She Learned

By Times Special

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 28.

—You can take it from Iona Marsh, 18, that Newcastle, Ind., is a pretty good town. Iona, tired of what she thought was a drab life, ran away from her home at Newcastle and came to Evansville, for a round of wild life in a big town. She's in jail here now waiting for relatives to come and take her back. She told police during a week here she had been "out with lots of boys" and "had some wild times." But now, Iona says: "I'll never try the big time stuff again, once I get back to Newcastle."

BANK MEN FREE UNTIL JANUARY

—No. 3 Head—See Puzzle—
Arraignments in Kokomo Cases Delayed.

Luther F. Symons, State bank commissioner, and Thomas D. Barr, his deputy, indicted Saturday by the Howard County grand jury on charges of official negligence in connection with failure of the American Trust Company of Kokomo, will not be arraigned until the second week in January.

The Howard Circuit Court is now in recess and will reconvene Jan. 9. Change of venue probably will be asked by most of the eleven persons indicted Saturday.

Bonds of $1,000 were posted Tuesday by Symons and Barr and four others indicted with them: Frank S. Owens, president of the bank; Lonnie Warner, brother-in-law of W. H. Arnold, former president; former partner in the National Bank of Sheridan. This action, it was reported, will be in compliance with McIntosh's suggestion that the resignations should follow the indictment.

Dispatches quoted Davies as saying he had no fear of the outcome of any investigation of his connection with the bank at Kokomo.

WORK TO LIFT SUB AIDED BY MILD WEATHER

Diving Operations Will Be Resumed Today; Victims 'Officially Dead.'

By United Press

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Dec. 28.

—The weather was expected to permit a resumption of diving operations at the scene of the submarine S-4 disaster today.

An increasing wind and rising sea forced a suspension of the salvage work Tuesday after divers had placed a reeving line around the stern of the sunken submersible and started boring a second tunnel. Although there was a rather heavy swell this morning, there was only a light northwest breeze and it was believed more of the work preliminary to raising the tomb of forty seamen could be accomplished during the day.

It had been announced that the emptying of the flooded compartments of the S-4 would not begin until the second tunnel had been completed and reeving lines had been placed around the hull at three points.

Uplike Asks Probe

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Appointment of a special congressional committee to investigate safety devices for submarines so that the S-4 disaster might not be repeated was urged today by Representative Uplike
(Rep.) Indiana, member of the House Naval Affairs Committee.

Secretary of Navy Wilbur has proclaimed the S-4 victims officially dead.

"The Navy Department," Uplike declared, "has been grossly negligent in the past by not taking some steps to equip their submarine with some safety devices."

Uplike said he was "very much surprised at the attempted answers" by Secretary Wilbur to questions regarding the disaster.

Mengus was shot in the abdomen by Walter J. Slate, 2901 Central Ave., manager of the bakery, when Mengus and three other bandits relaxed their vigilance as they started to take money from a strong box which Slate had just handed over.

George Adams, 21, another bandit shot by Slate, still is in serious condition.

ford City, has set Jan. 16 for trial

Twelve-year-old Corinne Frijle is in city hospital today and her stepmother, Mrs. Ruth Frijle, 2441 Dexter St., is in jail.

Aroused by the child's screaming, neighbors called police. The girl told them that her step-mother had become angry with her and hit her on the head with a wooden potato masher.

She then thrust the child down the cellar stairs and hurt her leg, she said. Mrs. Frijle faces charges of assault with intent to kill.

VARE BALLOTS ORDERED INTO SENATE PROBE

Committee Will Recount in Checkup of Elections; Start Jan. 17.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Two Senate committees were preparing today for renewal of their investigations into the Smith-Vare election cases.

Chairman Shortridge of the Privileges and Elections Committee was making arrangements with David Barry, sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, to collect ballots cast in the Pennsylvania senatorial election won by William S. Vare.

Senate Has Ballots
Meanwhile Chairman Reed, Democrat, Missouri, of the special committee, is making ready for hearings on the Illinois election in which Frank Smith was the successful candidate. They are to start Jan. 7.

Shortridge plans to start a recount of the Pennsylvania ballots if the committee succeeds in having them collected. Some of the ballots are already in possession of the Senate, but most of them must be collected from election officials.

Vare filed an answer last week to the contest brought by William B. Wilson, his unsuccessful opponent in the election. He had previously demanded a recount of all the ballots.

No Recount for Smith

The task of collecting and counting the ballots will require several weeks. They are scattered over fifty-six places in Pennsylvania. Shortridge said the count would probably be conducted by Representatives of the two Senate committees and the two contestants.

No recount will be necessary in the Smith case since his opponent did not contest the election. The Reed committee will merely take additional testimony and then proceed to the Vare case, reporting to the Senate on both.

By agreement between the two committees, testimony taken by one will be available to the other. This, it is hoped, will avoid duplication of effort.
