

signal for a truce in the destructive political warfare in Indiana that has so ruthlessly slandered the good name of the State. The Jackson case was purely political. The scandal that arose over it had the stench of putrid politics. The time has come now for sober, constructive thinking, a decision to sidetrack personalities, present issues, and make an uncompromising demand for a reformation of political practice in Indiana.

DECATUR DEMOCRAT (Democratic)—Governor Jackson should feel happy. He no doubt does, for we believe he had an awful dread of being committed to prison for his crime. His offense is sufficient that he should resign as Governor, for his chances to do anything creditable for the State are small.

The public has its opinion, regardless of the outcome of the trial, and it's a sorry mess for Indiana.

Doesn't Think He'll Resign.

EVANSVILLE COURIER (Independent)—The only satisfaction he (Governor Jackson) possibly can get out of it is that it keeps him out of the penitentiary.

A Bible teacher, an active church worker, the darling of the Anti-Saloon League and backed for Governor in 1924 by Stephenson and the Klan, Ed Jackson is a living illustration of the brand of politics that has dominated our State government and many municipal administrations for the last six or eight years. It goes without saying that Ed Jackson should resign as Governor. But here we are under no delusions. He won't resign.

Gasoline Juggernauts to Burn Up Florida Beach in Speed Carnival

NEW speed history may be written in the international speed trials at Ormond-Daytona Beach, Florida. Builders of cars entered in the trials feel certain they will be able to wrest from Major Segrave, the Britisher, the world record for fast driving. Major Segrave in his Sunbeam did 203.79 miles per hour on the Florida course last year.

In the above pictures, you see: 1 and 3, the rear and front respectively, of Capt. Malcolm Campbell's huge British-built Bluebird, which is driven by a twelve-cylinder aviation motor of about 900 horse power; Campbell sent his car thundering over the sands at 193 miles an hour in a test run Friday; 2, Campbell; 4, J. M. White's Triplex, driven by three motors of twelve cylinders each, totaling 1,500 horse power; inset, White; 5, the design of Frank Lockhart's long, slim Stutz, with a motor of sixteen cylinders in line. At the lower left is the broad sweep of the beach over which the racing cars will catapult at a furious pace.

White's Triplex has been refused recognition for the International Trials by the American Automobile Association because it has no reverse gear. But White is expected to conduct some trials of his own. He is a Philadelphian, and built the strange car himself.

His machine represents sheer brute strength. Lockhart's car, built with the advice of wind tunnel experts, is but twenty-four inches wide, and is mosquito-like by comparison with the other two.

Ormond-Daytona Beach is the only place in the world where such speed efforts are possible. It is twenty-seven miles long, and 500 feet wide at low tide. The surface is like a billiard table's. Many automobile engineering problems of great importance are tested in the speed trials, such as reduction of wind resistance, overcoming vibration, tire strength, steering mechanism design, valve action, and general functioning of motors and miscellaneous accessories.

CAPITALIST IS SHOT TO DEATH IN HOTEL ROOM

Four Bullets in Body Throw Doubt on Theory of Suicide.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Police today continued investigation of the death of Robert Livingston Ireland, 60, retired capitalist and coal producer, whose body was found late Friday at the Hotel Seymour, with four bullets in it.

The body, lying face downward across his bed, was discovered by his wife, Mrs. Mary Esther Wood Ireland, when she returned from a shopping tour.

Four Bullets in Body

Dr. Charles Cassasa, assistant medical examiner, who viewed the body, pronounced it as suicide and although police were at first agreed, the fact that there were four bullets in the body led them to start an investigation.

Mrs. Ireland, who was in a state of collapse when police arrived, said she had left her husband early in the afternoon and at that time he appeared to be cheerful. They had luncheon together and he returned to the apartment.

She returned at 7:30 p. m. and found him dead. A revolver lay on the chiffonier about two feet from his right hand. His coat and vest were on a chair nearby and there were blood stains on the dresser and also on a photograph of Mrs. Ireland nearby.

Question Suicide Verdict

Police said the position of the body indicated that Ireland probably had stood in front of the mirror and fired the shots into his body. However, the suicide verdict was questioned, because either of the bullets were sufficient to have caused death.

