

MANY PLANES SEEK TRAIL OF LOST 'AIRMEN

Chesapeake Bay and Region Near By Is Hunted Over Without Success.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—Thirty-three planes and three airships were concentrated today in the search for Commander Ellyson of the aircraft carrier Lexington and two companions, missing since they started a flight from Hampton Roads, Va., for Annapolis, Md., at 2 a. m. Monday to reach Ellyson's daughter's bedside.

Army and Navy craft joined in combing Chesapeake Bay and adjacent territory. The Navy ordered the rigid airship J-3 from Lake-wood to aid.

Strong winds delayed departure of the J-3, but it was expected to join the search later today. Twelve Army planes returned to Bolling field here just before noon without finding trace of the missing plane.

Admiral Hughes, chief of naval operations, offered a $100 reward to any one finding Ellyson, his companions. Lieutenant Commander Schmidt and Lieut. Roger Ranshousen or their Amphibian plane.

Hampton Roads aviators were sent to investigate a report that the drone of an airplane and then a crash had been heard near Horn Harbor, on the eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay, Monday morning, shortly after the fliers started for Annapolis. The information was contained in a telegram from a Mr. Hutchins.

Police Renew Search in City for Kokomo Man.

Belief that Oscar Cook, 19, wanted for the murder of William Leach, 26, at a Kokomo, Ind., dance hall, Monday night is in Indianapolis, was expressed by local police today.

J. D. Dimmitt, Kokomo, telephoned police that he was driving to this city and when about half way here he offered a young man a ride. Later he discovered that the man carried a gun.

Dimmitt said his automobile broke down two miles north of Westfield, Ind., and his passenger hailed another car headed to this city.

Declarer Is Victorious in Radio Bridge Game

PAIRED against Milton C. Work and Wilbur M. Whitehead in this week's Radio Bridge Game, broadcast from Station WFBM, Tuesday night, under auspices of The Times, were two of the South's star players—H. A. Lorick of Atlanta, Ga., and Edward D. Finley of New Orleans.

Whitehead, the Dealer, South, opened the bidding with one Spade on these cards: Spades, K, Q, 10, 9, 6; Hearts, J, 9, 3; Diamonds, Q, 8, 6; Clubs, A, 6.

Lorick, West, passed. His cards were: Spades, A, J, 7, 5; Hearts, 7; Diamonds, 10, 9, 4; Clubs, Q, 9, 7, 3, 2.

Work, North, also passed. He held: Spades, 4, 3, 2; Hearts, A, 6, 5, 4; Diamonds, 7, 3, 2; Clubs, J, 10, 4.

Finley, East, held support for the over the cards suits, so he doubled the Dealer's Spade bid informally. His hand was: Spades, 8; Hearts, K, Q, 8, 2; Diamonds, A, K, J, 5; Clubs, K, 8, 5.

On the second round of bidding, Whitehead passed. Lorick, in response to his partner's double, bid one No Trump. Lorick assumed that his partner had doubled the Spade bid in the hope of a response with the other Major suit, Hearts.

Therefore, Lorick did not consider his own singleton Heart a menace to a No Trump. Since he had the adverse Spades twice stopped, he bid No Trump in preference to his weak five-card Minor, Clubs.

Work passed. Finley also passed. He construed his partner's response as indicating weakness in Hearts and strength in Spades, and therefore concluded that the hand would play to better advantage at No Trump than with either of his own suits, Hearts or Diamonds, as trump.

Whitehead passed. He would have been justified in rebidding had it not been that West, by his No Trump bid, had shown strength in Spades lying over him—probably two stoppers, the Ace and Jack, with one or more others.

Whitehead also considered it futile to go on in the face of his partner's silence.

WORK, North, opened the play by leading the 4 of Spades, the highest of his three cards in his partner's suit. Finley's hand became dummy, and Declarer played from it the singleton 8 of Spades.

Whitehead played the Queen of Spades, the lower of his two high cards in sequence, and Lorick false-carded the 7 to make Whitehead's reading of Work's lead of the 4 more difficult.

Neither Whitehead nor Lorick could draw any certain inference from Work's original lead of the 4 as to Work's actual Spade holding.

A 4-spot might be led as the fourth-best card of the suit; as the lowest of three headed by Ace, King, Queen or Jack; as the top card of three or two; or as a singleton. However, Whitehead, from the fall of the cards and the assumption that Lorick had the suit twice stopped, reasonably concluded that the 4 was Work's highest Spade; and therefore that it was either a singleton or the top of two or three cards.

Thus Whitehead, placing the Ace and Jack of Spades with Lorick, could see that two more leads of the suit would be necessary to establish it; he also realized that meanwhile he probably would be forced to play his Ace of Clubs entry.

But having another possible entry in the Queen of Diamonds, and no good shift, Whitehead continued with Spades, leading the 9 to force the Jack. Lorick played the Jack; North the 3, and Dummy discarded the 2 of Hearts.

Lorick at this point planned his play of the hand. Work's plays of the 4 followed by the 3 of Spades, clearly showed that all outstanding Spades were held by Whitehead, with the possible exception of the 2, which might remain in Work's hand.

ONE more lead of the suit would establish it, but after such lead, to enable Whitehead to bring the suit in, it would be necessary for him to get the lead. There were two Aces outstanding, either of which might serve for Whitehead's needed entry.

