

LINDY TO GET HIGHEST HONOR FROM NATION

World's Greatest All-Time Hero to Be Decorated Wednesday.

By Robert Talley
WASHINGTON, March 20.—A bored young man with tawny hair and blue eyes, weary by pompous ceremonies that have marked his path through three continents, will stand before President Coolidge at the White House Wednesday.

Around his neck the President will place a slender blue ribbon of watered silk, dangling from which there will be a five-pointed bronze medal, encircled by a laurel wreath of green enamel.

Thus, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, hero extraordinary, will enter that slender company of 250 living men who have been presented with the Congressional Medal of Honor—the highest award that this nation can bestow.

Climaxes Many Honors
This bit of bronze, hardly larger than a 50-cent piece, is something that other men have fought and died for on bloody fields of battle. To Lindbergh, hero of peace, it merely climaxes a long list of decorations from many governments, a vast collection of honors the like of which was never attained by any other man.

Singularly enough, President Coolidge's formal presentation of the Medal of Honor Wednesday will be made just ten months to the day from the date that Lindbergh hopped off on his history-making flight from New York to Paris. That was on May 21, 1927.

Ten months ago an unknown; today, at 26, a hero throughout the civilized world, cheered by crowds from Paris to San Francisco, decorated by kings and presidents, admired by fathers, loved by mothers and idolized by every boy.

Rivals War Press Space
Ten months tell the story of his rise from obscurity to fame, which has filled more columns in the newspapers than any event except the World War.

At 26, Lindbergh is better known to the world today than any other great figure in the world's history. His fame has rivaled that of such towering figures as Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar, Shakespeare, Columbus, Napoleon or George Washington. His story is probably known to more people today than that of any other man—except, of course, the story of Jesus Christ.

Lindy Off for Capital.

By United Press
COURTNEY FIELD, N. Y., March 20.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from here today for Washington, where he is to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor Wednesday from President Coolidge. He was accompanied by three passengers. Lindbergh last night received the Woodrow Wilson medal and the Woodrow Wilson peace award of $25,000 before a distinguished assembly gathered to pay tribute to him.

As is his custom, Lindbergh spoke briefly last night in acknowledging an honor which has gone to only two other outstanding champions of peace—Viscount Cecil and Elihu Root. The Hotel Astor ballroom was crowded as Lindbergh arose.

"I feel particularly honored to receive this award from a foundation organized in memory of a man who has done so much for mutual understanding throughout the world as Woodrow Wilson," he said. "He was a man who always was at the head of progress and peace and yet who was able successfully to lead his Nation through the greatest war in history when peace was no longer possible."

"I always have believed that aviation would play a large part in the betterment of world understanding. Aviation, I believe, will bring nations together as our Union is now united."

LONDON, March 20.—Four Dutchmen started from Westminster pier Monday on a trans-Atlantic journey in a small lifeboat, which its inventor believes is unsinkable. Jacob Schuittever, 69, its inventor, is captain of the party. They expect to reach New York in forty-six days after halts at Plymouth and the Azores.

The trans-Atlantic lifeboat, named Schuittever after its inventor, is only twenty-four feet long and nine feet wide. It carries no wireless. It uses as motive power one big sail and a foresail. The boat has two helms.

RENEW EFFORTS FOR MEMORIAL

Clark Commission Seeks O. K. on Bill in House.

By Times Special
WASHINGTON, March 20.—Within the next few days members of the Indiana George Rogers Clark commission and of the Indiana congressional delegation are expected to make a determined drive to secure final congressional approval of the bill to appropriate $1,750,000 for a memorial to Clark at Vincennes.

They are much encouraged by a visit made by Representatives Will Wood and Arthur R. Greenwood to President Coolidge last Saturday. While neither representative will quote the President, he is understood to have approved the project.

The bill passed the Senate several weeks ago. Since then it has lain inert in the House Library committee whose chairman is Representative Luce, of Massachusetts. His attitude has been antagonistic toward the bill.

It is believed, however, that the Massachusetts member will find the Administration weight against him and in favor of the bill. Unless the bill passes soon, it may be doubtful whether in the rush which always attends the end of a session, an appropriation to permit work to start on the memorial soon may be put through Congress. The present bill is only an authorization and would not in itself make the money available.