Mrs. Ireland said her husband recently had suffered a heart attack and had been worried. He had been under the care of a physician.

Not So Bad

Wabash College Professor Defends Modern Youths.

By United Press

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 18.—Young people of today should not be blamed for taking advantage of conditions in which they find themselves, and 95 per cent of them are better than their parents, Prof. George Tapy, of Wabash College, declared in an address before a local club.

"The parents created the present conditions," Tapy declared, "and they alone are to be blamed for the reaction our so-called 'Flaming Youth' shows toward this condition. Youth has always been a problem to its elders and the present generation is no exception."

Prof. Tapy said he believed natural inhibitions of civilized nature would prevent youth from going astray, and that it would correct indulgences due to present lax conditions.

As a clinching argument Tapy said: "If the youth of today are in the wrong, they will realize it in a few years and take steps to prevent their progeny from following in their footsteps."

In a round table discussion following the lecture, led by Principal Burgess of the high school and Dean Kendall and Prof. Tapy, of Wabash College, members of the club agreed that at least 95 per cent of modern youth is of good moral character. They estimated this percentage is higher than that of the two or three generations preceding the present.

It was pointed out that if this were not the case, the 5 per cent who are admittedly bad, could not achieve the notoriety they get.

SEEKS NEW TRIAL

Stephenson Wants Chance to Testify for Himself.

A writ of coram nobis, petitioning for a new trial for D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana Klan orator, is being prepared, Olin R. Rioli, Kokomo, Ind., attorney, announced Friday.

The writ will be filed before Judge Will M. Sparks of Rushville, who sat as trial judge at Noblesville when Stephenson was sentenced to life for the murder of Madge Oberholzer, Indianapolis girl, in 1925.

The petition will state that Stephenson was under duress during the trial and did not take the stand in his own behalf, because his life was threatened. It also will point out that the court erred in not requesting Stephenson to testify.

Stephenson, during the trial of Governor Ed Jackson this week, testified he was "afraid to testify," because his life was threatened by Hiram W. Evans, Imperial Wizard of the Klan.

WORKMEN TO REALIZE DREAM

Power Transmission to Mean Country Homes.

By United Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Development of power transmission is bringing nearer realization the workman's dream of a home in the country, a garden and chickens, according to Alexander Dow, president of the Detroit Edison Company.

Dow, here attending the Midwest Power Conference, told the United Press this dream rapidly is becoming possible.

"As power transmission develops," Dow said, "the small manufacturer and even larger industries will carry their factories and business to the source of production or to the cheapest land."

"This means the workman will follow his work to the smaller villages, where it will be possible for him to enjoy the things denied him in a congested city."

"He will be able to have his garden, his chickens and an ample supply of fresh air untainted by smoke."

ELOPERS RECALL OWN ROMANCE TO JUDGE

Refuses Request for Injunction Re-membering Youth.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—A judge who eloped forty years ago today faced the problem of deciding whether to permit a young couple who eloped ten days ago to live together despite objections of the bride's mother.

Mrs. Bertha Johnson, a widow, asked for an injunction to prevent her daughter, Ellmore, 17, from living with Hector Schaffer, 21.

"She is too young to know her own mind," said the mother.

"We love each other," said the couple.

Judge Sabath recalled that he was 17 when he eloped. He refused the injunction, but agreed to rule today on Mrs. Johnson's plea for annulment of the marriage.

Terrific Earthquakes Predicted for Sunday

By United Press

FAENZA, Italy, Feb. 18.—A series of earthquakes Sunday night in Alaska, Mexico, Yugoslavia and Italy, to be followed by "new terrific disturbances" in Africa and the far East on Feb. 26, 27 were forecast today by Professor Bendandi, noted seismic expert.

A statement issued by Professor Bendandi, whose successful forecasts of earthquakes have made him world famous, said: "A series of powerful earthquakes again is imminent in various zones of the globe."

"These telluric crises will begin Sunday night with violent quakes in Alaska, followed by minor repercussions in Mexican provinces and also in southern Yugoslavia."

"These earthquakes will synchronize with slight registrations in Italy."

