

APPOINTMENTS SHOW COFFIN STILL IN G. O. P. SADDLE

STRENGTH SEEN IN NAMING OF NEW DEPUTIES

Frank Brattain Appoints 140 Assistant Township Assessors.

PREPARE FOR ELECTION

Move Expected to Boost Cause of County Chairman for Re-Election.

Unhampered by the Criminal Court charges which still hang over him, Republican County Chairman George V. Coffin still is running the organization.

Politicians remarked this again today when they scanned the list of appointments of 140 deputy township assessors named by Assessor Frank Brattain.

Lieutenants of Otis Dodson, Coffin's bitter political foe, had let it be known the Dodson forces might pick up a bit of prestige through landing a majority of the assessors.

The deputies list, property for taxation during March. The jobs generally are regarded as reward for political service performed or promised.

Coffin's term as county chairman ends this spring. He is building his fences for re-election.

Brattain had been regarded, before he became assessor, as a Dodson man. Coffin men and women, however, landed most of the deputy assessors.

The appointments, as announced by Brattain: Louie F. Lewis, Henry Kugelmann, Arthur P. Bruner, Carl E. Koons, Max Caplan, Charles A. H. Clauer, Byron C. Smithy Won't Be Downed

W. H. Little

Every profession has its "ups and downs," including that of the village smithy.

So when W. H. Little, 60, horseshoer of 909 W. New York St., went down under the heels of an equine customer, he didn't desert the emblem of the fraternity he proudly displays on his bosom.

"I'll stick to horseshoeing," he says, nursing three painful ribs. "There's a kick in it."

Little refused a police offer to take him to city hospital, saying: "Such things will happen in this business."

Champion Coffee Drinker to Feature Food Show

He'll Eat All Given Him, Too; Baby Contest to Open Today.

One of the feature attractions today at the Indianapolis Pure Food and Household Appliance Show in the Cade Tabernacle is Albert Baker, world champion coffee drinker.

Baker travels from town to town giving exhibitions in coffee drinking, and has been engaged by show officials to give demonstrations at 4:30 and 9 p. m. daily on the stage.

Between coffee orgies, Baker will stroll the aisles of the show, eating anything offered him by exhibitors in the seventy-five booths. That is, anything that is food.

As an additional stunt, Baker announced he will give away a "real live baby" Saturday night.

Baby Show Opens
The show today is dedicated to the Retail Grocers and Meat Dealers' Association of Marion County, and every grocer's wife attending the show will be given free flowers.

The baby show is scheduled to open at 2 p. m. with judging of babies up to seven months of age.

Mayor L. Ert Slack spoke Monday night in opening the exposition. A line was formed at the entrance as door opened at 7 p. m. and housewives and others strolled through the tabernacle until the last light had been extinguished at 10:30 p. m.

Safety Pledges Made
Monday was given over to city employers and employees of the Indianapolis Star and The Indianapolis Times.

More than 7,000 persons attending the opening Monday night to hear the address of welcome by Mayor L. Ert Slack, Mike and Ike, Irvington midgets, gave Mrs. Slack a bouquet.

More than 100 safety pledges were made by motorists at the booth of the accident prevention bureau of the police department and the Hoosier Motor Club in charge of Lieutenant Frank Owen. The booth centers around a coffin, emblematic of the result of careless driving.

TRAFFIC TOLL IS THREE DEAD IN TWO DAYS

Victim's Body Identified by Son; Aged Woman Dies From Injuries.

Three persons have died and seven others suffered injuries in automobile accidents in the city since Sunday.

Bled Stewart, 24, of Greenfield, Ind., died this morning at city hospital as the result of injuries in a traffic accident Monday. His brother Floyd is in serious condition.

Harry Stock, 36, of 2122 N. Jefferson Ave., hauler and transfer man, also is in serious condition, having been struck by a Brightwood street car in front of 2119 Roosevelt Ave. about 10 a. m. today.

Stewart and his brother turned their automobile east into Pratt St., on College Ave., Monday afternoon. Cutting in front of a south-bound street car, they turned directly into the path of a northbound interurban car.

The Stewart machine was hurled 140 and struck an automobile parked at the curb. Both men fell from the machine and Bled Stewart suffered a skull fracture and other injuries.

Steps Into Danger
Stock stepped from his truck in front of the Brightwood street car, according to police report. At city hospital he remained unconscious with a fractured skull and other injuries.

Mrs. Donnie Gamble, 71, of 811 N. New Jersey St., struck by an automobile at Thirtieth and Annette Sts. Sunday night, died at city hospital early today. She suffered a fractured skull.

Norman Glover, 16, of 1229 W. Thirty-Second St., driver of the death car, was charged with manslaughter. Lieut. Frank Owen of the Accident Prevention Bureau is investigating.

Killed in Fall
Jesse W. Jackson, 60, 2136 Winter Ave., was killed instantly Monday afternoon when he fell face downward on the pavement from the running board of an automobile driven by William Colvin, 1701 N. Capitol Ave., at Twenty-ninth St. and Martindale Ave.