However, Lorick was fairly confident that Whitehead did not hold both of these Aces, since, had he held them, he probably would either have rebid Spades or have doubled the No Trump bid.

However, whichever Ace South held, Lorick decided he had to open the Club suit as offering the better chance for establishment and better trick-taking possibilities. In his two hands he held eight Clubs and only six Hearts; furthermore he had a singleton Heart in his own hand.

If Work, North, held no more Spades, the location of the two Aces was immaterial, provided Whitehead, South, did not hold both.

But if North still held a Spade then the fate of the hand would depend upon which Ace was held by South.

Having reached these conclusions, Lorick led the 2 of Clubs, hoping that Whitehead held the Ace, so that it could be removed before the Spade suit was established. Work played the 10; Dummy played the King, and Whitehead the Ace.

WHITEHEAD led the King of Spades, to establish the suit. Lorick played the Ace. He was fully aware that the location of the Ace of Hearts would decide the fate of the hand, but he now confidently placed that card in Work's hand. Work played the 2 of Spades, and Dummy discarded the 5 of Diamonds.

Lorick next led the 7 of Hearts; Work played the 4; Dummy the Queen; Whitehead the 3. Dummy returned the 6; Lorick ducked with the 3, and Work won with the Jack.

Work played Dummy's King, not daring to risk the Jack finesse with two good Spades in Whitehead's hand. Whitehead played the 6; Declarer the 4.

Dummy continued Clubs, leading the 5. Whitehead discarded the 9 of Hearts, retaining protection for his Diamond Queen. Declarer played the Queen of Clubs; Work the 4. Declarer led the 9 of Clubs; Work discarded the 3 of Diamonds; Dummy the 8 of Hearts; and Whitehead a good Spade, the 6 so as not to blank the Heart suit or ungard his Queen of Diamonds.

AT trick ten, Declarer continued with the 7 of Clubs. Work discarded the 5 of Hearts, retaining a Diamond in order not to blank the 10 of Hearts, baring the King. Lorick dared to make this discard from Dummy because he could read Whitehead's holding. Whitehead had discarded Spades down to the lone 10. His failure to discard a Diamond was a strong indication that he held the Queen of that suit guarded.

If it were guarded twice, he could hold no more Hearts and must discard one of his Diamonds on his tenth trick if he wished to retain his high Spade.

But if he held a Heart, it must be the Jack, which he would have to discard to retain his good Spade and protection for his Queen of Diamonds. Whitehead discarded the Jack of Hearts.

Lorick then had Whitehead cornered. He led the 5 of Spades to put Whitehead in and force a lead from him away from his Queen of Diamonds. Work discarded the 6 of Hearts; Dummy the King of Hearts; and Whitehead won with the 10 of Spades.

Whitehead was then obliged to lead a Diamond up to Dummy's Ace-Jack, which gave Declarer, the last two tricks and game. As Aces were high, he scored only his 30 trick points.

Warns Against Colds

New York Health Authorities Out on Danger in "Common" Colds.

In a letter published in a recent issue of the New York Sun, the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association says this about colds:

"This is the season for colds—yes 'common' colds. But like many other things that are called 'common' because they are so frequent, colds are no trifles—far from it.

"Colds take more dollars and cents out of the workers' pocket in one year than any other sickness. They are responsible for a greater loss of time from school and work than any other single cause.

"Colds lead to very serious diseases. Here are the big preventives: Plain, nourishing food; plenty of sleep; six glasses of water a day; frequent bathing (to train the skin to stand changes in temperature); sensible clothing; breathing through the nose; keeping the feet dry; plenty of fresh air by night as well as by day."

When you feel a cold coming on, stop at a drug store and get a box of Hill's Cascara-Bromide-Quinine, the tablets in the red box. Take a couple immediately and cold will break up in 24 hours. Hill's ends a cold quickly because it does the four necessary things at one time: Stops the cold, checks the fever, opens the bowels, tones the system. Costs only 30 cents.

COOLIDGE TOLD OF PLANS FOR FARM RELIEF

Purnell of Indiana One of His Visitors; McNary Bill Revised.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—President Coolidge conferred separately with three men concerning farm relief today.

He learned the House Agriculture Committee will report a bill, probably next week, containing the equalization fee to which he objects. Representative Purnell, Indiana, ranking Republican of the committee, told the President that much, although he said all other features displeasing to the President would be eliminated from the bill.

Earlier, Senator McNary told the President he had revised his bill, but that it still contained the equalization provision.

Senator Coolidge later called Secretary of Agriculture Jardine for a conference, at which the general farm relief situation was reported discussed.

Passage of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill with the equalization fee included was urged today by the entire Minnesota delegation in Congress.

Make Money—Invent!

"Loose Nut" ideas are coming fast, and the latest to fall for the craze is K. V. Ammerman, final tournament manager of the Indiana High School Athletic Association.

For years Ammerman has heard the high school students yell at the basketball tournaments, and his crazy idea is to increase their efficiency through training from birth.

"Why let babies cry promiscuously," he argues. "Why not make it systematically?"

And so here is Ammerman's "Loose Nut." Send in your idea for a crazy invention to the "Loose Nut Editor" of The Indianapolis Times. For every idea illustrated by Lee Williams, Times Cartoonist, and published, The Times will pay $2. And the prize winner also will be given