"This resumption of seismic activity will be followed by a brief period of calmness."

"Then, at the end of the month—namely, on the 26th and increasingly on the 27th—new terrific disturbances will be registered in Africa and the far East."

By Times Special
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 18.—Boys who expect proposals this leap year from the girl students of the Indiana State Normal here will have to meet several requirements set forth by the young women in a questionnaire submitted by The Advance, school paper. These replies from women were in answer to a questionnaire filled out by student men telling the kind of wives they wanted.

Following are some of the women's answers:

"A tall, red haired, good looking, old fashioned man."

"A man—he must have it."

"An athlete with dark hair and eyes, slender, the sleek type, and a good sport."

"My man must have money, brains and looks."

"Wanted: A tall dark complexioned, rich, keen, and intellectual man."

"One that is educated, polite, good looking, and has money."

"Must have good looks, money, honesty, not flirty, good to wife, and one that has stepped out before."

"Personality plus, tall, black hair, no line, a million dollars, and is not too tight."

Looks Don't Count
"I do not care for looks, but want a man to comply with my wishes, considerate, and a capable lover."

"I want a good looking, rich traveling man."

"He must have a good mind, a clean body, and a religious experience and absolutely on the square."

"Must be on the square and then he will be all that the ideal includes."

"Must have a pleasing personality, respectful, cultured, have high ideals and energetic ambitions."

"A man who is as intelligent as I am, one whom I can respect, and one who will respect me. Must be courteous and kind."

"Not too intelligent, common sense, though; a good personality, not too good looking, and one that

FARM LAND DUE FOR 'COMEBACK'

Will Follow Cattle Market Trend, Expert Says.

By Times Special

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The price of farm land is due for a strong comeback, according to President D. P. Hogan of the Federal Land Bank of Omaha, who has been here conferring with the Federal Farm Loan Board.

It will follow the trend of the cattle market, he states.

"Cattle were too high and there were too many cattle," he said. "In 1920 a period of drastic deflation set in and cattle declined in numbers until recently evidence of a distinct shortage sent prices 'skyrocketing.'"

"Those who held on to their cattle, in spite of adverse conditions, and those who bought cattle within the past few years, are now reaping rich rewards."

"Land prices were too high in 1919. Prices began to tumble. Considerable land was held on thin margins and was forced into the market."

"But now it is apparent that the reduction has gone too far. It won't be selling at bargain prices much longer."

WHIM OF JUDGE MAY RESULT IN QUIZ RENEWAL

Bread Trust Case Likely to Be Reopened by U. S.

By ROSCOE FLEMING
WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Because a Federal judge resented being compared to Pontius Pilate, the whole case involving the government's action against the once proposed two billion dollar "bread trust" of the Ward interests may be reopened.

Federal Judge Morris A. Soper, of Baltimore, has been notified that he may appear before a subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee, to testify his action in signing the so-called consent decree entered into by Department of Justice and Ward attorneys, which stopped organization of the two billion dollar baking combine.

Report Criticized Soper
Soper asked for chance to appear because of the report made by the majority members of subcommittee, Senator Walsh of Montana and Senator Borah of Idaho, criticizing Soper, calling Attorney General Sargent derelict in duty, and attacking the Federal Trade Commission.

When the two billion dollar company was announced in spring of 1926, the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice already had under investigation the Continental Baking Company, largest of Ward's companies, with sixteen individual units.

Consent Decision Given
The Department of Justice instituted action against the proposed combine. Consent decision was arrived at, by which organization of the two billion dollar merger was stopped. In addition, the decree, signed by Judge Soper, April 3, 1926, stipulated that the Department of Justice proceeding against the Continental should be stopped, on the ground that the Federal Trade Commission was investigating it.

But the Federal Trade Commission had dismissed its own proceeding against the Continental on the previous day, so that the company was relieved from both Federal inquiries almost simultaneously.

When the subcommittee investigated the proceeding last year it was told by Abram P. Myers, then a member of the Department of Justice staff, and now a member of the Federal Trade Commission, that he had informed Soper of the commission's action, but that he signed the decree nevertheless.
