

TWO VOLUMES IN BEVERIDGE'S LIFE OF LINCOLN

Work Will Be Off Press in Fall of This Year, Says Publisher.

"The life of Abraham Lincoln," by the late United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Hoosier author, will contain more facts about Lincoln's earlier life and his times than ever before has been assembled.

Houghton Mifflin Company, publishers, made this announcement to day in connection with a statement that the book will be published in the fall of this year. The Lincoln work will appear in two volumes, illustrated and sell for $12.50.

Mrs. Beveridge is spending the winter at Beverly Farms, Mass., aiding Worthington C. Ford, secretary of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and others in preparation of the manuscript.

Wide Study Was Made

"With his unique, driving energy, Senator Beveridge got, at first hand, sources of Lincoln's life and for the history of this time never before considered by any other Lincoln biographer," said R. L. Scaife, Houghton Mifflin Company representative, who was here at the time of Mr. Beveridge's death.

"He personally read literally hundreds of thousands of pages of legislative journals, contemporary papers, account books, court records and contemporary manuscript correspondence. He brought to the consideration of this material a realistic mind of the first order, free of all prepossession, undelayed by legend and sentiment," Scaife said.

Book in Two Volumes

"The facts are marshaled in the compelling order and presented with the eloquence and dramatic force of which Senator Beveridge was master. The book is beyond question the definitive work of its subject and period, and one which will be read with profound interest and enlightenment by every American."

"The Life of Lincoln," projected like the "Life of John Marshall," in four volumes, was planned to take up the story and carry it, from the point of view of the life of Lincoln, down through the Civil War. The untimely death of the author prevented this conclusion. Beveridge had finished the first two volumes, bringing the narrative down to and through the Lincoln-Douglas debates, which led to Lincoln's nomination for the presidency. They complete, therefore, the story of the preparatory phases of Lincoln's life."

LARGE LEASE DEALS CLOSED

Two City Transfers Involve

Total of $100,000.

Leases on two properties totaling more than $100,000 for a ten-year period, have been closed by the State Property Company, owners, it was announced today.

In one deal, Taubman's automobile accessory shop took over as new quarters a storeroom, 41 S. Illinois St., formerly occupied by a Levinson hat store.

In the other, Chester Wilson, former owner and operator of the Altenberg hotel, N. Meridian St., leased the Drexel Arms apartment, southwest corner Illinois and St. Clair streets. He will remodel it for use as a residential hotel.

The latter was negotiated by E. Kirk McKinney, manager of the real estate department of the State Savings and Trust Company. The Taubman lease was closed through Albert Frankel of the same company.

Taubman's was forced to new quarters recently when his present site on West Washington street was taken over by Rauh's, Inc. The old Altenberg hotel will be razed to make room for the Indiana World War Memorial Plaza.

The Drexel Arms is a four-story brick apartment house, containing one, two and three-room apartments. Future plans will include the establishment of a dining room and other hotel features.

"They Don't Answer" Saves Life
By United Press
NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—A chance telephone call saved the life of Frank H. Trautman, who, weakened by sickness, had fallen against a gas jet and opened it. The caller, getting no response, investigated and found him unconscious.

Equipment Destroyed in Blast to Be Replaced; Costs $16,500.

Purchase of a new De Laval steam turbo-blower to replace the machine which exploded Sept. 20 at the sanitary department power plant has been authorized by the sanitary board.

The board acted unanimously on the recommendation of Consulting Engineer Charles H. Hurd, who suggested replacement with the same type of equipment. A representative of the Dravo-Doyle Company, Pittsburgh, distributors, was awarded the contract for $16,500.

Hurd said it has not been determined what safety precautions will be required, but that the emergency and safety governing devices will be improved.

The new turbo-blower probably will be installed by May.