Colvin told police that Jackson asked him for a ride at Twenty-fifth St. and Martindale Ave. He sat on the left rear door. At Twenty-ninth St., Colvin's hat blew off and when he grabbed for it, lost control of the automobile. Jackson fell to the pavement, fracturing his skull.

The body was taken to the city morgue where a small identification card bearing the name "Jesse W. Jackson" was found. Colvin was arrested on an involuntary manslaughter charge on orders of the coroner. Jackson's son, William, with whom he lived, identified the body today.

Beside the son with whom he lived, Jackson is survived by another son, Morton Jackson, and a daughter, Mrs. Verna Robb, both of this city. Funeral services will be held Thursday at 3 p. m. at Shirley Brothers' mortuary, 946 N. Illinois St. Burial in Crown Hill Cemetery.

The gospel of safety is the golden rule of modern industry, declared George Opp, safety engineer of the Detroit Edison Company of Detroit, at Foremen's Club first annual dinner at Real Silk Hosiery Mills cafeteria Monday night.

U. S. INSPECTORS HUNT BANDITS

Join Search for Mail Robbers, Missing Loot.

By United Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—More than forty United States postal inspectors today joined in the search for missing members of the bandit gang which Saturday robbed a Grand Trunk mail train of $133,000.

Five men, alleged leaders in the robbery, remained in custody today while authorities searched for the remainder of the loot which had not been recovered. Police reported more than half of the loot, which consisted of pay roll consignments from Chicago banks to factories in the Calumet district, had been recovered.

Search was instituted for Fred Litzinger, wanted as one of the actual participants in the robbery Saturday.

Police maintained that the confessions of Charles (Limpy) Cleaver and William Donovan, arrested Sunday morning, established the entire plot, but activity today centered in recovery of the missing portion of the money and in gathering of additional evidence to present in prosecution of the robbers.

GEORGE DALE IN RACE

Muncie Editor May Become Governor Candidate.

By Times Special

MUNCIE, Ind., Feb. 28.—George R. Dale, editor of the Post-Democrat, who has been in and out of jails several times because of his editorial policies, may become a Democratic candidate for Governor.

Dale is named in petitions being circulated in Delaware County by friends. He said he will not refuse to be a candidate, adding: "As to what my platform will be I will content myself for the present by saying the history of my lifelong editorial battles for cleaner government, should speak louder than any words I might write or utter. Promises mean little, unless the one who makes them is able to show a background of performance."

'JOHN DOE' IS IN JAIL
Elderly Man Refuses to Give Name; Serves Out $50 Fine.

John Doe is serving out a $50 and costs fine in Marion County jail. Hailed before Judge Paul C. Wetter Monday on a charge of disturbing the peace at the Hoosier Athletic Club Saturday night, the elderly man who refused to give police any information about himself asked that he be called "John Doe."

Wetter recognized him, however, as a man who had been before him other times on the same charge and assessed the fine.

Other Two Living Members of Class Unable to Attend Fete.

Fifty years ago tonight twenty-nine young members of the 1877-78 graduating class of the Indiana Medical College stepped forward one at a time on the dimly lighted stage of the old Dickinson's Grand Opera House on Pennsylvania St. to receive their diplomas.

Tonight, five of the seven still living, with a half-century of medical practice behind them, will sit in a box at Keith's Theater, on the site of their memorable graduation ceremony, to witness the vaudeville performance as the closing event of their first reunion.

Dr. James H. Taylor of Indianapolis, one of the five, will be host at the theater party. The others are: Dr. H. B. Tanner, retired physician of Eastland, Texas; Dr. Amos Carter, superintendent of the Indiana State Sanitarium at Rockville, Ind.; Dr. T. B. Plowman of Georgetown, Ill., and Dr. Allen Pierson of Spencer, Ind. Dr. Pierson will be accompanied by their wives.

It was Dr. Tanner, whose five years' persistence revealed names of the surviving members of the class and who travelled 2,000 miles to attend the golden jubilee celebration. The two living members unable to attend are Dr. R. A. Ferguson of Bellair, Ill., who is ill, and Dr. F. F. Whetzel of Chicago, who is in Florida.

This morning the veteran physicians and their wives visited the Indiana University group of hospitals. They were luncheon guests at the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for Children.

This afternoon they met in a session for "business and reminiscing," at the Claypool.

"Now that we've renewed friendships," said Dr. Tanner, "we've got to elect officers for the next fifty years."

DISCUSS PACT WITH BRITAIN

Negotiations for New Treaty to Start Soon.

By C. P. WILLIAMSON

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Formal negotiations for a new treaty of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain will open here and in Washington shortly, it was indicated today.

The British Government now is considering a draft of the new treaty which President Coolidge recently sent to London.

Such a treaty, it is understood, would include recognition by the United States of Great Britain's obligation as a member of the League of Nations and a recognition by Great Britain of the United States' responsibilities under the Monroe doctrine.

Conversations of a highly informal and unofficial character have taken place, the United Press learned, regarding possibility of a pact of non-aggression between the United States and Great Britain.

It is admitted that such a pact might not be possible, but British diplomats, at least, are hopeful that out of the forthcoming arbitration treaty something may be evolved within the present year.

Arbitration treaty negotiations are necessary because the Root treaty of arbitration expires in June.