"The Russian Riddle," the question of racial nationalities will be the subject of his address here. All interested are invited, Mrs. Lockhart said.

SERBIA'S FATE BEING VISITED ON NICARAGUA

Richest of All Nations in Central America Is Prey of Greed.

By MAX STERN
Staff Correspondent, Scripps-Howard Newspapers.

MANAGUA, March 20.—Geographically, Nicaragua is divided into its western highlands and its eastern lowlands, virtually two countries. Politically, it is divided into two hostile camps, Liberals and Conservatives. Socially it is divided into its classes and its masses.

If Central America could be called America's Balkans, then Nicaragua is its Serbia. It stands today as a living example of what greed and war can do to a country and its people.

In size it equals New York. It is the largest Central American republic, and it is probably the richest. It abounds in hardwoods, gold and silver, some rubber and possibly oil.

Its soil is unbelievably rich, and with an annual rainfall of 150 inches in the east and fifty inches in the west, it can raise two crops a year. Thousands of acres, fitted to raise coffee, bananas, sugar and tropical fruits are still unexplored.

Contains Great Lakes

It contains two great lakes, one of them, Lake Nicaragua, being the largest between Superior and Titicaca in South America, and a canal route that some day will make the republic a world highway. Yet it supports only 638,000 people and the mass of these live under conditions little above those of oxen.

Aside from 170 miles of poor railroad, 200 miles of worse highway, dim electric lights and whatever other improvements Europeans and American planters and traders have brought in, Nicaragua, in most respects, has not changed in 300 years.

The other day I visited a modern coffee plantation, or finca. It happened to belong to President Diaz, who spends his back-to-back-week-ends in its cool shades. I asked to be shown the living quarters of the migrating coffee workers, then picking the last of the coffee crop.

I was shown into a dark unventilated room in which was a system of wooden shelves six by six and three feet high. I thought I was being shown a rabbit warren until I was told that these shelves were the sleeping quarters of the workers.

Big Profit in Coffee

There's big money in coffee. The planters—Nicaraguan, American, English, German and French—get a return from $20 to $30 a sack. It costs them $9 or $10 to produce it. They could well afford good wages and housing for the workers. The wage is 50 to 80 cents a day, and in board. The hours during the coffee season are from daylight to dark, with an hour for siesta.

Education belongs to the upper classes, and yet in Nicaragua there are no more than 300 college students. The masses are 70 per cent illiterate.

School teachers get $40 a month, cabinet ministers $300 a month, your shine will cost you two cents. The upper classes send their young men to Europe and their girls to finishing schools here; their males oversee their plantations and make war for the spoils of government.

Their women roll elegantly through Granada streets in their open carriages and are made love to under the tropical moon.

Middle Class Is Hope

The hope of Nicaragua lies in a middle class too small to rule, but emerging gradually. Here are real culture. Its men read newspapers, go to books and poetry, its daughters play beautifully on the piano, indulge in the new passion of these countries, the movies, and entertain their friends on warm evenings in stone-floored parlors fronting the sidewalk.

It is upon this soil of the middle class that seeds of peace and democracy are being sown. It will be surprising if there aren't many crop failures in the future, as there have been in the past. The Nicaraguans have been "plundered, profaned and disinherited" largely by their own people.

In desperation they are taking America's helping hand. No more rank betrayal could be recorded if instead of help we brought them new forms of exploitation and new manifestations of greed.

WED 2 MEN, CHARGE

Woman Arrested After Fight With Second Husband.

Mrs. Dorothy Bergin alias Summers alias Freeman, 22, of Detroit, mother of three children, is said by police to have admitted marrying two Indianapolis men without benefit of divorce, when questioned following a fight with one of them in a downtown hotel Monday night.

According to the alleged confession the woman married Martin Bergin, of 734 Massachusetts Ave., in 1921 and had three children. In 1923 she deserted Bergin and married Clair Freeman, of 600 E. St. Clair St., at Shelbyville, Ind., under the name of Dorothy Summers. Five months ago Freeman took her to Detroit and forced her to support him, she said.

Freeman returned here a month ago and her wife came here Sunday with Mrs. Grace Bartlett, of Detroit, to get her children. Freeman, she says, learned that they had registered at the hotel and going to her room Monday night, beat her, took $40 and threatened to have her arrested for bigamy if she did not remain with him and not return to Detroit.

