

CARTER FIRES FIRST SHOT IN SENATE FIGHT

Attacks Corruption in State and Rivals: Gilliom Speaks Tonight.

BY ROBERT BEARD
Booming guns in Indiana's three-sided Republican senatorial battle resounded over the Hoover political battleground today, threatening to drown the din of the Hoover-Watson clash and the scattering fire of eighteen gubernatorial candidates.

Echoes of Solon J. Carter's opening bombardment rang in the ears of Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom as he rolled his artillery to South Bend. In his home balliwack tonight, Gilliom will pull the firing cord unloading his opening volley on the camp of "super-government" as did Carter, without avoiding personalities, in his home town of Rockville, Saturday night.

Hatched Buzzards

Senator Arthur R. Robinson, incumbent of the post in question, and third candidate in the triangular encounter, was still picking verbal buckshot from wounds suffered in the Senate set-to when he insinuated Al Smith and Harry Sinclair were not strangers.

Carter disposed of D. C. Stephenson, who he said, "bulldied his nest high in the top of a dead tree and hatched the foulest nest of buzzards that this or any other State has ever seen," and laid waste to Governor Ed Jackson, George V. Coffin, Marion County Republican boss, Ralph E. Updike, Seventh district Congressman, Harry E. Rowbottom, First district Congressman. Discreetly avoiding the slightest mention of Watson, he drew up snorting before the names of Gilliom and Robinson, his rivals.

Gilliom, he said, was the attorney general who went through two grand jury investigations of corruption only to report in an address at Vincennes, Oct. 30, 1926, that: "They say that vast corruption exists in the State offices as if the charges prove it. If that is so, you would have heard of it long before this time. . . . I can tell you that I have been authorized by the Governor to spend as much of his contingent fund as is necessary to pursue the investigation that is being made."

Gilliom Deludes

"Thus we see" staid Carter after reading Gilliom's statement, "that this gang not only committed the crimes but concealed them so effectively as to delude and confuse even the Attorney General—the mirror of the law,—and his assistants."

Declaring Jackson convicted by public sentiment although acquitted under the law, Carter said: "It was this same Jackson, who upon the death of Samuel Ralston offered the appointment of United States Senator to Frank Ball, Muncie, and it was this same Jackson who before an answer could be given by Mr. Ball, appointed Arthur Robinson, at the request of George V. Coffin and Clyde Wahl who also is under indictment."

Jackson, Carter asserted, needs the assistance of Coffin, Updike and Robinson to prevent the calling of the legislature to oust him, and Coffin, he continued, needs Updike and Robinson "to keep him from being placed behind the bars."

"If for no other reason, Jackson must remain in the office clothed with the power to pardon so that he may pardon his henchman, Coffin, as a last resort," Carter declared.

"The junior Senator of this State" he continued "has from the beginning been the personal confident, intimate friend, professional advisor and political supporter of every member of this crowd."

Carter promised to uphold enforcement of all laws, including the Volstead Act.

"I am against hypocrisy and I should feel that it would be inconsistent for me to appeal to dry people for their vote, if my law firm was making thousands of dollars every year defending bootleggers, many of whom were arrested by enforcement officers of my selection, as is the law firm of which Senator Robinson is the senior member."

Carter professed to have no "panacea" for the "difficult farm problem" but said "I pledge myself to give to that question my most serious consideration and to do everything in my power to reach a just and equitable solution of it."

Many Here Try Method Hospitals Advise to End Head Colds, Coughs and Chest Colds

Endorsed as Ideal Way to Stop
Head Cold, Cough, Chest Cold
—Pleasant for Home Use

No longer is it necessary to guess in choosing the quickest way to get rid of a stuffy head cold, bad cough or deep seated chest cold. For doctors have endorsed a hospital tested method for home use which is giving hundreds of Indianapolis people the same quick relief that came to C. J. Wren, Estelle Gordon and so many others who have tried it.

C. J. Wren Finds That It Ends
Colds Quickly

Mr. Wren developed a bad head cold which nothing seemed to relieve. He couldn't sleep except to dose off a few minutes and wake up with the feeling that he was being choked. Then he called doctors at the clinic who advised Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients which have relieved even the most extreme hospital cases.