Police were called and both women and Freeman were arrested.

Rucker said that if elected he would "discharge the present commission and put in those whom the people can trust, with every effort made to give the localities involved a voice on the commission or upon the question of their rates."

FOUR HOOVER DISTRICT CHIEFS ARE APPOINTED

Lafayette Man Thrusts at Watson's Attempt to Win State Delegation.

Four new appointments in the Indiana Hoover-for-President campaign organization were announced today by Oscar G. Foellinger, State Hoover manager, as the opening gun in the second week's activities of Hoover's Indiana supporters.

"We have entered Hoover's name in the State primaries; we have explained why; and we now intend to devote every ounce of energy we can command to make Hoover's candidacy in Indiana a successful one," Foellinger said.

"There is a wide-spread Hoover sentiment in Indiana. It is a question now of recording it effectively on May 6 and we are confident that the men picked so far and those yet to be chosen will be competent to perfect the needed organization."

Thrusts at Watson Plan

Today's appointments included: Marshal Bernard, Franklin, Fourth district; manager, Ruskin Howell; Corydon, Third district manager; Edward W. Becker, Corydon; Harrison County manager, and Orville Stevens, mayor of Angola, Stuben County manager.

"These men," Foellinger said, "are strongly of the belief that Hoover is the man for Hoover and that his candidacy is an opportunity for Indiana to work out its political salvation."

A thrust at Senator James E. Watson's plan for capturing Indiana's thirty-three delegates to the national Republican convention for what Hoover men call "trading purposes" was made by Marshall Haywood, Lafayette, in accepting the Tenth district Hoover management.

Issue Narrows Down

Declaring that Hoover sentiment is growing daily in the Tenth district, Haywood said: "The witters unmasking of Watson's campaign plan by William H. Settle, Indiana Farm Bureau Federation president, in a speech delivered before 250 farmers at Lafayette, in which he defined Watson rather as a 'custodian' of Indiana's thirty-three votes to the Kansas City convention than as a fighting candidate for the presidency, didn't help the Watson cause."

"If Watson is borrowing Hoover support simply to pass it on to one of his favorites at the convention, the voters will balk at committing themselves to any such blind bargain."

"It appears that the issue has narrowed down to that of the voter choosing for himself by casting his ballot for Hoover, or leaving it all to Jim."

ENTER RACE TO DEFEAT BRUCE

Maryland G. O. P. Unites for Senatorial Race.

By Times Special

BALTIMORE, Md., March 20.—Determination by Maryland Republicans to retire Senator William Cabell Bruce, Democrat, is seen here in the filing of former Governor Phillips Lee Goldsborough for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Goldsborough is supported by leaders of the several warring Republican factions, who have apparently composed their differences so far as his candidacy is concerned. He is very popular throughout the State.

No hint of opposition to his candidacy has so far developed, and it is not believed any Republican of strength will file against him.

The same situation obtains so far as to Senator Bruce within the Democratic party. He filed some time ago. Bruce's extremely independent stand in the Senate, usually taking the form of lining up with conservative Republican elements, has alienated some Maryland Democrats from him, however.

"With the party united and no primary fight, we should have no difficulty in carrying the State for two such candidates as Herbert Hoover for President and Governor Goldsborough for Senator," said Republican Chairman Tait.

NEGRO JANITOR SLAYS WOMAN IN APARTMENT

Admits Robbery Is Motive; School Teacher Trapped in Bedroom.

By United Press
NEW YORK, March 20.—A native African Negro, slight of build, but of tremendous strength, today had confessed that he murdered Mrs. Helen Chevalier Young in her apartment in Brooklyn Monday.

The woman, wife of a public school instructor and an instructor herself, was found dead Monday morning, just a short time before she was to have opened classes in a Brooklyn public school. She had been trapped in her bedroom, and after a struggle had been shot to death.

Police immediately started a search for Martin L. Miller, Negro, who at one time had been employed as a janitor at the apartment building. He was an agreeable sort and entertaining because of a British accent.

One of the residents of the apartment building had seen Miller in the dumb-waiter shortly after the murder. He explained he had been fixing the lift.

Monday night Paterson, N. J., detectives raided a poolroom and captured Miller. Within an hour, police said, Miller admitted the murder and said he had killed the school teacher, having robbery as the motive.
